No man is great enough or rich enough to get this paper on credit or for a longer time than paid for. It is published as an advocate of International Socialism, the movement which favors the ownership of the earth by ALL the people—not by a

THE TEMPLE OF THE REVOLUTION

That's what Warren calls the new Appeal building, and, come to think of it, it's rather an appropriate name, too. For here will be generated the thought that is going to bring about the Great Social Revolution that will usher in the Co-operative Commonwealth. Sounds big, doesn't it? But the Appeal Army has been doing big things lately, and we're going to do bigger. And just to show what can be done, I want YOUR NAME to put with the rest of the gang in the vault of the corner stone. It will be sealed up in a tew days-to be opened when the first Socialist President is inaugurated. Of course you want to be there. Every reader of this paper who sends in seven yearly subs before the vault is sealed up will be numbered with the Socialist Immortals. You are asked to do this for the Appeal at this time when it is making a vigorous effort to touch the 400,000 mark on the Thermometer! Don't delay!

It is to be hoped that these incidents will stir up the American workinen so that, like their English comrades, they will soon send a good number of representatives to Washington."

A syndicate has just bought a ranch of 20,000 acres, fenced by sixty-eight miles of wire fence, in western Kansas. When syndicates do the farming they can raise the price of eatables just as they do the price of thread now. But you say they can never take the production of grain and fruit from the duction of grain and fruit from the small farmer. Didn't they take the weaving of cloth and the packing of meat from him. Control of farming is as easy as the control of meat

HE above table shows what has been done in the way of circulation since the first of this year. It is a splendid record—one that every friend of this paper will be intensely interested in. The Appeal has been under a pretty heavy load during the past seven months, but in spite of those hardships it has made progress—substantial progress. I want to see the list go to 400,000 before the commencement of 1908. With a list of less than $20,000 subscribers the Appeal has a cross of gold as any other plutocrating and most heartless. The world's Saproven that he is made of stone—heart and all. It is just about as cheap to build battle ships and blow them up as to let them go unused a few years; and blowing them up furnishes amusement to the jaded rich, while still serving the object in view when battle ships are built—the giving of contracts to firms that help the party.

The 1908 campaign is now on. Roosevelt has but eighteen months more of this term to serve. Election will occur in November next year. No matter who capitalism nominates there will be no better campaign document than the infamous Dick Military Law. You can get copies for $1.00 a hundred or $9.90 a thousand.

It is proven that John D. has the goods. John swears he didn't earn them. It might also be remarked that underconsumption of life's necessities is a detriment to the people who are deprived of them and leads first to poverty and then to starvation; underfeeding produces disease; indelence of the over-rich weakens them at the same time that the increased but den erushes their victims; the possession of unearned money removes the necessity for mental as well as physical effort and unfits its owner for usefulness. When the Kansas officials made a whitewashing trip over these tracks roads. It's a long stretch from Rameses II to Theodorous I, but recent discoveries by Egyptologists show how history repeats itself after the lapse of centuries. For ages nearly every building dug out of the Egyptian sands has borne an inscription to the effect that it was built by Rameses II. Everything from a deghouse to a temple bore the hall mars of old Rameses, and it was supposed that this fellow had built about everything that was built until the discovery was recently made that the wise bid men simply took credit for everything architectural by rubbing out the real builder's name and having his chiseled in its place. Another sensation is due in a few thousand years when that nicture of the charge up San Juan hall is in a lew thousand years when that nic-ture of the charge up San Juan hill is found to be another like a la Rameses. "You can't catch flies with vinegar." says a critic of the Socialist propagands, who deplores the "brutal way that Socialists have of teaching the class struggle," instead of harping on such platitudes as "brotherly love." But we are not catching flies, neither are we dealing with insects. We are up against the necessity of fighting with tigers that have as little teate for sugar as they have for vinegar. Their delight is buman blood in the form of sweat, and the workers are tired of furnishing that kind of bait.

When the capitalist press refers to foreign-born laborers who are imported to work in some factory, they are referred to as "industrious fellow beings seeking a home in the land of freedom." When they refer to these same people as taking part in a Socialist meeting they are "ignorant people of various nationalities." Its very much like the "desirable" and "undesirable" citizens who have been favored with birth on this side of the pond.

Socialism is of sufficient consequence for Henry Clevs, the great New York banker, to labeliously prepare an address in opposition to it for delivery at the Chautauqua institute last month and to have it distributed in pamphlet form from the Atlastic to the Pacific. This simply proves another case of a corporation trail to the Bell building. This simply proves another ease of a corporation committing an overt act for the pirpose of winning public sympathy and throwing odium upon the peaceable strikers. In this case the motive is the more apparent by reason of the fact that the telephone company is trying to get out injunctions against its striking employes.

It is stated with no attempt at irony that the reports from West Virginia indicate that the recent proceedings have rendered peonage somewhat unpopular. Shortly before the West Virginia case a case was tried at Charlotte, N. C., where the evidence developed the fact that the principal offender, who is still in hiding somewhere and so could not be brought to justice, had gone after four escaping negro peons, overtaken them, tied their wrists together with ropes, placed two of them in the rear of his buggy and made the other two "foot it" behind while he trotted his team over fifteen or twenty miles of North Carolina road.

The importance of this departure lies in the fact that under the peonage statute, as interpreted by the supreme court, it is necessary that a man shall be held in servitude to work out an alleged debt, while under section 5.508 it would not be necessary to prove that there was any debt either due or claimed. And according to the laws in some southern states the ignorant peons are not so far out of the way in the belief forced upon them. State laws have been enacted making it practically a criminal offense to attempt to escape from peonage. There are laws making it a penal offense to attempt to escape from peonage. There are laws making it a penal offense for a farm laborer to quit the service at which he is employed under certain conditions. And in Florids, Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina, for instance, there are so-called "false pretense" laws which provide about the same result as laws legalizing peonage. They are complicated statutes which prohibit a laborer from leaving his work after making a contract for which he receives advance money, and making the contract prima facie evidence of having received money.

WHO IS HE? BY ELLIS O. JONES

Now, children, this is a puzzle, but it is not a very hard puzzle. Listen real carefully. I am going to describe a man who is high in authority in the United States government. See if you can guess who it is.

guess who it is.

In the first place, he is Braggo the Monk and Bombastes Furioso. He has assurance, ambition and ambiguity. Of course, 'that doesn't tell you much. All politicians have those things. He is arrogant and aristocratic, bossy, brutal, bull-headed, boastful and bludgeonic. He is camping the constitutions.

boll-headed, boastful and bludgeonie. He is capricious, conceited, cruel, chesty and crass, dictatorial and despotic. He is egotistic, explosive and expostulatory, Falstaffian, flighty, fussy and fresh. He is garrulous, grandstandy and grandiloquent; harsh, headstrong and huffy.

Now, be quiet, children; I am not, half through yet.

He is impulsive, insulting, imprecatory, indiscreet, impetuous; impudent and implacable. He is jejume, kicky and loquacious. He is maledictive, mulish and meddlesome, Napoleonic and opprobrious. He is peurile, pretentious, petulent, peevish, puffy, pompous, precipitate, preachy and pert. He is querulous, Quixotic, queer and quick, rash, rasping and rude. He is sophomoric, sophisticated, strutty and sassy, tumid, turgid, testy and truculent.

Be patient, children, I am nearly through.

over-rode and siaughtered thousands of the poor of the people; subjecting them to either slavery or practical extinction. It has often been remarked that history repeats itself. Another conquest of Mexico, that promises to duplicate the former one in many ways, has already begun. It is not an invasion of an armed force, but this being a commercial age, it is an invasion of capitalista—of men as few in number, as subtle in strategem, as unscrupulous as subtle in strategem, as unscrupulous and with a determination for destruction for the sake of profit as strong, as dominated Cortez and his followers. Let us notice a few parallels, and, in Spain and the promise of loot in Mexico. Cortez, the leader of the expedition, had been with Pizarro when the latter had looted Peru, and he was intent on making the same sort of gain in Mexico. Moody's Magazine has this to say of the reason for American invasion of Mexico:

Very patriotic in capital. It loves the flag. It will be remembered that when Cortez invaded Mexico he first captured the ruler, Montezuma. Capig talism is doing the same thing, as shown by this extract from Moody's Magazine:

"President Diaz is thoroughly imbued with the spirit of American industrial invasion which is now sweeping over his republic. He encourages the movement in every possible legitimate way. Much of his good work is done through a wise selection of governors of the different states. While these chief executives are nominally elected by vote of the people, they are, as a matter of fact, appointees of the president. It is far better that he makes the choice. He never makes a mistake. There is not a governor of a state in Mexico today who has the slightest trace of anti-American sentiment in his make-up." sentiment in his make-up."

Again, while Cortez had but a few Again, while Cortez had but a few men in number, it was not long after he began his invasion before he was in absolute control of the hordes of the Incas. The capitalists who are invading Mexico today are not numerous, yet they are rapidly putting themselves in full control of the situation. Once more we quote from Moody's:

cessions, which often carried with them exemptions from taxation and free importation of necessary machinery, in order to attract substantial investments The order to attract substantial investments in various lines of industry. . . The American Smelting and Refining company practically control the smelting business of that country. It has many millions of dollars invested in smelting plants and many more of its millions are invested in mines scattered throughout that republic. . . When Mexico desired to encourage native capital in the development of the iron and steel industry the duty on that product was raised to a figure which made the large iron and steel plant erected in Monterey in a position to successfully cope with the United States Steel corporation. As a result of that encouragement a treme conservatism necessary."

Military maps locate every factory of importance in America. This is because our capitalist government is preparing itself to fight the laborer in the interest of the rich. The amazing thing is that the ones who do the fighting are not rich.

The nationals, the party favoring independence in the Philippines, won a recent election by a large majority. But they will not get independence. Neither the trusts nor the republican party believe in popular government.

An article is valued even in this day by the amount of human life that is put into it. You may call it time, but life is made of time. Life is sold too cheaply.

Every royal family was founded in bloodshed, and this is what is meant by vestment of American capital by forcing the people to put up part of the money without realizing dividends from it. Instead of reaping dividends, they will have to pay interest on bond issues for the purchase of these stocks. Truly Diaz is an ideal capitalistic president. In view of his great services to Mexico he ought to become a very rich man, and doubtless will become so!!

Now this invasion of Mexico promises to be a very important factor in the development of the United States and in gives an object lesson in the force that makes and unmakes law in an article on the old practice of imprisonment for delt. It is both interesting and instructive to note that it was not the brilliance of some statesman whose heart was fired with a new conception of justice that abolished imprisonment for debt, but the real cause of the change in the law was the fact that imprisonment for debt did not bring lesirable results for the creditor class Says the Tribune:

any historical record, red was the pro-letarian or working-class color.

The aristocrats of all ages have used blue as emblematic of their blue blood as distinguished from the red blood of the common people, and white as emble-matic of their freedom of contact with the soil or the grime of labor. For this reason red has come to be the distinc-tive symbol of labor the world over, and, therefore, a fitting emblem for an interherefore, a fitting emblem for an inter-national working class movement. I have heard that the red flag is the flag of anarchy only through the columns of capitalist newspapers that also insist on Socialism and anarchy being one and he same thing. Flags are mere expresons of sentiment and the average an irchist is not very sentimental. However there is not very sentimental. However, there is nothing to prevent the anarchist from using a red flag if he chooses any more than there is to prevent an auc-tioneer from doing the same thing. Red flags are placed on powder magazines and are used as danger signals on railroads, and in these places have no political significance, though closely connected with the proletarian, whose goods are auctioned and with the railroad laborer who must be color to practical laborer who puts the color to practical use in the pursuit of his daily toil. The use of the red flag as symbolical of the cause of the workers seems to have always been more spontaneous than formal. For some reason, possibly psysistance to tarnishment by dirt, red has always been a favorite color with the toilers, whether engaged in peaceful oc-cupations or in armed resistance to tyrants.

Pulaski, the Polish patriot who gave up his life fighting in the American revolution for the freedom of the colonies, was presented with a crimson banner by the nuns of Bethlehem, which his troops carried on their expedition against the British, in the Carolinas and was wrapped about him when he died from wounds received at Savannah. At that time there was no flag officially adopted wounds received at Savannan. At that time there was no flag officially adopted by the American patriots, and the colo-nists often used the red flag under which the workers of Europe had rallied for

When Karl Marx urged the working men of all countries to unite into a class conscious movement for economic free dom he expressed in words what in color is expressed by red. When the people of Paris took up the song of the workingmen from Marseilles and made the French capital ring with "Ye Sons of Toil, awake to glory!" they set the red flag to music; and when red flag to music; and when though born a Pole, gave his life for the cause of American freedon his shroud he expressed the same senti-ment that the struggling workers of all nations in all times read in the folds of the crimson banner.

For the same reason that the inter-national workers love the red flag their oppressors hate it. They hate it as they hate the slave who has the courage to stand as a man and claim his own. The red flag has the same effect on then that it has on a bull. They prefer that the working class should revere the coat-of-arms of the aristocratic rulersthey are not so particular what one just so the allegiance is to some faction of the ruling class. General Party Notes.

One of the most gratifying and signal victories for free speech and the use of the public streets stands to the credit of Local Philadelphia. Last summer meetings were broken up and the com-rades were arrested by the score; at present the party meetings are unmo-lested, more numerous than ever, and lested, more numerous than ever, and the police perform their proper functions by preserving order.

The police and authorities of San Francisco do not like books. Several vears ago the Socialist party secured an injunction preventing them from interfering with Socialist meetings. Thus restrained so far as free speech is con-cerned, they have turned their atten-tion to the literature sales at meetings. On August 12th they arrested Comrade McDevitt and several others for sell-ing copies of "The Open Shop," a pam-phlet written by Clarence Darrow.

The police of New York, on August 10th, started their periodical bout with the Socialist party by arresting nine comrades. Each speaker stepped up and took his turn for the distinguished honor. The police will lose, as usual, and the agitation will increase.

They can't pronounce the name of William's, and nobody knows what will never enumerate the number of tear stained pillows that followed the triumphant capture of the distinguish royalty by a certain aspiring society leader. He is going to be her own little tame prince. She will wine him and tame prince. She will wine him and dine him and smile at him and show him off and drag him around and fill him with champagne and stuff him with food and think she is having such a lovely time; and then all her select friends will grab him, and they will wine and dine and flatter and drag and wine and dine and flatter and drag and stuff hiff and think they are having such a lovely time; and all the poor, misera-ble cutsiders who haven't been invited, they will gaze wistfully from afar off, and wish they could wine and dine and flatter and drag and stuff him, so that they could have a lovely time, until the prince (a king's son being cauca prince is just as a man who runs an engine is called an engineer)—until the prince, if he is half the man he is reputed, will himself. "And they told me at prince (a king's son being called a prince say to himself, "And they told me at home this was a democracy!"

And he will wonder whether he has really arrived?

The unfortunate part is, nobody will correct him. Nobody will point out to him that he is seeing only the side-show, and that the entrance to the big tent where the sure-enough American people are on exhibition is on a little further. Nobody will say to him: "This isn't America. This is only the fungus on the side of the strong old oak. It's only the paraetic growth that feeds on what it clings to. These people never produce anything. They never put their shoulders to the wheel of government. They don't care anything about it except to cheat it when they can. These are only the drones, the idlers, the fragments thrown off by the machine of industry. They are not our citiens. And they are not during all this because your experience. The unfortunate part is, nobody will it's because you are 'your highness.' It's because they think you are so much better than they are. They will fawn and flatter for ten days; next week they'll have another monkey party."

WILL YOU HELP?

Dear Sir. I have spent a good part of the foresoon investigating this natier about which you inquire. I find the coursede is all right, and if his letter falls in any particular it is in failing to tell all of the truth. He is a watchman at a railroad street crossing. I did not find out what pay he draws, but I know that the usual price here for that kind of a job is about $30 a month—$1.00 per day. The cause is certainly a worthy one. Surely he cannot support a family of seven—self, wife and five children—and save $140, to buy new legs. That is a clach. And without those poor substitutes where would he ha. THE CONVERSION OF THE SMITHS An Appeal Army Story.

Miss Temperance Follows Miss Willard. Miss Temperance Smith was true to per name. She was an a dent advocate of temperance. Some who made light of her because she was an old maid in-sisted that she was intemperate in her advocacy of temperance, but she was a good woman, nevertheless. Yet when John Smith asked her to subscribe for the Appeal he might have known that an argument would result—it was inevitable.

"I tell you intemperance is the greatest

"I tell you intemperance is the greatest curse in America or the whole world today. If the laboring people would quit patronizing the saloon there would be no poverty." So she began.

"I agree with you that intemperance is a great evil," said John Smith. "The saloon is one of the worst adjuncts of the capitalist system." "Adjuncts, nothing. It is hell ma-

"Then the profit system must be hell, because the saloon is certainly run for profit. Indeed, it is one of the worst exploiters in the entire family of capitalism. It sells at enormous profits and does rake in a large portion of the la-borer's earnings, without giving anything like adequate returns. Socialism is op-posed to the saloon."

"I am glad to hear that. But I don't believe it."

"It is opposed to the saloon on the same principle that it is opposed to all profit-taking. The saloon is an enormous profit taker. While Socialism contemplates no special enactments in the interest of temperance, it does contemplate the destruction of the profit system in the structure of the profit system in the structure.

tem in its entirety. How los suppose the saloon would run if there was no profit in it? "Not very long, I guess. But are you sure you Socialists favor temperance in this way?"

"We most surely do contemplate end-ing the profit system, and that includes profits on intoxicants of every kind. Moreover, the more thoughtful Social-ist sees in the saloon an exploiter for is doing much to keep labor poor, and a business of profit that is used by the capitalist class in the interest of oldline politics, and hence advises his com-rade worker to leave the stuff alone. We do not say that the saloon is a producer of poverty in general, further than that all capitalist business is a producer of poverty. But drunkenness may deter-mine what individuals are to be poor. Capitalism could not exist without an army of poor people, and if drunkenness did not determine to a degree which individuals were to be poor, then other factors would do so. It is poverty that keeps wages down to the point where a keeps wages down to the point where : profit can be made off of labor, so capi talism must have some out of empl and poor at all times to even Drunkenness is a great diermining factor in this work. Miss Willard saw the point, and before she died declared herself in favor of the Socialist position.

"So she declared herself. See here."
And John showed her a leastet that proved it so. Miss Temperance read it, then said:

"Well, if Socialism wouldn't hurt her I guess I can look into it."
And Miss Temperance gave h

Attorney-at-Law, Connersville, Ind.

This letter is typical of hundreds which have reached my desk since the "Not Guilty" edition was mailed. The Agitation League mailed 70,000 copies to that many lawyers—all we could locate in the United States. Many of these lawyer fellows are good material for Socialists. Just as soon as they understand Socialist principles they become great fighters for the new order.

In this way the Agitation League is doing splendid work for Socialism. And we propose to keep right at it. If you think this kind of work ought to be continued, join the League and help. The following contributions have been made since last report:

Now, by my halidom, 'tis passing strange that I, Teddy of the Big Stick, should express a wish to have a few plebeian miners hanged and then have my wishes overridden by those farmer yaps of Idaho. And yet, perchance, 'tis better thus, else these ignorant works men who heretofore have tossed high their caps at mention of my name may become disastisfied with my benign rule and rend me to atoms in the political field. And yet—and yet—tis humiliating for one of my standing to be thus set aside as if I were naught. Perchaps I was hasty in my remarks. Yes, of a verity I am a fool. I talk too damed much.

SOCIALIST FABLES

There was once a Monkey who was He wasn't to blame for it, pariticularly, and he felt bad enough about it, goodness knows. But in the United States of Monkeydom sickness was con-sidered a crime. Instead of giving the sidered a crime. Instead of giving the sufferer pleasant surroundings and a little care, the Monkeys in their wisdon and education drove him into the fores by himself. If he tried to come into the haunts of monkey civilization; even to see his wife or children, the other monkeys set upon him and he was com-pelled to flee for his life.

One day this Monkey met a Man, who, for sympathy with his suffering and be-cause he was too ill to resist the ad-vances of the fellow, took him and cared for him and wand him self. for him, and made him well. Afterward the Man carried the Monkey to a far country and kept him a prisoner.

"It was barbaric the way the m treated you," said the Man to the Mon-key. "Here I nursed you and gave you opportunity, and you have recovered from your illness. How much has man evolved from the monkey and how much etter are his ways than the ways of The Monkey was prevented from reply within itself is valueless—: y. The reason they want to send it away is because the laborers at home have not been allowed enough money for producing the goods to emable them to buy them back. If they were given enough money to permit them to buy all they produced, then the profit system would go to smash. Therefore, the profit system forces foreign wars in order to sea rid forces foreign wars in ordated, and the nation that gets the worst of it is forced almost to servitude and barbarism. It would be so entirely, if it were not that war kills off so many people as to relieve the labor market and destroys so much property that labor can be put to work making it over again. Such a safe and same thing is the croft system! is the profit system!

Darrow's speech in the Haywood trial

It is a matter of wisdom to make the best of the worst you get. That is what Darrow did with Horseley.
