MR. ROOSEVELT ....AND ANSWER

Centrary to the public expectation, and after much mature deliberation, Theodore Roosevelt accepted the nomination tendered him by the republican politicians at Chicago

In a very lengthy communication Mr. Roose felt tells the committee which waited on him at Oyster Bay that he will accept the favor, and then proceeds to point out a few reasons, covering nearly two pages of close print, why the selection was wise, and calls upon the people of the United States to ratify the deal.

It is an ideal document-without a flawlooked at from the standpoint of the commercial mement in America

It appeals to Rockefeller, Morgan, Gould & has at last realized the inevitable and recognizes of handing out only a slave diet to the men whose can rear our children as intelligent men and

Roosevelt is now the tractable tool in the hands of the men of finance. While still holding over his head the threat of the election of his opponent, they have agreed to his re-election, as it will be much easier to swing the tide to the republican standard than it would to elect Parker.

In defending the act of the administration in extending universal pensions to all soldiers of the Civil war who have reached the age of 62 (half disability) and 70 (full disability) he says:

"It is a matter of common knowledge that when the average man, whe depends for his wages upon bedily labor, has reached the age of 48 his earning ability is, in all probability, issa by half than it was when he was in his prime, and that by the time has reached the age of 70 he has probably lost all earning ability. If there is any doubt upon this point let the doubter axamic the employes doing manual labor in any great manufactory, or on any great railroad, and find how large is the proportion of men hetween the ages at 62 and 70, and whether these men are still employed at the highly paid tasks which they did in their prime."

You will search in vain through the wilderness of words which compose the president's letter, for another sentence which comes near representing the sad condition of the laboring masses of this country. He would assist the men who had served in the army during the civil war, but of the veterans who remained at home, toiling in shop, field and mine,, and whose labor made it possible to do all the things which Roosevelt credits to the veterans, not a

Suppose we analyze the last report of the labor Commissioner and find out just what sort of prosperity the working class of this country is enjoying, and of which Mr. Roosevelt boasts.

This report, to which Mr. Roosevelt refers as showing the tremendous prosperity of the working class, is dated July, 1904, "Bulletin of the Bureau

The investigation carried on by the department of labor covered 2,567 families, located in the five different sections of the country. It shows the average income per family, consisting of five persons, to be $827.19. As a rule, there are two and three wage earners in each working class family. Assuming that there were two, the average wage of each would be $413 for an entire year's work. In 1890 the average wage was $442. Have wages increased?

The most interesting feature of this report to which the president refers is the table showing the expenditure of the "average American workingman's family." I am going to print it in full, and I want you to look it over carefully and then compare it with the bill of fare of the American

But this does not take all the earnings of the family. What was done with the balance? On page 706 the commissioner has tabulated, very neatly, the proportion of the income that the laborer and his family spend for the other items of living--much after the manner one would tabulate the cost of maintaining a lot of hogs and cattle. Here is the table of expenses complete. The commissioner figured in per cents. It doesn't look quite so bad to say that 12 per cent of the pianos would that provide for the daughters? of labor.

But again, you point to the fact that the income of the average American family of five, consisting of husband, mother, three children, and the baby in one-third of the cases, is $827.19, while the expenses during the same period are but $768.54 -leaving a net gain to the workingman and his family of $58.65. This represents the savings for one whole year, fifty-two weeks. shows a surplus of think of it-a little over $1 per week. Is this not a munificent sum, Mr. Roosevelt? Here is a family of five and a little over-consisting of at least two wage earnersand by dint of economy, denying themselves many of the things which you consider actual necessities of life—laying by for future emergencies one dollar per week! Gracious, generous capitalism! It surely must be an ungrateful man who would ask for more!

But here again, Mr. Roosevelt, we see the clammy hand of commercialism. Is the workingman and his family permitted to keep this little horde, laid by with such painstaking care and denial? What do you gather from the long list of defaulted savings banks, insurance companies, building and loan associations, and the countless other "safe" institutions where the workingman is invited to place his money in trust? But the danger does not lie here. Granting that the bank remains intact. The workingman is growing old; for twenty years he has saved and the little home is nearly paid for. Another year and the place will be out of debt.

The shop closes down!

Out of work!

The days pass, lengthening into weeks and months. The interest comes due on the mortgage then the principal. Finally, Mr. Roosevelt's governmental representative—the sheriff—knocks on the door, and the gray-haired old man and old woman are invited to step down and out. And, mayhap, if they do not move fast enough to suit the minion of the law, the old people are forcibly told to move on. You and your class do not consider these matters-they are but trifles to you, surrounded as you are by the wealth from the toil of these people. You consider these things the workings of a divine providence, with which polities and politicians have nothing to do. And yet when you go to Argentine, Kan., the people will tell you that it was the smelter trust that a few years ago closed the big smelter and caused widespread disaster to the toilers. It was Robert T. Lincoln who closed the doors of Pullmantown a few weeks ago and set 7,000 men and their families adrift. It was the Pennsylvania railroad and other great eastern corporations that since the 1st of June discharged more than 75,000 men, making homeless that many families wiping out in a few short months the savings of years.

And, Mr. Roosevelt, these are the men whor you ask to vote for you this fall.

But the end is not here. A workingman and his family may escape all these things, and he will find lying in wait for him the promoter. These sternation to the half-civilized tribes of Africa and little savings, Mr. Roosevelt will not provide an Asia. income when the muscles are wasted and the eves dimmed by age. They must be invested, as the capitalist invests his money. And so the workingman, with his few hundreds of dollars, is an Rockefeller and Rogers, the Amalgamated Copper Trust skinned the dear public, made up largely of these small investors, of $36,000,000. Count that again, Mr. Roosevelt. Thirty-six millions of dollars! Representing the savings for one year of three and one-half million people-if we are to take the word of your commissioner of labor as to the annual amount saved by the workingman's family. Is that the sort of a graft you support?

Stand up and answer, Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Rossevelt's commissioner of labor, using your v. has sent his agents into your homes and old and placed them on record for public inspection. And he asks you to be proud and grateful. He asks you to support him again that you may have the pleasure of working a whole year and in exchange receive what? Just what a man needs to feed his horse—enough to live on, to maintain on in good condition!

Do you call that a desirable standard of living, Mr.

Are you content with a meagre existence in exchange for one year of your LIFE? Remember. when you go into the factory, into the mine, on the farm-you give your LIFE. Of your vitality you reproduce the material wealth which goes to make this the greatest, the wealthiest, the mightiest nation on the face of the earth. You have the word of the president for it.

I say, 'are you content with receiving simply nough to renew that vitality you have expended? No, not even renew it-because you are at the close of the year, 365 days nearer the end; you are weaker; you have in fact received only enough to provide the oil necessary to make the machine work smoothly. You have received nothing for a renewal of the life-except as you reproduce that life in vour children.

Any shrewd capitalist will tell you that he must lav by ten per cent each year of the original cost of the machine to provide for a new one. You are not permitted to lay by ten per cent of your income. The difference in what you receive and what you spend for the bare necessaries of life is. less than ten per cent of the income of yourself and family. And this you do not keep, because the traps laid for you are numerous, and you have had no time during your career as a workingman to study the tricks of commerce.

Mr. Roosevelt asks you to be satisfied with this sum you receive. This provides you with the pork, beans, meat and other coarse food necessary for your subsistence. You are denied the pleasures of a vacation; your wife never goes to the summer resort; your children are denied the benefit of the schools and colleges-and you think them very fortunate if you are able to keep them

At the appearance of Mr. Debs the audience rose and cheered for five minutss. The scene resembled the cheering at a national convention when the momination speeches end. Enthusiastic men in the gallery leaned far over the rail, shouting and waving their hats. Many women in the audience threw flowers at the stage and cheer after cheer rent the building. It was a giorious welcome and as Mr. Debs stood bewing his acknowledgement, it could be easily seen that he was deeply affected. When something like order had been restored Mr. Chase stepped forward an introduced Dr. Herron as chairman of the svening.

Before introducing Mr. Debs Dr. Herron called upon Mr. Vanderyelde, who speks in French, and then Mr. Groelich, who spoke for ten minutes in the German language.

Enthusiasm broke loose again when Mr. Debs was finally introduced. It seemed as if the audience was simply satisfied to stand and shout his name over and over again. It was unparalleled in the history of the party, and Mr. Debs showed his appreciation.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 15.

Dear Comrades of the Appest.

Packed, jammed and overflowing meetings everywhere. The south is fairly burning with enthusiasm and the old politicians are panic-stricken. Our meetings are stunning them. They can't get a corporal's guard to listen to the air-sawing harrangues of their mummified old spelibinders while the thousands greedily hear our message and fall into line under the banner of freedom.

In New York City there was a lin seven blocks long formed to enter Car-negie hall to avoid a crush at the doors, negis hall to avoid a crush at the doors, and a detail of 100 policement to prevent a jam. The great auditorium filled to the roof in a few moments and thousands could not get in. At the same time Chauncey Depew, the played-out Vanderbilt court jester, talked to 200 people. The New York papers even commented on it, and said old Chauncey had lost his grip at last.

The fact is the people are tired of his old jokes and stale stories. They hunger for something that has substance, and so they are deserting the old political auctioneers and flocking to the standard of Socialism. This incident of Depew's meeting of 200 and ours of 10,000 is a straw which shows how the wind blows.

Yours always, EUGENE V. DEBS.

Mothers of Men.

When a writer once asked Mother Jones why it was she stirred up the women, she replied that it was because every drop of their blood was precious, that they were the inner life of the rate, and that every nation was but the reflex of its women. 'No nation' said. reflex of its women. 'No nation,' said she, 'will ever get beyond the development of its women. Lift up the women, make them intellectual; thus will great sons be born, and men find true comrades in their wives.'"—Ex.

The Strike Lost.

The inadequacy of the strike to secure to the great body of workers higher wages and better conditions must result in one of two things: Either the mass of the workers will accept their condition as fixed and inevitable and abandon effort to improve it or alse they will turn to political action with a view to abolishing the system against which they impotently struggle.—Milwaukes News.

What is the consequence? The only What is the consequence? The only issues left are the sincerity of the parties, and the personality of the candidates. The democrats reply to the charge of insincerity; while the republicans are rallying to the defense of the personality and official record of Rossells. velt. But up to the present time, there has been no such division of opinion on either of these topics as to occasion heated debate.

The opinion is growing in the minds of many old politicians that the present democratic leaders have attempted the impossible. Republicans, at least, say that for eight years, the democratic party has been a party of radicalism. It has been the party out of power; the party of the opposition, and by the very nature of things must have been the radical party. To convert a party of radicals into an ultra-conservative party, Montana and Utah come the same reports of "nothing doing."

Colorado is soon to be flooded with republican crators, but it is about the enly state to which the western republican headquarters is giving attention.

Is it too early for the national campaign to begin? Not according to the precedents of the last twelve years. In 1892 the campaign began almost immediately after the adjournment of the national convention.

In 1896 the battle began to rage from the day Wm J. Bryan was nominated and a platform declaring for silver at 16 to 1 framed. Bryan himself started things then at a lively pace by beginning his whirlwind tour over the country. Simultaneously every man, woman and child began an informal debate on the subject of the silver and gold standards.

The campaign of 1900 proved a continuation of the financial debate with an added touch of "imperialism." The debate began shortly after the Kansas City convention and there was one continuous debate on and off the stump from July until November.

In what respect does the present campaign differ from the three previous campaigns? Why has the summer passed without political discussion? Why are the profesional politicians clamoring anxiously to the mational party alone—who see in the present can be the conservative parties is the basis for this belief. Supposing, as is not impossible, that an overwhelming defeat awaifs the democratic party, what will be the consequence? A new party, with new leaders and new issues, would be invitable. Under any form of popular government an opposition party is a necessity. The natural division between no us clamoring anxiously to the party of radicals into an ultra-conservative parties of the sile. The guard told me that the count had more land than he could visit in one year. It was either rented to others or worked upon shares. The count was born in luxury. He acquired his lands by the death of his parents, and his laborers are making him so immensely rich that he now loans money on hand held by other counts, who happen to be in financial trouble through gambling or some other such legitimate enterprise. The original deed to land can be traced to war, and was probably written by a count's ancestor who used a serf's finger for a pen and a serf's blood for the red ink. From his pic-ture, I would judge the count to be a dark, small, elderly man, with a low countenance and a slightly curved back. He did not obtain the curve in his back in the same manner that his laborers did theirs, because the count performs no useful labor of any kind, unless eat-ing his meals can be called a useful racy of Hungary. MY VISIT TO A HUNGARIAN COUNT By NICHOLAS KLIEN, Correspondent. As we in the United States speak of | And the man in this land who does not J. Pierpont Morgan, so in Hungary the wear a mustache is either an actor or people speak of Count Joseph Mailoth.

The count is one of the leading capital-count's guards. He raised his hat, The count is one of the leading capitalists of Hungary, and has most of his holdings in land. I heard so very much about him that I decided to pay him a visit.

You have to change trains three times in your ride from Budapest to the home of the count. Of course, you can ride "first-class," if you have the price, and go straight through without any change; but Socialists here generally patronize the "third and last class." Of course, the working people build the first-class, too; they ride ast class.

I arrived in Perbeujik Zempleumegye, a small town with a population of a title is the workingman or one of the count. Socialists must have a manifering proper to the count. The man was one of the borers are not permitted to organize, it was a secret one. He shot a number of questions at me about our movement in his face when I told him in answer to a question that every man in the United States was entitled to a ballot.

"Then you Socialists must have a manifering proper to we way."

I told him that as yet we were a third party and had no members of congress. I explained our different political parties to him and told him exitation to about 150 families. This is the workingman or one

James H. Teller, a prominent lawyer of Pueblo, and a brother of Senator Teller, writing of Colorado affairs, says:

"It is a suggestive fact that the mine owners with all the powers of military government in their hands for nine months, have not convicted a single member of the miners' union of an offense arginst either life or property. And this is not due to any miscarriage of justice. On the trial of the few cases prosecuted to trial, in which it had been proclaimed that the evidence of guilt was abundant and damning, the prosecution utterly broke down, in some cases producing no evidence at all."

CO-OPERATION spells the doom of all capitalistic monopolles.

CO-OPERATION is the principle which will deliver the producing classes of the country from the bondage of the competitive profit system. CO-OPERATION, wherever applied for the distribution of merchandise, has meant to the consumer savings in expenses and profits on the savings. CO-OPERATION doubles your purchasing power and doubles the money saved on your purchases if invested in a co-operative enterprise.

The first year of practical co-operation, as first inaugurated and applied by us in America, closed in a blaze of glory. Already co-operation is a success, and already our shareholders are resping the benefits in immense savings and additional discounts on their purchases, and in dividends on their investments. Our merchandise sales are increasing daily, and our advertising expenditures are decreasing daily. The first dividend at the rate of xo per cent per annum was paid February zst, x904. The second dividend, paid August xst. 1904, was also at the rate of xo per cent per annum. In addition to these to per cent dividends a liberal amount was carried to the surplus account. Taking into consideration the naturally heavy expense of re-organization, this dividend was considered a great achievement by co-operators everywhere, and is an indication of the still better things to come. Socialism is not a religion, but a Socialists are not trying to tell you how to get wings and a harp in another world, but how you may get your share of the good things in this world. In other words, Socialism is a common sense solution of the bread and butter problem, and not a new way to get to heaven.

J. Keir Hardie has an interesting article in the London Labor Leader—"An Indictment of the Class War."

Mr. Hardie denies that there is such thing as a class war. "Socialism," says this brilliant labor leader, "declares war

"Socialism If Mr. Hardie had said: declares war upon a system and not upon individuals," I could readily agree with him, but how can we make war upon a system and not upon the class that represents that system—the capitalist class? That thousands of workmen scab on their fellows and themselves by voting with the capitalists, because now and then a capitalist votes with us, does not alter the fact that a class war exists. No matter what Mr. Hardie or I may believe or not believe, the class struggle is here and it waxes more fiere

I can agree with Mr. Hardie that the Socialist party contains within itself the elements of its own destruction. Socialism is a conscious effort of the work-ing class to overthrow capitalism and establish a system of society in which there can be no divisions of the units that go to make up society into econ-omic classes. The establishment of the Co-operative Commonwealth means the dissolution of the Socialist party, dissolution of the Socialist party, es well as the republican party and all other political parties, for the simple reason that we will no longer have a political government, but an industrial state. In this sense it is true that the Socialist party contains within itself the elements of its own destruction.

Mr. Hardie is a member of the English parliament, and it may be considered rather presumptuous for unknown me to set my opinions against his, but, really, I cannot call black white even though Mr. Hardie says it is so.
