WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A game of highway robbery has been and is being engaged in at the present time in several government departments, and particularly the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, that is going to bring serious trouble to some government officials. Congressman Heflin and "Society Man" Beat Each Other Up.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Representative Heflin, of Alabama, who became involved in a shooting affray with a negro a gear ago, was one of the principals in a rough and tumble fight that took place in front of the Riggs House tonight.

Mr. Heflin walked down from the apitol with Representative Ollie M. James, of Kentucky. As the two turned into Pennsylvania avenue, near swung around the corner at high speed and almost knocked the two Congressmen down. Representative James, who was incensed at the speed at which the automobile was operated, took down the number of the car with the intention of report-ing it at police headquarters.

The driver of the automobile, who was saidto be a well known man about town, but whose identity hasnot been definitely established, whirled his car around and followed Heffin and James and demanded to know what they proed to do. James said he would endeavor to have him arrested. Whereupon all three of them be-came involved in an exchange of un-complimentary remarks, during the course of which Hefin used a vulgar colloquial expression which enraged the driver of the automobile to such an extent that he jumped from his car demanded that Heffin retract.

Hefin repeated the epithet and at the same time sprang for the automobile driver's throat. He was doing an effective job at choking his adversary when representatives James and Clayton, of Alabama, separated the men.

After the "pay roll witnesses" had testified. Superintendent Lawrence, of the Bureau of Public Buildings and Offices, was questioned as to methods employed in cleaning public buildings. He said that to twenty cleaners, each working four hours a day, was entrusted the duty of cleaning 55,000 square feet of floor space. In 1907, he said, $203,000 had been allowed him for maintenance and repairs, as well as cleaning; and that, in 1908, $300,000 had been allowed. Despite this fact, he admitted, he had "run short" in the course of the Several experts on the cost of cleaning public buildings were then put on the stand. One of these, Isaac Rothstein, said that he would be willing to clean Brooklyu's group of borough buildings for $11,000 annually, while A. C. Todd placed his estimate at $13,000.

DANCING ON A VOLCANO.

The embers of revolt are being stamped out in Spain. King Bomba has triumphed in Barcelona, where the number of those killed is estimated at 2,000, besides thousands more of wounded. The scattered bands of insurrectionists are being hunted out of their refuges. The general strike has failed, owing to the imprisonment of hundreds of Socialist and labor leaders. Law and order are being re-established to the accompaniment of the funeral marches of the hundreds who have been executed by courts-martial. The workmen have returned to their labors. The slaves of society and its inveterate enemies have retreated to their subterranean dens.

The government of the speculators in the blood of the people is now free to resume its plundering expedition against the Moors. The streets and cafes of Madrid, even of Barcelbna, are again gay, noisy; and brilliamt. The courtiers at Madrid and all the spongers and parasites upon the Spanish nation have recovered their feeling of tranquillity and confidence-until the next eruption.

UNION AND PARTY.

The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor has unanimously adopted resolutions approving of the entire activity of the Socialist members in the legislature of the state, as well as in other legislative bodies, "who have worked early and late for the cause of the working class and have usually encountered the solid opposition of both of the capitalist parties." It also decided to publish a report of the activity of the Socialist legislators for distribution among the union men of

We congratulate the Socialists of Wisconsin upon their splendid organization, their repeated successes at elections, and above all, their success in convincing the organized workers of their state of the perfect interdependence of Labor Union and Socialist Party. The economic organization and the political organization of the workers are but two phases of one and the same great movement of labor. The one fights the immediate exploiter-the employer. The other fights the whole class of exploiters and their supreme organization in state and nation. But their activities, though on the whole lying within different spheres, frequently cross each other. On the one hand, the labor union is always hampered and often menaced in its very existence by the employers' control of the government. On the other hand, both labor union and Socialist Party seek to obtain laws for the immediate improvement and amelioration of the condition of the workers-particularly of the most helpless among them, such as women and children. Neither of them can boast of having achieved any very notable success in the recent past. The Socialist Party of this country is not as powerful as the Socialist parties of the other great capitalist countries. The power of the labor unions has not kept pace with the stupendous increase in the power of their employers, the great trusts and other organizations of capital. It is only by constant co-operation and mutual help that the economic as well as the political organization of labor will be able to regain the ground lost to the enemy.

The great fight for the lives of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, and for the preservation of the Western Miners' Federation, which was waged by the labor unions and the Socialist Party against the arrogant mining barons of the West, has shown what may be achieved when the two wings of the labor movement work together in perfect harmony. The electoral successes of the Socialist Party of the average year in and year out durble arrogant mining barons of the west, has shown what may be achieved when the two wings of the labor movement work together ach year. It is, therefore, to be hoped that the example set by the Wisconain State Federation of Labor will not remain without effect upon the labor unionists as well as the Socialists in other states.

The New York Times declares that "the open shop means one where all are treated on an equality. The employer is free to employ whom he will, and the employe is free to join or not to join the unions, according to his individual judgment of his interests." Of the end of time. And the freedom of the employe to join What or not to join the union is, in truth, the freedom of the employer to discharge those who join the union, to cut down their wages, to lengthen their hours of labor, and in general to be absolute master in "his own house" over the conditions of work, the health, and the life of those

The open shop corresponds in the industrial sphere to the absolute monarchy in the political sphere.

The case of the company must be bad indeed if it finds itself compelled to resort to so cheap a trick in order to turn public opinion against the strikers. The outlook at present is that they will gain at least a slight improvement in their exceptionally hard lot.

According to a London dispatch the Russian Foreign Minister indicated that he did not view with approval the appointment of a Russian Armenian as the head of the Persian police, as the appointee was an Anarchist whose activity in Russia had kept the police on the alert.

Of course, this Russian Armenian is not an Anarchist, but a Socialist, or perhaps only a Constitutionalist. The objection of the Russian Foreign Minister to him is based on the fear that he may refuse to surrender Russian political refugees who have sought an
