Drivers Unions in Western States Pledge Cooperation In Organizing Chain Stores

An important meeting of representatives of drivers' unions was held April 18-19 in Billings, Montana, for the purpose of organizing chain-store operations west of the Mississippi River. In attendance were representatives of drviers' unions from Butte, Helena, Great Falls, Billings, Missoula, Spokane, Seattle, St. Paul, Minot, Grand Forks, problems of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters' locals in the area, the conference summarized its policy in the following

· delegates assembled at a special-called meeting in Billings, Montana, agree that we will assist one another in the organization of Highway Drivers, Warehouse and Produce employees;

"Be it further resolved, that we agree to use our influence in our various Joint Councils to bring about a concerted action against any employer or firm who is against the organization of any of his employees into any Local Union of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters;

"And be it further resolved, that we who favor and are willing to cooperate with others that favor our plan will refuse to sign contracts or work for any chain organization who may be operating in our district until each district that is willing to work and cooperate to the end that they receive agreements and unionization is recognized;

"Be it further resolved that returning home report to their Joint Council that we have gone on record as delegates assembled to immediately put forth an active fight on Montgomery Ward & Co., Nash Finch Co., Pacific Fruit and Produce. Gamble Robinson Co., and other chain operations that are not entirely organized in the twenty-two Western and Central States;

"Be it further resolved, that at any time that any division that places any chain operation on any unfair lot of the Teamsters Union in any portion of the U.S.A., that we as representatives use our every effort to see that siad operation finally recognizes the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs. Warehousemen and Helpers of America."

Next Meeting June 26-28 The Billings meeting was one of a series that has been held in the past year to further organization at Nash Finch and other chains.

The conference moved to hold the next meeting at Billings on June 26-27-28. A banquet was held for visiting delegates at the close of the conference.

administration is to hold over labor's head the threat of such union-crippling legislation as that introduced by Vinson to force labor to accept a "voluntary" weekly. Last summer the union cently approved by the House Labor in Minnesota knows, probably better than labor in most parts of America, that the cooling-off period works only to the advantage of the employers, permitting them to use such intervals to disrupt the union and complete preparations to smash the strike.

> At hearings on the bill last week before the House Rules Committee, George Meany, secretary of the AFL, said the bill "will destroy the most fundamental rights of trade unionism. It will produce chaos and resentment, and make the workers feel rebellious. In fact, this bill will make more Communists than anything you can do."

> Its terms are so sweeping, said Meany, that if even one or two workers quit their jobs in war industry, they could be prosecuted for "impeding defense" and lay themselves open to heavy fines and imprisonment.

That the Steel Trust is still the sovereign power in the state of Minnesota was again made clear as the state legislature ended its four-month stand Saturday, having accomplished less than in almost any other session in the state's history.

Key to the legislature's inactivity was the resistance by the public servants of the United States Steel Corporation to all efforts to solve the

> Every hour of every day and night, 10,000 tons of iron ore are leaving the docks at Duluth for the East. Seventyfive million tons of insufficiently taxed Minnesota ore will float down the Great Lakes this year. By a coincidence, on Tuesday, the very day Governor Stassen issued his apology over the radio for the Republican-controlled legislature, the U. S. Steel Cornoration announced its net profit for the quarter ended March 31st was $36,559,995. A reasonable tax on the ore would have taken some of these millions and turned them over to the needy people of Minnesota.

Wholly Reactionary Session The 52nd session of the Minne sota legislature cannot record one progressive achievement. Not one new law was passed of benefit to the masses of people. The most the liberals were able to accomplish was to block some unjust legislation—such as the railroads' bill to limit gasoline truck gallonage; the bill to compel deportation of the non-resident poor from the state; the $2 poll tax bill; and the Stassen special sales tax on to-

The Need for Area Councils

Excerpts from the Speech by International Vice-President Dave Beck at the April 9th Central States Highway Drivers Council Meeting.

I.

I welcome the opportunity to be here and to discuss with you what are the common problems of the truck drivers' organizations, whether they be in the East, the Central States or on the Pacific Coast, because after all our problems are in a great measure identical.

The same type of truck driver operates on the Western slope as operates on the Atlantic seaboard, and the identical type of truck driver goes up and down the highways of the Central States in the same degree that they do in the other parts of the coun-

The only place where we differ is in the topographical make-up of the country.

Personally I am a great and firm believer in having perfect organizational detail; then, I believe, the rest of the problems by virtue of that will automatically solve them-

I am a firm believer in developing personnel. It is my opinion that no organization can be stronger than its leadership; and no leadership can make the proper progress unless it is supported by everybody, on down to the most humble member in complete support of the programs that are finally adopted through the democratic procedures that we use to formulate our activity whether through the medium of Joint Councils or conferences or conventions. After all, the degree to which we perfect our system of operation and educate the personnel that handles our work will in a large measure tend to determine what our final progress shall be. .

We are organizing thousands upon thousands of members from the Atlantic Coast to the Western seaboard, and from the Gulf of Mexico up through Canada, and it is necessary that we evolve some definite form of education in order that we may make the proper progress for those people after we have brought them into our organization . . . .

WHY WORKERS JOIN UNION From a practical standpoint, what is a labor union and why do people join labor unions, and why do we solicit their membership? Men and women join labor unions for the purpose of improving their conditions in life. The people wh join our organizations do not own any factories, laundries or dairies or truck companies. They own no manufactured product or agriculture. There is only one thing in the world that they own-their labor, and they join labor unions for the purpose of selling that labor for the highest possible return that they can receive for it through organized effort and commensurate with the times and places and conditions under which they sell it. If we keep that firmly in mind, that from that standpoint our organizations are strictly business organizations, we will not go far astray. We must conduct our local unions, our Joint Councils, our highway organizations, our conferences, our International Union on that basic and fundamental principle, and we must educate our personnel of leadership to the firm understanding that it is a business that we are opera-

He is primarily interested in perfecting a condition for himself and his family today. And therefore the dues that he pays should be utilized for that pur-

NEW CONDITIONS

Now we must study the trends of industrial development in these United States if we are going to take our rightful place in the development of this teamsters movement. We are not at all operating under the same conditions that we operated five, ten, fifteen, twenty and twenty-five years ago. The machinery of operation of this International Union that was effective. that was concrete, that would develop the things that it should do as to the organizing of our people twenty-five years ago, will not necessarily do it today. For instance, in the formation of our Joint Council, when our Joint Councils were developed, when our International conventions approved them, we were confronted with the condition that revolved around the industrial status of the times. Truck drivers were men who were driving horse - driven equipment, where the most that they could hope to travel in a given day, contingent upon the load that the horses were drawing and the type of their operation, was twenty-five miles a day.

But what is the condition today? The same truck driver who could operate only five, ten, fifteen or twenty-five miles in a given day a few short years back, can today operate as high as three, four, and even five hundred miles under favorable topographical conditions within the given hours that he is permitted to work.

Why, that in itself demonstrates to us that we must keep in touch and in harmony with, and mold our organization in conformity with, the technological development of the industrial life of America, and keep apace of the manufactured conditions that surround the operation of the industry by which we are employed.

AREA COUNCILS FOLLOW

TREND Therefore it was a natural condition that there should have come into existence highway councils and the Western Conference of Teamsters and the central groups, and it is going to continue to grow and develop and spread as fast as we are ready to assimilate it into the mechanism of our International Union by virtue of our ability to prove that it is the proper procedure under which we should operate, in conformity with the funlamental principle that shall alstand-wages, hours and conditions for the men and women in the ranks of our organization going to make up our general membership . . . . I have no hesitancy in prophesying to this organization here today that unless you do perfect the machinery of this organization so that you can develop to the highest possible degree every detail of our operation, you will be continually confronted with trouble. You never solved any problem by walking away from it, and the man who sets up a problem and then says, "Oh. I can't get them to do it in this way," and walks away from it, expecting that problem to solve itself, by that conduct proves completely his inability to measure up to the responsibilities of leadership ....

AIR FREIGHT SEEN I want to make a prediction here. I am going to recommend to the next Executive Board meeting of this International Union that we ask for jurisdiction over airplanes, over airplane pilots, and over those engaged in the handling of freight on airplanes. Why? Some may laugh at it today. I wonder how many people know that last Christmas there were fourteen solid planes loaded with express that left Chicago for Los Money and treasuries are not Angeles at one time during the the machinery to build the planes. All over the United States they are putting up monstrous plants to build airplanes. What for? Today for national defense. But what about tomorrow? And I say that in all our meetings over the Western part of the country I can find thousands of men who can recognize our problems the day after they occur, but it requires brains and ability and understandng to be able to look down that road in front of you and be prepared for it ahead of time.

I am going to make this prediction today to you: This war will not go on indefinitely. Sooner or later it will end, as it must end, and then what about all these airplane corporations which are located all over the United States, constructing airplanes with the technological development that every day is being intensified? I wonder what influence they are going to have on the railroad and trucking industry of America. #### Golden Stream Of War Profits

Profits of 24 aircraft man-facturers, all working on war orders, were doubled in 1940, the N. Y. Times reported Sunday. The 24 firms profited to the tune of $69,866,405, more than double the 1939 profits, nearly three times the 1938 profits, and more than five times the 1937 profits. "Each of these years set a new high rec-ord for the industry and further peaks are likely under the national defense effort. Eighty makers of automobile equipment profited to the tune of $93,852,646 in 1940, a gain of 35.2 per cent over 1939. Profits of seven shipbuilding and repair companies earned $13,027,901 in 1940, more than double 1939 profits.

The aircraft industry now has orders booked in excess of $4 billion. Monday the Associated Press reported that earnings of the first 175 companies to report for the first quarter of 1941, were 16 per cent greater than the same period last year. Profits of the group totaled $232,-934,000 in the first three months of 1941.

Profits of 17 steel companies show an increase of 82 percent over the same period in 1939. The union reader could not do better than to invest a few hundred thousand dollars he might have lying around in an old pair of pants, in some of these war babies.

Preamble of Constitution of American Federation of Labor ... "Whereas, a struggle is going on in all the nations of the civilized world between the oppressors and the oppressed of all countries, a struggle between the capitalist and the laborer, which grows in intensity from year to year, and will work disastrous results to the toiling millions if they are not combined for mutual protection and benefit.

"It, therefore, behooves the representatives of the Trade and Labor Unions of America, in convention assembled, to adopt such measures and disseminate such principles among the mechanics and laborers of our country as will permanently unite them to secure the recognition of rights to which they are justly entitled.

"We, therefore, declare ourselves in favor of the formation of a thorough Federation, embracing every trade and labor organization in America, organized under the Trade Union System."

Yep, That's It

This is a sad story of a batch of recruits drafted in the Ozarks. The rookies, on the morning after their arrival, were lined up in front of the barracks for roll call. Right in the middle of roll call, one of the rookies, a big gangling fellow with dull eyes, jumped out of line and ran after a piece of paper that was blowing along the company street. He caught the piece of paper, turned it carefully on both sides, studied it, and then said mournfully: "Nope. That ain't it."

Meanwhile the sergeant stood there howling for the rookie to get back into line. The dull-eyed fellow from the Ozarks got back into line. But only three minutes later, while the sergeant was in the middle of a nice pep talk to the new soldiers, a piece of torn newspaper fluttered across the parade ground. Again the big, gangling fellow leaped out of line and caught the piece of paper. Again he studied it and again he announced sorrowfully: "Nope, that ain't it."

The sergeant gave the rookie a terrific tongue-lashing and reported the case to the first lieutenant. The lieutenant decided it was a case calling for mental eamxination. So he had the draftee from the Ozarks taken to the fort hospital. The staff psychiatrist began the test, but he had hardly started when the big, gangling rookie leaped to a table on which there was a sheet of blank paper. He studied it minutely on both sides and then said almost tearfully: "Nope, that ain't it."

The staff psychiatrist decided that the rookie was batty as a loon and wouldn't make a good soldier. So he made out a discharge recommendation and handed it to the sergeant. The rookie from the Ozarks grabbed the paper from the sergeant's hand, studied it and yelled joyfully, with his dull eyes bright as an eagle's: "Yep. That's it."—An old army story.

In Carstater Case

Like an old-time Western movie thriller, the Carstater case winds on and on. Friday morning a new reel will be run off in Judge Loevinger's district courtroom in St. Paul. The court will hear charges by Dr. Carstater that the state board of education has acted in contempt of court in refusing to reinstate him to his proper duties.

Dr. Carstater, the liberal state director of vocational education, was removed last August by the Stassen majority of the board of education, under circumstances which have convinced thousands of educators and unionists he is a victim of a politically motivated move an ex-service man and belongs to pending him, the board concocted civil service board and the district court. The board of education still refused to reinstate Carstater to his former job; he is now charging them with contempt of court.

At the request of Tedd Evans. hearing set for last Saturday morning was continued to this Friwill be present, and it is antici-

Last Friday the board again ousted Dr. Carstater, giving as grounds the same flimsy excuses which have already been rejected district court.

Pillsbury for the Park Board. He has been a resident of the ward for 10 years. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, having majored in music. He has been secretary and business agent of the Musicians Union for 5 years. This post is an important one for Labor. There are many employes of the Park Board, and it is very necessary that those who set the wages of labor know the problems of Labor. Stan is endorsed by the
