"Days of Profit System Are Numbered

Uncle Sam's Doctors, Treating Grave Ailments of Industrial System, Concede That the Old Order Must Give Way to Some Kind of "Socialistic" Organization

WE are in the fifth year of the breakdown of our industrial system. The old system does not work. All efforts to bring capital into action have failed, Capital is the bloodstream of the system and the system's veins are withered. To produce goods capital must flow throughout industry. When the flow is stagmant, industries collapse and millions of workers become idle. me idle.
Uncle Sam turned doctor. After some treatments

he decided that the old system cannot longer be left to itself. It must be regulated and controlled. So it was given the code treatment. Months passed. Some capital began to flow to the end of July, then the flow became less and less. By December it was almost as stagnant as in December last year.

Stagnant as in December last year.

Uncle Sam and his assistant experts became worried. The United States News last week reports that they are of the opinion "that the days of the profit system are numbered." Something like a "socialistic state" may have to replace it. It will take time, but the groundwork must be prepared. So some of the doctors cason. Others think that this view is diabolical.

Those who think that the days of capitalism are

Those who think that the days of capitalism are umbered reason thus: "We tried to start capital bwing. At first there was an increased flow. Then bwing. At first there was an increased flow. Then maintained an even rate, only to decline and become most as stagnant as when we began. Looks bad and othing ing to at food they may turn against the system."

The offer of the decline and become ing to a stagnant as when we began. Looks bad and or ing to at food they may turn against the system."

The offer of the decline and become in the system of the urned Santa Claus! He is trying to take care of a first 1,000,000 farmers and 4,000,000 of the 11,000,000 jobless wage slaves. The four million are being provided public works jobs and are to be paid about enough to enable them to eat.

The farmers receive Uncle Sam's checks partly to destroy or to restrict the crops which the 4,000,000 wage slaves need! For this restriction and destruction the farmers are promised $1,200,000,000. So Santa Claus with one hand distributes gifts and with the other he orders the restriction or destruction of the source from which gifts can be made!

Oueer actions, you say. Yes, but the queerness does not end with these actions. Taxes have been levied by Uncle Sam on wheat, cotton, corn, hogs and tobacco. Over a billion dollars will be extracted through sales from the masses and turned over to Uncle Sam to buy bread clothing park and sheet to give to iobless. bread, clothing, pork and shoes to give to jobless

But Uncle Sam does not get enough funds from these disguised sales taxes, so he may decide to add beef cattle, sugar and probably milk to the list of food essentials to be taxed. If these taxes do not bring sufficient funds an even more general sales tax may considered!

So far a billion and a quarter dollars are paid by consumers of the taxed products to pay farmers for holding land out of use. Now the Secretary of Agriculture estimates that Uncle Sam might make a cheaper bargain by buying 40,000,000 farm acres and permit them to revert back to woods and grass! That would mean an area almost equal to all New

So capitalism has produced this absurdity. Too much wheat, too much cotton, corn Destroy some, tax much of the rest, collect from those little able to pay it, and distribute it as rations among the starving!

little able to pay it, and distribute it as rations among the starving!

It is also suggested that there are some surplus plants in some industries. Perhaps Uncle Sam should buy them and close them. That would be for Santa Claus to buy dead horses and pay for the burials!

If Uncle Sam is going to buy industries, why purchase surplus plants and close them? Why not take over idle and necessary plants and arrange for their operation in a democratic way that will be useful to workers who need them? That would shift the owners out of the picture, we are told. Sure. But the owners have shifted the workers out of the picture and that is why we have the whole problem of deflated farmers and jobless wage workers.

The whole industrial system is changing under our eyes. He is blind who does not see it. When a few members of the administration admit that the old system is gone and that a "socialistic state" may have to replace it, then something important is happening.

Treat capitalism as the doctors may, its ailments are fatal. It compels us to produce for exchange, to buy and sell. It worked after a fashion for more than a century but it collapsed on an average of every thirteen years. Now it is a world collapse.

We must plan, work, educate and organize for power to discharge the owners and take over the whole works. Then operate it to serve us. That is the task of the suffering masses, a Socialist task to be undertaken without compromise and with a will to winf the state work.

The growth of the party among farmers is no accident. It is the result of activity in the recent milk strikes, in which many Socialists served as speakers and on the picket lines. Many farmers now realize that the profit system exploits them as it does the workers, and that solidarity of the two groups can free them from workers, and that solidarity of the two groups can free them from economic slavery. Farmers realize that old party politicians, including the LaFollettes, have used the farmers as stepping stones to po-litical careers and left them flat on their backs.

National Meet of YPSL's in New York

THE National Executive Committee of the Young People's Socialist League will meet in New York City on December 29, 30, and 31. This is to be one of the four annual meetings of the body.

The New York circles of the The New York circles of the league are preparing a gala event in the form of a dance at the Rand School Auditorium, 7 East 15th Street, Friday, December 29. All party members and Yipsels are expected to be present.

A great anti-fascist demonstra-tion is arranged for Saturday, De-cember 30 ,at 2:30 P. M., at which Norman Thomas, Leo Kryzcki, Winston Dancis, Art McDowell, and Aaron Levenstein will speak. This will also be held at the Rand School Auditorium

WEIR DEFIED NRA AND GOT AWAY WITH IT---NOW, WHAT?

By Rose M. Stein Pittsburgh, Penn.

THE National Steel Corporation broke an agreement with the National Labor Board. The National Labor Board threatens court action and General Johnson threatens to withdraw the company's Blue Eagle.

These facts make headline news and, as is usual with headlines, the real issues remain obscured. What are the issues involved that are important from the standpoint of the 11,000 Weirton Steel Company

Mr. E. T. Weir, President of the National Steel Corporation, Chair-man of the Weirton Steel Company's board, and bad boy in this controversy, like the rest of his brethren in the Steel Institute has brethren in the Steel Institute has always been frankly and firmly op-posed to the unionization of his workers. The mills in Weirton worked even during the 1919 strike. If an organizer appeared he was met by the sheriff or com-pany gunmen and promptly escort-ed out of town.

Mr. Weir stated his position at winston Daneis, Art McDowell, and Aaron Levenstein will speak. This will also be held at the Rand School Auditorium.

The Yipsel MEC will consider the major problems of centralizing the action of the league, of creating more circle activity, of new educational and industrial projects.

Mr. Weir stated his position at the conference in Washington, October 16, when his so-called agreement with the Labor Board was made, an agreement that conters voted for "Andy Gump" or other comic strip characters.

It is true that parties and speeches were held to bring the men closer to the company. But the union also held meetings. More and more men joined. Never was there a more brazes or farcial election. Company officials supervised the election and counted the votes while section bosses, superintendent: and mill police rounded up the voters and forced them into the polling places. More than threats were resorted to. If a worker would not go to vote even when threatened with dismissal, he would be forced to bodily or pushed along with a riot stick. Many filed blank ballots, others voted for "Andy Gump" or other comic strip characters.

Inflation

A BROOKLYN reader objects to the Socialist Party's opposition to inflation because many farmers favor it and urges that we should also support it. His basic the following reasons: His basic argument is contained in Many feel that labor would benefit considerably in the form of additional employment for millions, by the stimulus given to business and agriculture by inflation. Further, inflation would give the government additional revenue to carry on an extensive public works program, which would promote further employment of labor, and avoid the onerous sales tax which falls most heavy on labor. Unquestionably, where the worker is a debtor as well, inflation would benefit him, too. . . . Let us not, in the eyes of the farmer, fall into the same classification as the Wall Street bankers, the large capitalists and the reactionary creditor class.

Our correspondent thinks of inflation as bene fitting farmers, workers, the business class and the government. Socialist economics denies that the government. Socialist economics denies that a single measure will help all classes whose interests are in conflict. Without going into the economics back of our reasoning there is the fact that inflation has always ruined the farmers who have generally urged it, the workers, those with fixed salaries, and many thousands of the middle classes. The inflation following the French and American revolutions and the recent revolutions in Europe brought these results.

If inflation will give the government "additional revenue to carry on" then the problem is very simple. Whenever the government needs very simple. Whenever the government needs money, let it start the printing presses. No government need worry about balancing its budget. If it is short of funds, it should print money and pay off its debts. It appears simple to many people, but under capitalism we have a system of production of commodities for exchange. Commodity is exchanged for commodity and flooding a nation with paper is not providing commodities to be exchanged for other commodities.

What happens when acquires momentum? The cheapening money is reflected in apidly increasing prices. Millions who have parapidly increasing prices. Millions who have paper rush to buy. The buying stimulates production. The more paper the cheaper it becomes and there is a nation-wide panic to get rid of it; the process continues till the paper is worthless and millions are involved in ruin. At first the farmer and other debtors will be able to pay off come debts with the cheap paper, but in the off some debts with the cheap paper, but in off some debts with the cheap paper, but in the general ruin that follows they are also involved. The alternative to inflation is not "onerous sales taxes" as our correspondent believes. We should demand heavier taxation of incomes, inheritances, etc., and, if possible, graded luxury taxes. To say that we must favor inflation to reach the farmer is answered by the story we run this week regarding the Socialist agitation. run this week regarding the Socialist agitation among farmers in Wisconsin. Neither the Socialists nor the farmers are urging it there.

Our correspondent implies that because bankers oppose inflation we are their allies. Not at all. We favor taxing the super-rich to the limit for the relief of the workers and the big bankers will fight this to the last ditch.

NRA Arithmetic

THINGS are picking up under the NRA, that is, if you look at things in the right way. General Johnson reports to President Roosevelt that under the automobile code both employment and payrolls have increased. Great!

Here are the figures: from July to September employment increased from 125,000 to 150,700 workers, and payrolis increased from $12,700,000 to $14,700,000. What more could one want?

to $14,700,000. What more could one want?

Well, one could do a little long division and find that in the pre-NRA month automobile workers received an average of $101.30 per month, while under the Blue Eagle the larger number received $97,50 per month.

And there you have it. If you are interested ONLY in increased TOTAL payrolls, if you are interested ONLY in seeing more people receive wages so that more money can be put into circulation, more spent and business (and profits) revived, nothing could be sweeter than increased TOTALS.

But if you happen to be interested in human welfare, it's a different story. By the way, what is going to be recovered, human welfare or just the profits of the business magnates? There's a question to ponder.

Babbitts Get Fits

ARROGANCE and class interest were combined in the protest of the Illinois Manufacbined in the protest of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association against the public and civil works program of the Federal Government. They object to "using public funds to promote and subsidize projects intended to compete with existing private enterprises." If this policy is abandoned, it will restore "public confidence and encourage business enterprises." They mention four cities that propose to have their own electric light cities that propose to have their own electric light plants. They want capitalists to have them.

The manufacturers do not object to govern ment funds being spent for them. They would faint at the proposal to scrap the Commerce Department and many costly bureaus that inform the exploiters how to sweat more values out of the workers and where best to dispose of those values abroad. That policy fosters the "public confidence" of the exploiters, but if a city decides to have a light plant of its own, these Babbitts get fits of despondency.

If the workers were as conscious of their interests as these gentlemen are, the latter would not be so arrogant.

A Mississippi Skeleton

GOVERNMENTS like individuals sometimes GOVERNMENTS like individuals sometimes have skeletons in their closets. Before the Civil War.a number of southern states repudiated their bonds, many of which were sold in Europe. Heirs of the holders have been trying to collect. Now and then something happens and the closet is opened, to the embarrassment of Washington

The little nation of Monaco is now seeking to sue Mississippi to collect $100,000 and interest of $400,000, due for ninety years. Mississippi refuses to pay and stands for repudiation. The Federal Government reads ethical sermons to European governments against repudiation while some of its own states violate this holy of holies. Little Monaco now opens the closet and the Mississippi skeleton grins. It is so embarrassing to the gentleman's trade of diplomacy.

In Western New York and Pennsylvania

By August Claessens

HAD an extremely lively and successful week in this part of the country. Arrangements for meetings were excellent, the crowds were good and our locals in good shape. So many of our older comrades are still well on the job, and along with the fine newer and younger members they are carrying on against many difficulties.

The final meeting in Rochester last Monday under Workmen's Circle auspices was very successful in spite of the mean weather. Next day in Buffalo. Spoke before the Riverside branch to a fine working-class audience and I was happy to meet this active new organization. Wednesday noon I spoke at the Buffalo Kiwanis Club luncheon and my half hour talk vent cours the radio.

noon I spoke at the Buffalo Kiwanis Club luncheon and my half-hour talk went over the radio. At night I lectured at Comrade Hahn's church and got a grand reception and a full house. With Comrade Hahn soon again on the air with his weekly half-hour talks, our comrades are in fine enthusiasm. On Thursday I made three meetings, also good ones. Thanks to Comrade Martin Heisler, I had a chance to deliver a short talk to some 300 farmers and their wives at the twentieth annual meeting of the Eric County Farm and Home Bureau Association at Orchard Park and I was well received. In the evening I had another splendid opportunity in Farm and Home Bureau Association at Orchard Park and I was well received. In the evening I had another splendid opportunity in addressing a good crowd of young working women at the Y.W.C.A. in Buffalo. Later in the evening I spoke to a goodly crowd at our old Labor Lyceum on Genesee Street, and our old war-horse, Gustave Strebel, held them spell-bound until I arrived.

We have only two branches in Buffalo, and although I noted considerable improvement, in our Party here, we are still very, very far from effective and from the great organization we had in this city before the war. The difficulties that have bedeviled our Party here are still with us, although I believe that I did observe a little more harmonious relationship among the several very active comrades. Incompatibility, varied temperaments and suspicions and the consequent cross-fire and bad cooperation long retarded the progress of our Party. I pleaded with them to organize a number of ward branches and get to work. Intense activity is the best cure for idle bickering.

branches and get to work. Intense activity is the best cure for full bickering.

Thanks to our splendidly active Comrade Robert Hoffman, my services were well used. Martin Heisler also did a swell job. This remarkably vigorous comrade is as much and as effectively at work as he was twenty years ago and he doesn't miss a moment in doing something for our cause. Heisler will not rest until thousands of Eric County workers and farmers are readers of The New Leader, and he gets scores of subscriptions each week. Comrade Hahn is also an inspiration to meet and to see his fine growth and influence.

Had a very good meeting in Niagara Falls Friday, the best and largest crowd here in a long time. Happy to report that our local is growing fast. It has a fine Rand School study class and a great new crowd of harmonious and active members. Thanks to Comrade Gray and an ardent young minister from Youngstown, N. Y., nearby, our new members are being well schooled in our philosophy and program.

Just finished two busy days in Erie, Pa., and I was thrilled at ou fine local. A little bit pessimistic and hesitant to undertake more an larger activity, they are, nevertheless, a large and experienced grou larger activity, they are, nevertheless, a large and experienced group and have all the potentialities for great achievements. I had fiv gatherings with them in the two days, and just missed a sixth. Duto some hesitancy on the part of the local, my meetings were not arranged by them. A remarkable young comrade, William F. Mann took the job upon himself and arranged things beautifully, and must say that he had the cooperation of the local and an unusually fine group of workers. I got a great reception and achieved good results. Spoke to a good crowd at the Y.M.C.A.; Sunday morning before a large group at the Unitarian Church; in the afternoon I talked on organization before a large membership meeting hastily talked on organization before a large membership meeting hastily arranged; in the evening a great meeting under the auspices of the Central Labor Union. At midnight we celebrated our two-day "revival" sessions with a cheerful anti-prohibition party in the home of one of our grand old German comrades. They tried to get me pickled with his choice wines, but I pleaded to stay sober and arrive sober on my entry into Ohio.

To Organize Unemployed

By Amicus Most

ONE of the immediate tasks facing the Socialist Party is to build up and enlarge the organizations of the unemployed. The Socialist Party must everywhere take the initiative and as where take the initiative and assume the leadership in the struggles of the unemployed. If this work is to result in creating class-consciousness, a realization among the unemployed that Socialism is their only emancipation, permanent organization is necessary so that the confidence in Socialists gained by their leadership in these strug-gles can be utilized to educate for Socialism.

Socialism.

The "New Deal" is breaking down. The new Civic Works program, inadequate as it is, cannot endure long. Through the NRA greater and greater attacks are being made on the standard of living. Workers and farmers are losing confidence in Roosevelt. A new and greater bitterness is rising. Unless Socialists are prepared to direct the rising revolt, the masses may turn towards some demagogic American Hitler. Everywhere we see this revolt—but it is undirected. This is dangerous, for collapsing capitalism will seek to direct this revolt into Fascist channels. channels.

The New York City executive committee is planning an intense drive among the branches in the city to extend the work of the Workers' Unemployed Leagues. Other cities should do likewise. The experiences in those sections where the unemployed organiza-tions have been successful indicate that it is possible to create perma-nent unemployed organizations, and that from the ranks of these organizations a great number of hitherto backward workers can be brought into the party.

Because unemployed organiza-tions are "non-partisan," some So-cialists believe that they are valueless. But it must be realized that the great mass of the unemployed are not yet awakened to Socialism.

By finding the party always on the alert, always ready to do battle for them in their day-to-day struggles, they will get rid of their false notion that the Socialist Party is merely another bunch of politicians looking for office. They will also learn the importance of mass action.

By organizing and educating the unemployed workers, Injon of N ployed we unite the employed with the unemployed, so that instead of fighting each other they fight their common enemy. The New York State Federation of Unemployed Organizations recently adopted a resolution, declaring that under no circumstances would they consent to be used as scabs. In Schenectady the Central Labor Council has accepted the Unemployed Leagues as members. We must press this work, one of

We must press this work, one of the most important phases of the class struggle. Every party local and branch should consider methods of building up the Unemployed Leagues. Detailed plans are avail-able both from the National Office and from Saul Parker, chairman, Workers' Unemployed Leagues, 7 East 15th Street, New York City. Set up a branch committee, obpoliticians looking for office. They will also learn the importance of mass action. It is unions; they are potential party. Set up a branch committee, obtain instructions from the above sources, press this work forward and it will be found to be one of the best methods of building the party.

A TRIBUTE to the life, the work and the character of Morris Hillquit will be paid Friday, December 29th, when the Hillquit Auditorium of the Jronx Labor Center, 809 Westchester Avenue, will be dedicated with a Hillquit Memorial meeting.

The Memorial will not be a mass meeting in the usual sense, with the doors thrown open to the general public, for there is no room in any hall, no matter how large, for the throngs of men and women who revere the memory of Morris Hillquit and who will seek to pay tribute to his useful and beautiful life.

Admission to the Memorial will be by invitation issued by representatives of organizations with which Conrade Hillquit was in one way or another associated in his lifetime. Only when all officially elected delegates are seated will members of the general public be admitted to whatever few seats may be left.

Picket Line in Newark

Local No. 2 of the International Jewelry Workers' Union of Newark, N. J., are employing a picketing method both amusing and effective. They have a skunk—not a live one, to be sure, but a stuffed one—mounted on a platform with wheels, who goes bravely out every morning at the head of the picket line. Her name is "Minnie the Moocher" and her favorite occupation is making faces at the scals who go in and out of the shops.

She is a faithful picket. Every who go in and out of the shops.

She is a faithful picket. Every day—rain, snow or fair weather—Minnie accompanies the men on their rounds. This is the seventh week of the strike in the Precious Jewelry Industry, and the bosses have refused to recognize the union or agree to collective bargaining. The case has been referred to Washington for prosecution, and action is expected soon. The men, in spite of the usual efforts of the employers to break the strike through all the well-known means (and a few new ones), are waging a wonderful fight—and they swear by "Minnie."

A week before the members had voted to accept the report of Comrade Sheer, who had located a suitable place. Then a miracle happened. The branch, one of the most proletarian in its membership make-up and many of whom are unemployed, secured enough pledges to cover the rent for one year. And then each comrade made a special donation towards the funds needed to furnish the new home. A survey of the comrades present resulted in the drafting of their mechanical abilities, and the carpenters, painters, electricians, artists, etc., among them cheerfully volunteered their services for the cause.

Rebel Arts Movie and Photo Groups Meet Friday

The Socialist Party has until now done little in the use of motion pictures as an educational medium. Because of its excessive cost, the professional size (35 mm.) film is probably impracticable, but the amateur size (16 mm.) may have considerable possibilities. Rebel Arts will hold a meeting to consider these possibilities, and to organize a movie group, at its headquarters, 22 East 22nd St., on Friday, Dec. 22, at 39 p. m. The Camera Group, which usually meets Thursdays, will meet this Friday instead.
John J. Klaber, film expert, will introduce the discussion, and films already made will be shown, including "Workers and Coal" and "The Challenge of the Siums." All interested are invited to participate. If you have any films suitable for party use, bring them with you,

N.Y.U. STUDENTS IN MOVE AGAINST MILITARISM

By T. W. Davis

New York University students in a recent two-day anti-war conference declared that "The great masses of people—workers, farmers, students, and intellectuals—have nothing but death and misery have nothing but death and misery have nothing but death and misery to gain from war. It is the imperialism of the great world powers that leads directly to war. This imperialism is a result of the present economic system itself, which can be maintained only by ever expanding markets. The international financiers and the great industrialists, the classes which ternational financiers and the great industrialists, the classes which benefit from the present system, are therefore forced to direct their respective nations into an ever growing exploitation of their colonies, of subject nations and races and classes and into a continuous rivalry with each other for the privilege of such exploitation. ## Waiters Consider British Labor Sees Hope Only A Pointed Question In Socialism, Not in NRA

CHICAGO. — Unsolicited assurances have been received by Socialist Party national headquarters that the British Labor Party is not supporting Roosevelt policies for Great Britain, as has frequently been stated in the American press.

J. S. Middleton, assistant secretary of the Labor Party, wrote National Secretary Clarence Senior: 'So far as the Labor Party is concerned, references to the Roosevelt administration have been Roosevelt administration have been very guarded. They have not gone much further than an appreciation of the speed with which he set about his task, as contrasted with the contented mind of our own 'National' Government."

New York Shoe Workers Ask for Autonomy

THE New York locals of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Interna-tional have decided to demand from and Shoe Workers' International have decided to demand from the international officers important reforms in the principles, methods and conduct of affairs in their organizations.

Their principal demands are: 1. Complete local autonomy for the local unions of Greater New York. 2. Democratic management, the right of members to elect all their officers without interference from the general office. 3. A joint Council of representatives of all locals of Greater New York to be formed immediately, which shall have supervision over the entire work of the union and conduct all negotiations with employers. Business agents shall be under the control of the Joint Council. 4. Special meetings of shop chairmen and shop committees to be called once a month to discuss reports of conditions and transactions in the shops.

It is expected that the above de-shops.

It is expected that the above demands will be granted shortly by the national officers so that the New York locals will be able to conduct their work on a large scale and in a more progressive and more democratic spirit.

The New York locals, whose headquarters are at 157 Waverley Ave., Brooklyn, therefore appeal to all shoe workers to join their ranks. It must be clear to all shoe workers that they cannot expect lasting results from various independent unions. The history of the local shoe workers, and their numerous independent unions, has demonstrated that they can get nothing but turmoil and chaos, misery and suffering by long drawn-out and often needless strikes.

In the last 25 years local shoe workers have experimented with all kinds of independent unions, beginning with the L.W.W. in 1909, beginning with the I.W.W. In 1909, and ending with the Communist Industrial Union in 1933. All these unions conducted long general strikes, all failures.

It seems, therefore, beyond any doubt that no shoe workers' union which is independent—that is, isolated and enert from the American.

which is independent—that is, iso-lated and apart from the American Federation of Labor—can bring lasting improvements. The last strike which was conducted by the Communist Industrial Union took place at a time when there was a general resurgence in the entire American labor movement. Work-ers of various trades organized by the hundreds of thousands and won better conditions, particularly in the City of New York. In spite of all favorable circumstances, the strike of the shoe workers, led by the Communists, lasted practically all season and was a complete failure, bringing misery to the shoe workers.

New York shoe workers must therefore learn from the workers of other trades that they must be part and parcel of the entire American labor movement. That they can do only by joining the Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union, a union recognized by the A. F. of L.

"I am sure the people of America will come to realize more and more, as they see the failure of even the most extreme nethods of controlling industrial capitalism, that the essential economic basis of So-cialism, adapted of course to the particular circumstances of their country, is the right one, not only from the point of view of domestic prosperity but equally from the point of view of international trade and the removal of the economic rivalries which are the basis of war and international unrest.

Is Put to Ramsay

SIR STAFFORD CRIPPS, deputy leader of the Labor Party in Parliament, put a pointed question to ex-Socialist Ramsay MacDonald in a recent radio speech.

He asked the Premier (with illions listening in): "Does he millions listening in): believe that the perpetuation of the private profit earning sys-tem is necessary to the salva-tion of this country?"

United Hebrew Trades in 45th Anniversary Celebration

THE forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Hebrew Trades, central labor body of a large number of unions whose membership is largely composed of Jewish workers, was celebrated Sunday night at a banquet at Webster Hall, New York, at which the leaders and 'spokesmen of the U.H.T. pledged anew their devotion to the ideals to which the organi-zation was dedicated in its earlier years by its leaders in that period, men like Meyer London, Morris Hillquit, Max Pine, B. Feigenbaum, B. Weinstein, Ben Schlesinger, Abraham Cahan and other great Socialist pioneers.

It was a remarkable gathering, undreds of workers, including hundreds of workers, including representatives of the non-Jewish unions, attending, enjoying a gala occasion, and pledging themselves to the principles that gave birth to that organization.

Rubin Guskin, president of the United Hebrew Trades, opened the proceedings with a brief address, after which he introduced B. C. Vladeck as toastmaster. Vladeck viadeck as toastmaster. Viadeck called upon the workers present to rise in tribute to the memory of the comrades who have passed on.

The speakers included representatives of every section of the labor movement, including John Ryan of the Central Trades and Labor Council and William Green, president of the A. F. of L.

A beautiful souvenir book was distributed to the diners, as well as a history of the United Hebrew Trades written by B. Weinstein, a former secretary, nov Jewish Daily Forward. now of the

with my article, "Is Socialist Fight for Legislative Emeasures Wrong?" in the issue of December 2. His basic contention is formulated thus: "Shall the Socialist Party appeal to the working class electorate on the basis of palliative measures, such as unemployment insurance and old age pensions, which assume in their very essence the continuation of the capitalist system, or shall we plan our campaigns on the results of the capitalistic system?"

That statement presents two questions and one assumption.

re capitalistic system?"

That statement presents two questions and one assumption.

QUESTION: Shall we fight for measures of relief for working class? (2) ASSUMPTION: If we do, we assume continuance of the capitalist system. (3) QUESTION: shall we plan campaigns for the overthrow of capitalism? and The statement between the two questions is a pure assumption. It assumes that if a Socialist urges enactment of an administration of the capitalist system." That simply is not true. A Socialist can consistently strive to wrest working class measures from the capitalist system and at the same time for the aboltion of capitalist pixels. measures from the capitalist opposition fight for the aboltion of capitalism itself

Is It Either Or?

COMRADE STAGNER presents the issue as one of alternatives. He assumes that it is a matter of fighting EIDHER for such meausres OR for the overthrow of capilism. We affirm that it is not a matter of EITHER one OR he other, but of doing BOTH. As a Socialist, it is my duty to fight for what I can get for the workers now but at the same time warn them that capitalism itself must be abolished. To be sure, if we merely emphasize the immediate measures we become reformers, but it is also true that if we ignore them and merely concentrate on the ultimate aim we will become sterile utopians. The every-day class fight and aims correlate with our basic intention of overthrowing capitalism.

Comrade Stagner yields the point later on by stating that Socalist legislators would not for a moment "consider voting against these measures." That is to say, Socialists in office would vote for such measures. If they vote for them they should also introduce them. If they should introduce them and fight for them they should certainly declare for them when engaged in a campaign struggle.

If these deductions are not correct, then the only other

If these deductions are not correct, then the only other interpretation is that we should not insert these measures in our programs but, if we elect a Socialist, he should vote for them if some other party representative introduces them. That would be to give the leadership in such measures to capitalist party hacks or some independent "reformer."

Education for the Overthrow of Capitalism

EVERY hour that a Socialist spends in making a speech on unemployment insurance is an hour wasted as far as Socialism is concerned." On the contrary, unemployment insurance agitation offers a fine opportunity to attack the whole capitalist system, laying bare its exploitative character, its absurd contradictions, and the need for its overthrow.

On the other hand, Comrade Stagner's criticism is born of protest gainst a tendency to concentrate attention on imme-late measures in campaigns to the neglect of our basic purpose of education for the overthrow of the whole capital system. We once had a genuine proletarian party and in 1912 we faced Theodore Roosevelt's "Army of the Lord" with a program of measures largely similar to ours. We did not throw ours aside. We emphasized the working class character of our party and fought for our program and basic aim in terms of working class interests. When the campaign was ever, the reformers had not injured us. On the contrary, we polled the largest vote, nearly a million, in our history. Because we are social revolutionists we do not ignore the class issues and struggles of the hour.

An Example of Reformism

A N example of the danger Comrade Stagner sees is Paul Blanshard, who now has a fat job in the fusion adminis-tration that will take over New York City. While a member of our party, his work was devoted to reforms and "cleaning". of our party, his work was devoted to reforms and "cleaning ap" Tammany. Our main job of striving for proletarian power and asserting basic aims was not within his range of propaganda. His desertion of the party when fusion came along was not inconsistent; it was the logical thing for him to do. It is, therefore, not surprising that the party received several letters from other members asking whether they would be permitted to vote for LaGuardia and against our own candidate for Mayor, Charles Solomon.

THE tremendous increase in the it did power of the working class in it has the Central European countries after the World War was not due thing so much to the strength of the Party i working class as to the weakness of its enemies. The ruling classes of those countries were so utterly demoralized and discredited that demoralized and discredited that they simply were not in the field when the question came up as to whether they should continue to rule. Practically over night the Socialist parties of Germany and Austria became tremendously powerful, with majorities in various legislative assemblies and strong minorities in others. Power fell into their lans.

In New York City we paid the penalty for years of toleration of this trend in the party. Despite the excellent campaign stand.

Big Business favors a government with a dictator that Big Business can dictate to. The NRA per bed often voted for us went over to the fusion outfit. Did not a prominent "Socialist" set the example? Then why should they not follow him when a movement finally appeared on the scene to "clean up" Tammany and effect reforms?

Finally, there is the fact that the measures we stand for require a Socialist administration to carry out. A bourgeois or fusion crowd will emasculate them if any are enacted. They will give the shell, not the substance.

The Association supported its stand.

STORIES of the NRA

Do you know of any cases of nibbling at the NRA in a code industry? We recently asked our readers to report cases of violations. Do not rely on gossip and do not exaggerate. We want the facts. Here are a few reports from the NRA front.

Negro Workers Shifted to Lower Paid Jobs as Wages Rise in Code Occupations

Speaking at a three-day conference of the American Ethical Union, James Weldon Johnson, Negro author, declared that the position of the Negro worker is worse than before the enactment of the National Industrial Recovery Act. This occurs because in many instances where the NRA increased wages in occupations where many Negro workers are employed, white whreers slip into the increased wage jobs. wage jobs.

Johnson cited as an example the effect of the NRA on the Negro laborer. The higher wage standlaborer. The higher wage standard, he said, had resulted in lifting from the Negro jobs that formerly no white man would deign to perform. In the South particularly, he said, the traditional marginal position of the Negro in industry had been narrowed under the policies of the NRA, and the Negro "share-cropper" farmer had been pushed to his lowest level of existence.

New Crisis in French Socialism

New Crisis in French Socialism

VANDERVELDE, Adler and the other leaders of the Labor and Socialist International did not succeed in their French mission. After a quarter of a centry of Socialist unity France has again two Socialist parties. One has under its banner a majority of the members and parliamentary, state and municipal representatives and is unofficially labelled "Center" and "Left." The other one embraces a minority of the dues-paying membership and is labelled "Right" or "Neo-Socialists."

The second party came into being on December 3rd at

"Neo-Socialists."

The second party came into being on December 3rd at special convention called by the veteran Socialist, Pierr Renaudel, and the six other deputies who were recently expelled for "continuous and persistent breaches of discipline in ignoring decisions of the party conventions and conference The convention of the "Neo-Socialists" organized a "86 cialist Party of France," as opposed to the old "French Socialist Party" led at present by Leon Blum and Paul Faure.

cialist Party" led at present by Leon Blum and Paul Faure.

The gathering brought many surprises, both organization and ideological. There were present an unexpectedly great number of delegates and guests—about 400 of the first and 1,200 of the second. Among them 28 Deputies and 3 Senators. An exceptionally great percentage of those present were, according to Comrade Ajax of Brussels, young Socialists; the number of dues-paying members was also unusually high. If we are to believe Marcel Deat, general secretary of the new party, 15 federations (state organizations) have already held conventions, 18 others are fully organized and calling lod conventions. In 28 other "departments," or states, the found tion for locals is laid. Some of these locals have quite a knumber of members—6,000 in La Gironde, 2,500 in La Seine

THE new party is making a special appeal to the youth and the unemployed by reducing the membership dues to 5 francs (about 30 cents) a year. And to the middle class elements of the city and village, whose anti-capitalist animosity toward Big Business it is trying to exploit in order to win them to Socialism before their rebellious mood leads them toward Fascist demagogues.

This was stressed in keynote speeches by Renaudel, Deat and Montagnon, and still more in the Program and Declaration adorted.

and will be taken up, if space and the editor will permit, in a future issue.

One of the leaders of the Neo-Socialists, Marquet, the mayor of Bordeaux, proved again the growing suspicion that he is drifting toward a modified, civilized so to say, National-Bolshevism or National-Socialism. He spoke very reluctantly and at the very end of the convention. His speech left the impression that Marquet is not at home even in the new "right" party. The party applied for membership in the L.S.I., but it would be a misfortune to accept it as long as Marquet is associated with it.

Communists Support Socialists in Madrid Election SOMETHING unusual happened in Madrid. The local Communists supported the Socialist candidates in the par-liamentary elections of December 3. Is it because one of their lamentary elections of December 3. Is it because one of their leaders, Henri Lacroix, joined the Socialist Party, or because in this case they had to choose between Catholic and Socialist candidates, and they preferred the "lesser evil"?

The French press reports a similar situation in another election district. On the other hand, there is a report that the lone Communist elected to the Cortes on this second ballot owes his success to the support of Socialists.

Socialist Prisoners Freed in Soviet Union

THE Socialist Westnik, official publication of the Russia THE Socialist Westnik, official publication of the Russian Social-Democratic Labor Party (Menshevik), is authority for the glad tidings that "more than a score of comrades have been released." It is reported in a correspondence from Moscow in the November 25 issue. It adds that "the place of banishment has been changed for many comrades," but that the situation in the places of exile and banishment is very desperate. Want is great. Help with clothing, food and money is urgent. The release is in reality only nominal, for the present passport system (in the Soviet Union) is such that they are not permitted to live in large industrial centers and will be forced to choose small provincial towns, where gainful employment is quite an unattainable dream.

If this were the point Nearing was trying make by indirection, argued make by indirection, argued mas, then it was absolutely e. Indeed, the issue of na-alism and internationalism is make re legitimately an issue between and Trotsky than between Socialists and Communists. It is specially inaccurate at present to imply that the Communists are the sole possessors of an international-ist outlook, considering that the in-ists of the Comintern are being produnated to the interests of her tip, that Stalin was as hasty prefecognize Hitler as bourgeois merica, that _itvir.off found it sible to travel directly from osevelt to Mussolini.

The second major point Thomas made was that the present policies Communists in Russia as well as an examination of radical movements in general show strong-ly the need for realism in action. In attempting to organize a revo an attempting to organize a revolutionary movement we must realize that people want things here and now and it is possible for an audience to applaud the most revolutionary phrases and then vote for LaGuardia, for a Communist union to organize and then complex the complexity of the lutionary basis and then employ the tactics and pursue the policies of any A. F. of L. union, for such a communist union to call for revolution and then offer codes under bidding those of conservative trade

Thomas differentiated sharply Thomas differentiated sharply between a real proletarian government whose policies rest upon the freely expressed will of the broadcast masses of workers of hand and brain and the "present dictatorship in Russia" which "was not one of the working class but of a bureaucracy" as Trotsky points out. Thomas also tended to agree out. Thomas also tended to agree with Trotsky that it was folly to throw away the slogan of democ-racy, since it has real worth among the workers, Moreover, argued Thomas, to talk of dictatorship to-day is suicidal in that it would place a powerful weapon, not in the hands of the workers but of re-

After analyzing the various techniques open to the Communists, such as insurrection, coup d'etat, civil war, or seizure of power after defeat in international war, Thoma maintained that all would be either entirely futile or so completely de-structive as to annihilate the tech-nical and cultural bases for Social-conclusion, Thomas empha-that the Communist tactic of recting the main fire against the Socialists and the main body organized labor in America is structive both to the interests working class and of the co-operative commonwealth. Such fratricidal warfare weakened the forces of the workers in the face of an onrushing Fascist attack.

Nearing attempted to answer homas' question as to how the ommunist overthrow would come the working class develop a capa-ble revolutionary leadership which would know how to make the revolution, as happened in Russia. said that it was not wise to shed too many tears over or tc take too much advise from Trotsky who opposed Socialist construction in Russia, who was "kicked out" for it, and who deserves what he is getting.

Thomas said that the united front would be much nearer realization if the Communists did not attempt to use it to destroy not only the Fascists but the Socialists as well. He re-emphasized the fact that the workers did not want dictatorship today. It was the job of the Socialist to "avoid bureau-cracy even if it has renounced capitalism" and to raise the slogan of real proletarian democracy.

Inflation's First Victims Are the Wage-Workers

They will be obtainable only in return for other goods, or for the gold that was secretly hoarded last year. Those fortunate enough to have something to exchange for food and fuel will be able to get it. The Rest will go on the breadlines—if there are any. There will be bootlegging of food and of gold. There will be hijacking and racketeering on a vast scale.

The German workers during the inflation period (1922-1923) were well organized. They managed to push wages up every day, if necessary, to keep pace at least with the price of bread and milk. In America, under similar conditions America, under similar conditions the poorly organized worker would be faced with starvation. For he has little power to compel wage

While the workers starve strange things would be happening. The worker who has a savings bank account may receive a letter asking him to withdraw his money. He will go, and if he is lucky he will be able to buy a glass of beer for the money that he has been painfully saving for years. People will rush to pay their debts in the worthless paper money, and the unlucky creditors, compelled to accept payment, will in reality have lost their property. Property will pass, as never before, into the hands of a few rich men. A period of inflation will complete the destruction of the middle classes. If this could be accomplished without at the same time inflicting out at the same time inflicting enormous damage upon the working class, a Socialist might look on with unconcern. But I have already pointed out what inflation will do to the workers.

The truck farmer will be in a rne truck farmer will be in a somewhat better position—for a while—than the city dweller. He will have his products, he will have enough to eat and he will be able, by direct barter, to get clothes and fuel. If he is willing to return to primitive conditions he will be able to weather inflation, but if long-continued he will, sooner or later, be visited by hungry city mobs who will not hesitate to plunder him. somewhat better position-while—than the will not hesitate to plunder him, and if need be, to kill him.

and if need be, to kill him.

The wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco farmers, who are among those howling for inflation, will be among the hardest hit. True, they can pay off their present mortgages and loans in paper of little value. But to whom will they sell their crops? At what prices?
What will they be able to buy for the money they receive? How will What will they be able to buy for the money they receive? How will they be able to meet the interest and principal of the new loans that they will be compelled to make? They cannot profit from the barter of milk and eggs for clothes and oil, unless they, too, turn truck farmers, and so sink into that peasanthood from which they thought they had escaped.

And after inflation, what? Sooner or later inflation ends. The government repudiates all the outstanding money and issues new money ing money and issues new money on a gold or other metal basis. But it cannot restore to its former owners the property they have lost. The workers, stripped of all they have saved, will have to go back to work at prices dictated by their poverty-stricken state. The farmers once more will mortgage their farms and agree to pay interest and principal in gold. The rich will be immensely richer, and the poor greatly poorer. the poor greatly poorer.

Why then do the rich oppose flation? Because they do not know where the lightning will strike. In such a whirlwind of confusion as inflation creates, anything may happen. The class of rich men is sure to profit, but no individual capitalist is sure that he will survive the storm. If he were sure he would, and that the other fellow would perish, he would welco inflation with open arms.

There are many people, particularly in our western states, who imagine they know all about money. They believe that if the government prints unlimited green-backs all will be well with the workers and farmers. They mix this nonsense with "radical" phrases about "crucifying labor on to be found in working class and farmers' movements, where they serve to misdirect what would otherwise be constructive revolutionary impulses. They are dan-

So long as the capitalist system lasts the worker needs a currency that he can depend on. As long as the worker is interested in wages he is better off if he can calculate at least for a few months or a year ahead approximately what his money can have. He is exceived. his money can buy. He is serving his interests beat if he devotes his attention to the overthrowing of the capitalist system, and if he does not allow himself to be misled into the easy money trap. Playing with the money system will get the

The New Deal Santa Claus Passes His Gifts Around

Cudahy Finds a Big Plum in His Stocking, but a Lot of Other Folks Find Nothing but Higher Prices

By William M. Feigenbaum -

WHILE we are on the general subject of the New Deal, let's take a look at some figgers.

The Cudahy Packing Company, in its annual report just made public, shows net profit for the depression year ended October 28, 1933, of $1,813,766, after deducting expenses, depreciation, income taxes, and other fixed charges; this includes, of course, big salaries for executives. This means $2.64 profit on each share of common stock, as compared to 70 cents for the previous year.

In the same period total sales declined from $133,313,687 to $124,278,387, or about nine million dollars. (Purchasing power was affected by a depression you may have heard of.) But the brainy business men knew how to increase profits. One way was to cut wages and fine employees right and left. Another was to buy in the open right and left. Another was to buy in the open market quantities of the company's own common stock at "depression prices" and retire it; thus an extra profit of $888,818 was made to turn over to the men and women whose contribution to human welfare consists in the ownership of pieces of paper.

Yes, indeed, things are looking up for owners of pieces of paper and the big, brainy executives they hire to make profits for them.

There are reports of increasing business activity everywhere. Steel buying is rapidly increasing, everywhere. Steel buying is rapidly increasing, and whereas a few weeks ago plants were working at 25.2 per cent of capacity, it now looks as if they will now work at 31.5 per cent. Steel payrolls are increasing slightly, due to the scarcity of skilled labor; Chicago stores are adding clerks as purchasing goes up; there is a "buying wave" in Detroit sending sales up 10 per cent over the 1932 level; business in St. Louis is above the

These are a few of the straws that show that Business (spelled with a capital B) has something to be optimistic about. And the non-stock owning folks? The negligible people who just do the work and draw the wages

(when they have jobs), or try to make a few dollars go a long way?

Here's what the New Deal means to them:

Here's what the New Deal means to them:
In the past year pork chops went up ten per cent in price; bacon 3.6 per cent; canned salmon 6.6 per cent; fresh milk 4.7 per cent, and evaporated milk 13.3 per cent.

Lard went up 12.6 per cent; wheat bread 19.4 per cent; flour 60 per cent; corn meal 11.1 per cent; rice 11.3 per cent; beans 30.4 per cent;
potatoes 64.3 per cent.

Cot enough or can you stand a few more

Got enough, or can you stand a few more

Well, in the same year onions went up 30.8 per cent; cabbage 56.5 per cent (and 12.5 per cent more in the last two weeks); canned tomatoes 11.4 per cent; sugar 9.8 per cent; prunes 20.8 per cent.

That will give you the idea.
Business is picking up. Things are looking quite rosy—for some people. More employment. More people are getting wages, hard-working stockholders are beginning to get the reward of their long abstinence, money is circulating a little.

And the same old cockeyed lack of balance is there. For the New Deal has not touched the crux of the trouble at all.

At the very best, if the New Deal works 100

At the very best, if the New Deal works 100 per cent according to plans, if everything claimed for it is true, it still does not touch the one thing that is the matter, the profit system.

That's where the fight must be waged. It can't be waged by good-hearted, benevolent capitalists. And it won't be waged by statesmen representing parties that uphold and are the spokesmen of that system. battle is for the toilers themselves to that battle is for the toners themselves to wage; those who do the world's work, and receive the dregs; those who create the wealth and are the first to be tossed on the scrap-heap.

It is a battle of the workers organized in their unions and not yet organized, of the farmers and the white-collar workers, and of the jobless, of the Socialist Party. Join us in that battle!

"Roman Scandals," Eddie Canor's fourth annual screen musica! omedy for Samuel Goldwyn, will e the attraction at the Rivoli heatre beginning today. Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart, Da-id Manners, Edward Arnold

Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart, David Manners, Edward Arnold, Veree Teasdale and this year's erop of the beautiful Goldwyn Girls share the principal roles with Cantor. Other members of the cast include Alan Mowbray, Jack Rutherford, and Grace Poggi.

George Kaufman and Robert Sherwood wrote "Roman Scanlals." In it Eddie Cantor plays wistful lad in West Rome, Okla., whose imagination carries him back to the aid of beauty in distress in the Rome of the Caesers. Beginning in the Slave Market, the story takes him through the fancastic complications of court intrigue and ends with a stirring chariot race with the emperor's guard in close persuit of Eddie who has gained possession of a state secret. He escapes to West Rome, Okla.

Eddie Cantor introduces three bongs—"Keep Young and Beautiul" and "Build a Little Home," written for him by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, and "Tax on Love," by Warren and L. Wolfe Gilbert. Ruth Etting sings "No More Love" and Grace Poggi presents a vivid lance creation. George Kaufman and Robert therwood wrote "Roman Scan-

an Associated Press dispatch declared in its lead story from the capitol that "A Socialist tonight capitol that "A Socialist tonight sat in the driver's seat of the Republican-controlled House of Representatives." Over the bitter protests of the nominal leaders of the majority of the House, Socialist Representative Parlington Hoopes forced the legislature into a pledge to remain sitting for the entire five days of the legislative week in order to act on social and week in order to act on social and labor legislation. His resolution carried by a vote of 101 to 89.

The legislature, in the present special session, devoted three weeks providing for the regulation and taxation of liquor. The Socialist program was embodied in a measure by Representative Lilith Wilson for socialization of the entire traffic. When that was defeated the Socialists supported the measure finally adopted which neasure finally adopted which ocialized the wholesale distribution of liquor and assigned the evenue to old age assistance and employment relief.

The Socialist delegation intro-uced a wide range of social legis-ation, but the Grundy machine through its chairmen of the Labor and Constitutional Amendments committees locked up all these ills and refused to call a comills and refused to call a committee's meeting. Hoopes attacked he conspiracy by moving that all lommittees meet and act on the soial legislation in their possession. The resolution carried after a stiff leattle by a record vote of 175 to 8. On Wednesday a motion was nade to adjourn, although the rectionaries of the Grundy machine ad so far defied the instructions of the House, and the dead line set y the Hoopes resolution had rived. However, the committees a Labor and Constitutional Amendn Labor and Constitutional Amenda Labor and Constitutional Amend-ents were called by Chairman Vilson L. Yeakel before the legis-ture convened the next Monday ght, but Yeakel only presented ree reactionary bills for action, though a majority of the com-ittee was opposed to them. The airman then declared the 11 oppressive measures in the comgressive measures in the comttee were not around and the mmittee could not act. Hoopes, a member of the committee,
m moved to instruct the chairan to bring the bills before the mmittee in ten minutes, and the ption carried by 17 out of 20

Among the bills thus brought at of committee and saved from gnominious death were a child abor measure, the 30-hour week ill of Mrs. Wilson, the Hoopes ill forcing employers to pay rages when due in cash, a resolution appointing a commission on memployment insurance, a measure legalizing the check-off for mion dues, and a bill reducing the working hours of women. The constitutional Amendments Committee reported Mrs. Wilson's bills or an old age pensions amend-nent to the state constitution and resolution ratifying the Federal resolution ratifying the Federal hild Labor Amendment.

Six of these passed and were ent to the Senate, two received majority but failed for lack of constitutional majority, and only wo were defeated. Those adopted acluded ratification of the Federal hild Labor Amendment and a bill uthorizing cities and counties to ay mothers' and old age pensions. It was with this background that

Honest Business Needn't Worry Under the NRA

Peek Reassures His Hearers That "Legitimate" Profits Are Safe-Socialists Protest Biased Administrators

By Observer Washington, D. C.

THE Roosevelt recovery program does not aim at the abolition of the capitalist system and the Tugwell "radicals" in and the the Gov Tugwell Government service are not the big, bad wolves they have been painted by Wall Street, says George N. Peek, former head of Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The Tugwell "radicals" may think they are bad wolves, but their howl is worse than their bite, Peek intimates.

bite, Peek intimates.

Peek, who recently split with the Tugwellites in the Agricultural Department and was appointed head of a Government organization to promote foreign trade, took advantage of a speech before the American Farm Federation at Chicago to reassure timid souls who fear the Roosevelt program spells revolution with a big R. Said he:

"There is great apprehension in

"There is great apprehension in the minds of many business men-today about the relations of gov-ernment to business. There is grave concern about the expressions of a few ultra-liberals about the grave few ultra-liberals about the govern few ultra-liberals about the govern-ment taking over private business. Ft you want my opinion, personally, this apprehension is unwarranted. Legitimate profits have always been regarded in this country as a proper reward for individual ini-tiative, industry and thrift. I know of no substitute for such traits. "There is abroad in the land propaganda for doing away with aganda for doing away with institutions under which we grown and prospered. I am not the racketeers of high against the racketeers of high finance and the racketeers of the underworld. The remedy lies not in destroying our institutions but in reaching these racketeers."

reaching these racketeers."
Peek's words hark back to the gime of Herbert Hoover and agged individualism." Like Hoot, Peek thinks that doing away the the worst evils of the capiist system is all that is called in the present crisis. Abolish racketeers of high and low ree and everything will be well,

Peek believes in striving to cure the symptoms, not the disease it-self. And, in the opinion of most capable observers, that is the most recovery program has in view What some few men who hold sub-ordinate office under the Adminis-

ORGANIZED WORKERS AND SOCIALISTS AGREE

Organized labor and the Socialist Party are in close agreement in their criticism that the NRA has fallen far short of its original aim. Both point out that the maximum hours are too long and the minimum pay too low under the codes. President Green of the American Federation of Labor has been hammering away at the idea that the 30-hour week must come and wages raised without delay. If puchasing power is to be increased surficeatly to bring recovery. This is stressed in the recent statement of Norman Thomas and Louis Organized labor and the Socialist ment of Norman Thomas and Louis Waldman, in behalf of the Socialist Party's Public Affairs Committee.

The A. F. of L. has been demanding labor representation on the code authorities, as urged in the Socialist statement. Not long ago it was reported that General Johnson, Recovery Administrator, had agreed "in principle" to this at a conference with the NRA at a conference with the NRA Labor Advisory Board. But apparfounded, though there is little doubt that Johnson will be compelled in the end to acknowledge the justice of labor's demand.

The Socialist statement scored a point in charging that "in the making of codes, outside of the top, the NRA has been packed against

"Most of those in charge are men who are either employers or whose connection with employers makes them more sympathetic with the views of the employing groups," the statement added. The Socialists are bringing out

The Socialists are bringing out in the open a matter that has aroused bitter labor resentment, not publicly voiced to any extent. Labor knows that some of the deputy administrators are biased against the workers. This attitude has been made manifest or secretal. against the workers. This attitude has been made manifest on several occasions. But labor has made no public protest against unfriendly administrators and other NRA officials, though it has objected strenuously to certain rulings of these officials at code hearings.

was compelled to stand barefoot or a cake of ice. Another was tied down on a table, an inverted glass placed on his bare chest, and a live scorpion imprisoned under it.

An obscure news item from Lon don registered last week some sign of civil peace progress in India. There were 3,861 civil disobedience prisoners at the beginning of this month, as against 34,500 persons at the end of April, 1932—a decrease of 30,639 political prisoners in nineteen months.

The Labor Board

T is good that the President has bestowed a degree of legal power on the National Labor Board which apparently it had heretofore lacked. This ought to strengthen its position in dealing with the defiance of the Weierton Steel Company and the E. D. Budd Manu-

and the E. D. Budd Manufacturing Company in re-fusing to obey its order to reinstate union men and to hold proper elections. There is, however, a real problem in the extension of the power of the Labor Board. At present such strengthening of its power is probably to the advan-tage of labor. How to se-cure that advantage and to create prece which eventually will lead to compulsory arbitration and the outlawing of strikes is not altogether

Clearly the Labor Board and other administrative agencies of the NRA should have power to con

The Board will probably also have to have the The Board will probably also have to have the right to guarantee fair play to minority groups in labor ranks itself. As every thoughtful well informed labor man knows, at this stage of proceedings labor racketeering will simply result, unless labor cleans its own house, in the government clamping an iron control down upon the unions. Actually there is no hundred per cent satisfactory adjustment of strikes, no advantage for workers without certain dangers, so long as the system of absentee ownership and production for profit domiabsentee ownership and production for profit dominates the situation. Our principal concern is with what will make labor organization intelligent, aggressive, inclusive and clean.

The Furriers

THAT is why it is so important that in these times when things are changing fast we should look beyond the ends of our noses. We have to consider acts as possible precedents. My friends who wrote last week in The New Leader about the crimes of the left wing furriers missed my point. It is one thing to call a policemen to protect you against the strong arm man; it is another thing to call on capitalist courts to aid you by an injunction got in collusion with employers against another union. Not only in the matter of injunctions but in dealing with government agencies labor will have to be unusually careful not to sell its birthright for a mess of pottage.

Turmoil in Many Fields

THE general labor situation as it is developing under the Codes is far from satisfactory. In Western Pennsylvania in some of the coal mines company unions won, probably not solely as the result of company propaganda but perhaps partly as the result of the unpopularity of certain high officials of the United Mine Workers.

officials of the United Mine Workers.

In Philadelphia the P.R.T. by a piece of high-handed arrogance locked out the taxi drivers for the sole crime of organizing in an A. F. of I. union and contemptuously refused all negotiations before the Labor Board on the ground that there was as yet no code anyhow in the taxi industry. Taxi drivers in Philadelphia work 60 hours for a minimum of $12 a week, which minimum is usually the maximum. The taxi industry is run as an aid to the P.R.T. monopoly and the monopoly is run for the benefit of the financial underliers who are Morgan's allies, the banking house of Drexel, and in particular allies, the banking house of Drexel, and in particular Mr. Stotesbury. In the name of his property rights the spirit of the code is defied, gangsters are employed to scare taxi drivers, and all Philadelphia thrown into turmoil and confusion. Only on the threat of a general strike in the transportation field has the Labor Board at last begun to act.

At Chester and in Edgewater, Ford still successfully defies the spirit, if not the letter, of the Code. His men are still locked out, as they have been since the end of September for no other crime than that of organization.

Today labor's outstanding interest in the field of the Codes probably concerns the projected restaurant code. The code for hotel workers has already been signed and is one of the worst of such documents. Among other evils it permits a 54-hour week. It looks as if the restaurant code would be at least equally bad. equally bad.

The proposal of Benjamin Gottesman, secretary-treasurer of Local No. 1 of the Waiters' Union, that treasurer of Local No. I of the waiters Union, that tips be abolished and a minimum wage of $30 as week be granted instead should evoke support from labor and from that thing vaguely called public opinion. The tipping system tends to make panhandlers out of the best of folks. Workers in general would overwhelmingly reject it in the trades where they work.

Ever-Mounting Debt Burdens

ONE of the amazing things today is the degree to which the Administration and a large part of the public manage to dodge the issue of evermounting debt. In reality it is this issue which lies mounting debt. In reality it is this issue which lies behind the dangerous cry for enormous inflation. It is an issue that cannot be dodged. Our national debt will soon pass its height in the World War. Mayor LaGuardia here in New York City will find that he can do practically nothing unless he can break the bankers' hold on New York and drastically reduce the burden of debt charges which consume something like a fifth of the whole city budget. It will he necessary to have lower interest moratorium. will be necessary to have lower interest, moratoriu on some of the debts, refunding or something

Here is one more good reason for electing Samuel Here is one more good reason for electing Samuel Orr to the Senate from the Bronx. He will hold a kind of balance of power in a Senate evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and he will do a whole lot more in any real and effective fight in behalf of New York City for deliverance from coupon clippers than any Repulican-Fusion candidate. Bronx voters have a rare chance to help the city, the state—yes, the whole nation. Nothing will put more heart into the Socialist cause than Sam's election. It's a job that can be done if we work hard enough. hard enough.

The basis of our trouble is that we are always paying for what we have had or are alleged to have had and not what we ought to have. Mr. Bassett Jones shows that the rate of debts has been increasing about three times the rate of production. That means that the holders of debt certificates are swallowing up the national income. There is no more dangerous economic fallacy than that sometimes advanced to the effect that if a debt is held entirely within a nation it doesn't matter much because the total spending power of the nation is thus kept within the nation. To say that is to ignore the fact that the distribution of spending power is the vital question and that to keep the masses toiling to pay past debts is one of the surest imaginable ways to keep them from enjoying the products of their toil.

What Is a Socialist's Duty?

THE defection of Sinclair in California and of Blanshard in New York has naturally revived Blanshard in New York has naturally revived considerable interest in party discipline. Obviously the Socialist Party ought not to have room in it for men who directly or indirectly support a non-Socialist party. Civil service or certain other expert work for government in definite fields does not necessarily involve support of a non-Socialist party. Any job connected with policy-forming does imply such support. It is hard to lay down a general rule. The important thing here is to preserve the instegrity of the Party. tegrity of the Party.

On the other hand, as matters now stand, I think On the other hand, as matters now stand, I think we may fall into certain Communist errors and into Communist unpopularity if in labor unions, farmers' societies, cooperatives, or other organizations, not involving political action or any repudiation of fundamental Socialist principles, we bind our members to act only on one line. Conference between Socialists is in order; binding conferences are not—certainly not under conditions that prevail today. We shall merely antagonize our present and our proshall merely antagonize our present and our pro-spective members and arouse a certain suspicion in the organizations themselves. The requirement the organizations themselves. The requirements that Socialists in unions, for instance, shall act like Socialists and not like Republicans and Democrats, is not a requirement for rigid caucus action
