The outdoor meetings can be resume

The outdoor meetings can be resumed and these are of the most vital importance to our educational propaganda. The message of Socialism must be carried to the people and the great masses of the people can only be reached at outdoor gatherings.

The rich can engage grand operationses, festive banquet parlors and fashionable cathedrais, but the poor cannot afford these luxuries. They are of the common humanity that surge in the thoroughfares and gather in the common and it is here that he message if Socialism must be brought to them it they are to be reached at all.

The winter season places an embargo

The winter senson places an embargo upon this kind of education which now happily will be raised to give our workers the chance to go out on the street corners and in the open places to dis-tribute our literature and enlist the at-ention of the people.

We are planning to make this an un-neually active spring opening and we are calling on all our workers to join in making the plan a success.

First of all, the trial of the editors

First of all, the trial of the editors and their counsel will soon be called at Fort Scott and this trial will be of nation-wide interest on account of the indamental issue involved in it.

Shall our free press be muzzled and the right of protest against capitalist misrule be denied the American people? That is the issue which will go to trial at Fort Scott on the 5th day of Mes coming.

The Appear will help to the extent of its power in all these campaigns and it conndently expects to see the Socialist party score a great number of municipal victories.

We want our workers to get an early start in our spring opening and to take the offensive from the start.

If at this time I had any half-hearted feeling about the situation that controls us I would regret that the Socialist party had to depend upon such as me to fight its battles.

There has been no pri involved, for these mailed brutes know not the meaning of principle. The only element in the revolution with which any honest man has sympathy is the proletarian element, the landless peons, who have been shamelessly robbed of the ground beneath their feet and who have had every kind of extortion levied upon them to glut the greed of en-throned felons.

It is now quite clear why the Taft administration refrained from interven-tion while making 2 gigantic bluff with the army and navy to deceive the people. Madero had promised to break up the great landed estates which had been stolen from the people into small par-cels for the benefit of the landless, and let it not be forgotten that land mo-nopoly is the one dynamic thing that lies at the bottom of the Mexican revo-

Madero never intended to keep his promise. He deliberately deceived the people. This proved to be not only his weakness but his ruin and death. This was the inception of the revolt against Madero. His doom was sealed.

Diaz had behind him the financial backing of Wall street, in alliance with a coterie of English financiers and investors, who jointly own and control the richest lands and the largest industries in Mexico.

This accounts for Diaz's confidence from the beginning. He had all the munitions of war he needed and with the powers of Wall street behind him Madero was bound to be crushed.

OF COURSE the government at Washington under Tait did not intervent to prevent the undoing of Madero, Henry Taft, brother of the president that was to the country's shame, is the attorney of the Wall street pirates who own and rule Mexico. It was a "shrewd and diplomatic move" for these pirates to engage as their chief counsel the brother of the president and present him a liberal block of stock for being the president street gave the signal to Diaz to "go him a liberal block of stock for being the president's brother, and when Wall street gave the signal to Diaz to "go to it." with their vast financial re-sources to back him up, it was a foregone conclusion that the fat-head brother in the white house would al-low no intervention by the United States government.

The same gang of pirates that rule Mexico through their hired butchers, such as Diaz, Huerta and Blanquet, also rule the United States through their Tafts, Roots and Wickershams.

Every such subscriber is on without a break from now until after the next national campaign.

The subscriber does not miss a number; he is saved the trouble of renewing and the risk of error in his address.

The economy in the saving of the expense of adding the name to the mailing list and in taking it off four times, as we are required to do under the yearly plan, enables us to maintain our low rate of subscription in spite of the increasing cost of paper, labor and tops were eaten down to the ground; because we were too poor to fence with a "lawful fence" we could not sollect damages, although our place was fenced with two wires. So it went for two years. The third year was the season of "bumper crops." Our crop consisted of sixty acres of corn which the early frosts killed. We couldn't get money enough to buy the seed wheat the fall before and our corn is selling for thirty enough to buy the seed wheat the fall before and our corn is selling for thirty cents per bushel, with fifteen per cent off on account of light weight and frosted. Under the new three-year homestead law, we proved up the third year, and husband, being crowded by his creditors of two and three years' standing, started out to put a mortgage on the land and pay up his debts.

One day an automobile rolled in, bringing a man from Denver who offered to make us a loan. We were to get four hundred and fifty dollars and

The teacher asked a question as to who the inhabitants are. No one in the class seemed to understand what the question meant, but our little boy held up his hand and answered "Peter S Grosscup." He gave as his authority Appeal to Reason.

CROOKED DEMOCRATS.

But the question is, what do the people want with "ancient landmarks?"

In what way will "ancient landmarks" relieve them from the grasp of monopoly and the power of trusts?

"Ancient landmarks" are all rights as a study in ancient history, but when it comes to the world-wide struggle, now approaching its culmination, between the producing people and the plundering plutocracy, all the "ancient landmarks" in all the junk-heaps of the past are not worth a second's considpast are not worth a second's consid-

You good people who voted the democratic ticket with the expectation of seeing the trusts busted and monopolies smashed and the common people up to their ears in cream and honey, will get yours in full when Mr. Bryan has restored your "ancient landwarks."

Socialism Triumphant

WE are frequently asked when So-cialism will finally triumph. We cialism will finally triumph. We answer with the positive statement that it is already triumphant. This does not mean that Socialism is already there, but it does mean that the cause of Socialism has already triumphed over all opposition and that today it is the greatest force in all the world.

How silly such a proposition is! Why shouldn't the state, instead of adding individuals to get possession of that which belongs to all, develop these lands itself and employ individuals to do it? The property then would belong to the whole people. The country could be systematically developed and those without property could had something to do. The rest of President Wilson's appointees are lawyers and politicians. And smooth ones, too. They are facing both ways and smiling both ways, but they are for capitalism and wage slavery all the same.

There are some rough jolts ahead for this cabinet which has set out to emander and to kill the trusts without hurting them.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

In their recent controversy with the last the same Murphy who led Bryan's "ninety wax figures" to the Rryan's "ninety wax figures" to the R gers posed as stout champions of the public interest. They were perfectly willing to grant such an increase in wages as they felt they could afford, and were quite willing to arbitrate the questions at issue, but they insisted that the method of arbitration should be of their own choosing, as under the method provided by law "the interests of the public" are not properly protected. This suddenly developed solicitude for the protection of the public is touching in more ways than one. It is a peculiarity of the capitalist mind that it regards the interests of capitalism as synonymous with the interests of the entire community. In protecting themselves, therefore, capitalists can always fall back in the interests of a lawys fall back is loaded there.

with the interests of the entire community. In protecting themselves, therefore, capitalists can always fall back upon the convenient fiction that they are also protecting "the interests of the public."

The attitude of the railroads in this particular instance is a splendid illustration of the efficacy of capitalist law, enacted ostensibly in the interest of the working class. As long as such law operates in the interests of capitalism it is hailed as a very bulwark of civilization and progress, but whenever it is discovered that the law operates to give some litle advantage to the working class it is promptly repudiated and a howl goes up about the necessity of amendment in order that "the interests of the public" may be adequately safeguarded.

Hypocrisy, thy name is capitalism!
