FEW FACTS TO BE KNOWN.

First of the Series-by a Brewery Wor-

A revolt is on in one of the best known, and actually one of the most progressive labor organizations-not a revolt of disgruntled office hunters, who themselves are longing for a place at the trough, but a revolution of honest progressive workers, oft betrayed and deluded, but, this notwithstanding, always standing in the front ranks of labor's militant forces. An awkward ectre is haunting some of the profession criminals in the labor movement—the have, for fear of being dethroned, when honest toilers will ask for a day of reekoning, entered into an unholy alliance with their kind, to suppress, to castigate, to persecute, to blacklist, and to "sand-bag" those who dare, and dare again, to revoit against the labor fakirs' rule and

Twice within the period of four years have the revolting manifestations of outraged victims of labor fakirism been quelled by the pliant tools of the capitalist class, twice have the accomplices of a crime by their silence,—the New Yorker Volkszeitung and other papers tooting the same horn,—succeeded in hunting down and out, in throwing upon the street, wage earners for daring to be men; twice before, with labor fakcombined, they've been forcing honest men of family-fathers-into subection. The "Burning Question of Trades Unionism", in which reference is made to the "Wagner" affair, contains only a weak reproduction of what has not been known heretofore to be one of the most appalling crimes in the history of the capitalist, class-controlled craft union movement of this land. Twice before did the lie triumph, but never, let us hope, again.

The International Executive Board of the United Brewery Workers, with chief corruptionist Louis Kemper as a person-ification of the category of capitalist tools, have again betrayed and led to the bles the men comprising the best organization known in the realms of the united brewery workers, the unions of Denver, Col., excepted. Never forget that the brewery workers of Seattle, Wash., have contributed sixteen dollars each for the support of the Western Federation of Miners, never withhold credit from these men that they have in the last five years contributed imuse sums for the support of the politmense sums for the supplication, and yet these wage earners, at the advent of victory after a struggle of five months, had to accept the ignominous terms of defeat dictated by the agents of the United States Brewers Association, of which Mr. P. Schram of the India Wharf Brewing Co., a member of the National Civic Federation, and intimate friend of Mr. Sam Gompers, as evident from the speeches made at their banquets, is the ringmaster and main gazabo.

The victimized blacklisted brewery workers of the West are now up in open revolt, and to prevent the quellg of this class conscious manifesta tion this time I have, ready to appear before the public forum, written this brief review of facts-a first of the many series of exposures-not the last one, oh,

By W. E. Trautmann, Member of the Socialist Party of America. "Why don't you present the proofs of the various allegations made: let us now know what we are up against! At the Palm Garden meeting in New York, you challenged a man now running for a leading office on the ticket of the Social Democratic Party of New York, why not push the matter?" Many such questions and similar ones have been asked in the last three weeks, and were it not for the fact that the New Yorker Volkszeitung openly accused me of vilification and calumination I would have waited perhaps, until after the election to reply.

GENERAL PRESIDENT OF THE I W. W. ADDRESSES A SPLENDID AUDIENCE.

Confidence of His Hearers Won from the Very Beginning-Arraigns Craft Unionism and Gompers-Ashamed of Socialist Party, of Which He Is a Member, for Persecuting Industrial

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 6 .- On Monday, October 2, Charles O. Sherman, general president of the Industrial Workers of the World, spoke before a splendid audience in this city. The meeting was arranged by a joint committee composed of members of Mixed Local, Industrial Workers of the World (mostly former Socialist Trade & Labor Alliance members), and the local union of the Department of Metal and Machin-

Adoph G. Buethe, the chairman, in opening, said that it was a well known labor editor of our city who said "that the preamble of the Industrial Workers of the World is almost brutal"; no doubt, because it eliminates all red tape and places the issue squarely before the people, and is necessarily so, for this movement must weld together the shattered confidence of wage earners who have been betrayed and sold out to their enemies by so called labor lieutenants in the various skirmishes of late. After reading the preamble he contin ued by saying that the American Federation of Labor, the organization that is based on the trades union system, also has a preamble, beautiful phrases indeed. "But what avails it in a Labor Movement, when so-called Labor leaders ne and wine with Belmont and other of his class, who employ strike breaker Farley and his men to defeat organized Labor and its aims, and also accept vice presidencies to the presidency of a Belmont in civic federation cliques; whereby, in fact, by one stroke of their pen they undo the work of millions

The story is briefly told. While it may of men"? he asked. "'Mutuality of interests' is it? Is this the reason that the coal operating interests have allowed the consuming public to become silent partners and to contribute toward a movement that has as its aim the object to rob the mine workers of public sympathy in a threatened strike, yet in embryo state, a strike which the mine operators are praying for and the dear public is already paying for!"

After touching upon the local situa tion and also that in Chicago, the chairman said: "Because of the general nature of things, it at times behooves great masses of people to place upon the shoulders of a few men burdens that have gone into history in the wake which seem well nigh impossible to our midst one of those who have been chosen to unfurl the banner of Industrial Unionism to the Workers of the World. He has proven his ability, but recognizing that we are but human beings, subject to temptations that beset all men, we know that it will take something more than the average human being to overcome the obstacles placed in the way of this movement. and remain true."

The chairman trusted that he might be one of millions of wage earners who at some future date would greet Mr. had been made on the trade of the con-Sherman with the exclamation, "Well done, thou sorely tried and found true officer in the interests of the Working Class of the World!" For this is a world movement and paves the way for every worker. But we expect that none but honest and willing wage earners those who are really sincere in their endeavors to litt up the Working Class, to take advantage of this straight road and lead on to our emancipation. He must be given the credit of having been for one was pleased with the attitude of many workers who are carefully considering every phase of this movement before they affiliate, for there may be some raw, edges that need trimming and it can be but to the best interests of all that they should assist in the trimming, the first real step of which means they should realize "that a Labor Movement to be honest and to remain honest requires the hearty active co-operation of a people whose material hundred toilers had to suffer in 1902. interests are to be guarded by their economic organization and the study of that which will develop true patriotism and citizenship.

Patriotism is paraded before our eves to be essential to good citizenship: patriotism as preached to-day is but a classic cloak for the word murder, forcibly brought to our minds when we look toward Hazleton, Coeur d'Alene, Croton Dam, Chicago, Colorado and many other places too numerous to mention; and perhaps the anthracite and bituminous coal fields in the near future. The workers must hold that the first thing essential to good citizenship must be the knowledge of political economy, a knowledge gathered from the lessons taught us in every day's toil.

Sherman, the speaker of the evening had the confidence of his audience from the very beginning. His description of the insults heaped upon the heads of little girls during the late Garment Workers' strike in Chicago by the police and guards in the presence of and to the sport of members of the Engineers and Firemen's Union (who were not called out), was most pathetic. (Several cries of "Shame!" were heard in the hall.)

Sherman said that he was a member of the Social Democratic party, but that he was ashamed of his party because of their action towards members in Milwankee Wis, who have interested them selves in the Industrial Workers of the World, and, judging from the applause and remarks of "that's right", "give it to them", by members of his party we expect many of them to be with us in the near future.

Sherman roasted those Socialists who have been trying for years to introduce socialistic resolutions in the A. F. of L. conventions.

"I understand it is the intention of the little bunch who control that body to pass some such resolution at the oming convention", he said. "This is done to offset the effect the Industrial Workers of the World is having on the Socialist party, but mark my words if such a resolution is passed, it will be the last convention of any importance the American Federation of Labor will ever hold.

"To be sure, the pure and simple mions are organized, but how? Their defeats are caused by their own form of organization which makes them fight each other instead of the Capitalist Class, which owns and controls the great concentrated industries.

"The A. F. of L. boasts of its 2,000, 000 organized workmen. What do they amount to when divided? Why, it wouldn't be a decent executive commit tee when compared to the 20,000,000 workers unorganized. Standing together on a plan of industrial unionism this 2.000.000 would have a greater power to better conditions of labor than the 20,000,000 unorganized ever could."

"What has the American Federation ione since its organization the past twenty years?" he asked. "What this body has not done we will aim to remedy in the new organization-the Industrial Union.

"What can you expect of Samuel Gompers, who hobnobs with August

Sherman left for Cleveland Monday night, there to work in the interest of the Stogie Makers' strike. He is scheduled to speak again in Detroit within a few weeks, when he will be accompanied by Eugene V. Debs.

BOHN IN VANCOUVER

S. L. P. NATIONAL ORGANIZER'S ROUSING CAMPAIGN IN BRIT-ISH COLUMBIA

Series of Out and Indoor Meetings Held, Resulting in Big Sale of Literature, List of Subscriptions and Increase of Membership-The I. W. W.'s Traducers Turn Tail and Flee When Given an Opportunity to Debate. was

[Special Correspondence]

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 27 .- National Oragnizer Frank Bohn has been here and has gone again, and the amount of good he has done is incalculable. On Monday eve we had a meeting on the corner of Codova and Carrol streets, R. Griffiths acting as chairman. After pointing out some of the worst effects of the capitalist system, Griffiths showed how the capitalist press and pulpiteers were all agreed on the exploitation of the workers, and wanted to remain on their (the workers') backs, just as a flea on a dog, or a potato bug on the potato. Griffiths then showed how much better the dog was without the flea the potato without the bug, the worker without the capitalist or shirker, and that of the three the capitalist was the worst parasite. After calling attention to the Daily and Weekly People and Socialist Labor Party literature, Griffiths introduced Bohn.

Just then an old minister who claims to represent the Christian family(?) pulled his stand in behind us and started to denounce the Socialists. He claimed to have been on that corner some time before during the week previous and that we had no right to take his corner, whereupon Bohn asked him if the streets on this side of the imaginary line, were private property? The crowd not being slow saw the point and gave the old man the laugh. The minister then mounted his stand and began by saying the capitalist class of New York had sent Bohn out here to befuddle the minds of the workers, when it is a well known fact that the likes of him and his ilk have been doing that for centuries past.

The crowd, numbering about 500 or 600, by this time, began to get uneasy. Bohn then asked all that wished to hear him to raise their hands. Nearly every hand went up. Those wanting to hear the minister? About one dozen. Just then some of the boys began to gently move the old gent's cart back, but forgot to stop it. The cart being on three wheels, and one side of the street, it naturally began to tumble over until it struck a telegraph pole, smashing his lamp, five glasses and a water pitcher, and losing his $5 hat, so he says. Police Sergeant Buttler then made his appearance, and wanted to know about the trouble. After conceding that we had a right to the corner, being first here he said: "Don't you think since the old gent has been here during the week previous; and you not, he ought to have it now?" To show that we were not quarrelsome and were peaceful and "law abiding" citizens, we vacated, taking all the crowd, but about two dozens with us one block away, where we had a good meeting. We sold about forty pamphlets and many good questions were asked, after which we adjourned to our headquarters, 36 Codova street west, Burn's Block, and held an after meeting. The hall was filled

Meetings were held every evening on the street and then in the hall, in order to come in closer touch with the working class and sympathizers especially. Saturday evening the writer acting as chairman, opened the meeting at 7.30 p. m. at Carroll and Codove sts. After explaining the object of the S. L. P. and the I. W. W., Griffiths was introduced. He spoke on the class struggle at length. Cortwright was then introduced. But then the crowd became so large that the police officers wanted to know of the chairman wouldn't we kindly move the meeting to the Gore, as the corner was blocked and no one could pass? This we again consented to do, as we had got all we could get on that corner.

After Cortwright had amused the crowd, as he ably can, for some twenty or thirty minutes, Bohn took the stand and showed to the entire crowd's satis- the I. W. W. ### SECOND SERIES-MORE TO COME

TINUES TO CLEAR.

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 25.-On Tuesday, the 19th of September, a discussion took place in the Labor Lyceum, The discussion was held under the auspices of Branch I of the Socialist Party of Paterson, and was attended by the German-speaking members of the various branches. A representative of the Socialist Labor Party was also present. The topic of discussion was as follows: "What is the attitude of the comrades toward the Industrial Workers of the

After the meeting had elected Comrade Paul Hauck chairman, Comrade Frauenhoff opened the discussion by reading the Chicago manifesto. It developed a lively discussion.

While certain comrades questioned the possible progress of the new organization, and pointed out the distrust that workingmen show toward every new movement, and others were dubious about success, "just because it is the S. L. P. that takes the new movement in hand," still other comrades took up the cudgels in favor of the organization.

EVERMORE THE WEATHER CON- Different speakers emphasized the fact that not only will the new organization drive the mutual interests of capital and labor delusion out of the workers' heads, and thus advance the foremost principle of Socialism, the class struggle, but it is also a step toward the unity of the two parties. Nearly all the speakers expressed themselves as favoring a united militant party and a strong class-conscious industrial organization. When we have this; and for this must we strive, then can we say for the first time that a real war against the exploiting class

After a three hours' session a resolution, declaring that, the meeting-heartily indorses the principles of the I. W. the interest of the worker, as a man had claimed during Griffiths's address, but in the interests of the capitalist class. In all, this meeting was the largest and most attentively listened to during the week. About $2.50 worth of literature was disposed of.

Sunday, Sept. 17, we held a mass meeting in the City Hall ,which holds 1,500 people, nearly all seats being filled. The subject was "Industrial Unionism and Social Progress."

On entering the hall every one present had a copy of "The Western Clarion," handed to him to make him believe it was the S. P. I presume. It was the issue of Sept. 16 with an article entitled assuming the chair, the chairman asked the audience to carefully read the article in question and pointed out that it was the political Socialists of many names and many deals, and not the S. L. P. argument that was contained therein.

The writer, acting as chairman, explained what brought into prominence the conference held in Chicago in January last, out of which grew the I. W. W. at a convention held in Chicago on June 27 to July 5, 1905. This convention was an epoch making event and destined to go down in the annals of history as creating the best educational school for the working class and the only trades union on class lines that stands for the abolition of the capitalist system.

Bohn was then introduced amidst applause. During his speech he charged the capitalist class and all who stood for its perpetuation, by voting for its representatives, instead of the S. L. P. ticket, the ticket of the only party in the field in the interest of the working class, the Socialist party not excepted, as being the cause of all our misery and degradation.

We then had questions and quite a number of intelligent questions were asked about the I. W. W. and the S. L. P., which, in the writer's opinion, were answered to the satisfaction of the questioners. The S. P. political Socialists were out in full force. Before the meeting was opened one of the S. P. wanted to know if we would give "the old man" (meaning E. T. Kingsley) the platform after Bohn, to which I, as chairman, consented. A number of questions being asked, E. T. Kingsley abstaining from asking any, he was given an opportunity to oppose, which he refused, saying he would like to debate the subject, to which he was immediately challenged.

Up to date we have heard nothing from him, except a diatribe in his sheet, which, by the way, on Labor Day, was a complete sell-out. This special "Labor Day Issue" had not a word about labor in it. It boomed all the labor skinning corporations in Vancouver, in true capitalist style. And this decoy duck of capitalism pretends to speak for Labor the evil designs that are contemplated and in its interests!?!? Bah.

In all, Bohn's stay was a great suc ess. We sold about 175 pamphlets, distributed a lot of literature, got 13 subs for the Weekly People, and to new members for the Section, besides aiding

STRENUOUS AGITATION

For Socialism and Industrial Unionism in the Great Northwest.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 2.-The past two weeks have witnessed some strenuous agitation for Socialism and Industrial Unionism in Portland. The national organizer arrived here September 19, after about a week's work in Olympia, Aberdeen and other small industrial cities of southwestern Washington, during which time rainy weather interfered with the agitation. On arriving in Portland I found the Section reorganized and in working order, it having been put in shape by Organizer Frank "New Unionism and New Logic." On Bohn while here in August. The comrades were busy preparing to make my stav a success.

> Section Portland is made up mostly of young and enthusiastic workers, several of whom are developing as speakers. If these men can maintain their residence in the city (residence is always a problem in the West), Portland will be heard from right along in the future.

> In the past two weeks, street meetings have been held every night except two, when rain interfered. Sometimes two meetings have been held the sanic evening in different parts of the city. With few exceptions the meetings have been successful in point of numbers interest manifested, and literature disposed of. Altogether 325 pamphlets were sold, some subs obtained for the Weekly People, and several hundred Industrial Workers of the World leaflets distributed.

Sunday night, October 1, at Carpenter's Hall, the writer addressed a fair sized audience of workingmen, explaindustrial Workers of the World. A similar meeting will be held October 8 at the same place. Workingmen's Industrial Union No. 92, Industrial Workers of the World, has added several new members to its roll the past two weeks and interest in the Industrial Workers of the World is developing in Portland as elsewhere.

According to present plans I am to remain here and at nearby points for a few weeks, when I move on to California. 3. H. Williams, restraining the Volkszeitung's Social Democratic party from using "Social Democratic" as a party name in this State, has caused that party to make a move that is ultimately intended to deprive the Socialist Labor Party of its own name. The former Social Democratic party now proposes to call itseli "Socialist". strawberry-growing Pharisee, E. P. Roe, wrote a book entitled "From Jest to Earnest". With the book I have nothing to do, having use merely for the title, which is, I have an idea, much the better part of the work in question.

SQUIRMINGS OF THE NAMELESS PARTY. The decision of the Court of Appeals

For some months past I have been ed at the antics of our old friend Max Hayes, in the department which he conducts in the "International Socialist Review" under the heading of "The World of Labor". For a while he contented himself with ignoring the Indus trial Union Movement, confining his activities to a noisy "debate" on paper, with Samuel Gempers, a procedure which, I think, deceived Max, more than anybody else. The silence, a little too profound to be genuine, on the question that was then agitating the world of labor, was preof positive that Mr. Hayes was watching all the more closely for an opening whereby he could again demonstrate his usefullness in the scheme of the A.F. of L.

In the August number of the "Review", Max attempts a feeble little m on the name adopted at Chicago. He says that the winning specialty of Mr. Gompers is "smashing the So-cialists, vide his pronunciamento relative to the Chicago convention to organizer the Industrial Workers of the whole World-and Timbuctoo.'

In the September issue of the "Review". Mr. Hayes drops his factitious de. The bladder and stick of the fool are thrown aside for the sandbag. The successful launching of the I. W. What hitter irony has fate eserved for those who, but yesterday, chortling over the "fallen enemy"! Mr. Hayes opens his monthly survey of "The World of Labor", which, with , means little mere than the A. F. of L and what affects it, with the statement that "those Socialists who are conted with the trade union movement and who have endeavored in recent years to interest their fellow workers in their political principles, are surely having a merry time of it" and he adds that, the launching of the I. W. W. Then he accuses the "irrepressible and rejuvenated De Leon", who, it would cem, has arisen, Lazarus-like, from the omb in which he was laid by the A. F. of L. undertakers, of "inventing a new e for the Socialists in the trade un-". Although Mr. Hayes is fond of the old appellation of "Kangaroo", the new name, being better, will be joyfully adop-ted by those who, had they been able, have run the Socialist movement "boring from within" policy. Unfortunately, Mr. Hayes makes a lit-be owns, "See the man with whom you the mistake. He would have it appear as are consorting. Had it not been for him th as him the term "pure and simple cialist", which, as I said, he is preed to accept with pride. source comes a "more vicious onslaught than any other, that of the little crooks and grafters who have an unconquerable desire to use the trade unions for corrupt purposes". These good people, it seems, "hate the Socialists in the trade unions" because of the crusade against graft on the part of the "Sacred Few"-Max, and his allies, by reason of whose existence the Sodom and Gomorrah of craft unionism is to be spared from the wrath to come.

From the foregoing we gather, on the word of Max himself, that, in the world of labor there is a lower depth than that of membership in the S. L. P. The consolation that comes from tihs enables us to meet the storm that is about to break with greater cheerfulness than would otherwise have been the case.

"From a fourth direction", continues Maximilian, "we are forced to meet the hostility of those who have fed upon their hatred for individuals and organizations to such an extent that they have become unbalanced and run amuck and would down everybody but those who follow them. I refer to that peculiar band of fanatics who have become generally known as De Leonites. It is unnecessary here to give an extended description of this faction or its methods. Captained by a crafty conspirator-" Ha! the plot thickens! who, I ask, may this "crafty conspirator" be? Is it-? Yes: it is.

From Mr. Hayes' statement it appears that, had it not been for the Chicago Convention, the curtain would have descended upon the "peculiar band of fanaties" led by "the crafty one". They have obstinately and blindly butted their heads against a stone wall so persistently that they were practically out of existence, when suddenly the Chicago conference is held and they succeeded in engrafting themselves upon the new Industrial Workers of the World. . . "The day", wails Max, "that De Leon has prayed for has come. The Socialist party can be split." The "adventurous professor" is getting in his work, "Note", says the ambassador of Gompers to Great Britain, "how the arch-conspirator juggles with and strings together the names of" Debs, De Leon and Hagerty "in his personal organ, hoping thereby to create enmities between the Eastern Socialists. who detest the conspirator and everybody who tries to succor him, and for mighty good reasons, and the Western Socialists. who have been warm admirers of Debs and Hagerty". That little word "have" is fortunate admission on the part of Mr. Hayes. The Western Socialists "have been warm admirers of Debs and Hagerty". The inference being, of course, that Debs and Hagerty, having committed themselves to the cause of the I. W. W., are no longer the admired of those who follow the red flag in the West, Mr. Hayes is unquestionably right, if, by "Western Socialists" he means those of his stripe, but the fact will be brought home to him in the near future, painfully enough, that considerable opposition is developing to the notion that Hayes- Berger and Co. own the Socialist party in its entirety and have committed its membership irrevocably to the policy of "boring from within". "See", shrieks this "good Socialist" between the lines, to those whom he thinks we are, indefinitely, but now we are compelled to 'make good.' It looks astonishingly like our finish."

"Already in a score of places discus-tion has broken out in the Socialist party and we find our members"—the inspeakable villains-"parroting the phrases coined by De Leon a dozen years ago, writing articles for his disreputabl organ and attempting to revive his male volent and repudiated politics". Preced ing this is a statement to the effect that "this disgusting schemer, through his garbled 'Volcanic Rumblings' and malicious perversions of facts in his blackmail sheet, has incited and encour aged and magnified differences that developed in the Socialist Movement throughout the country."

This enables one to get to the hear of the matter: The people who stand for Industrial Unionism will be made aware of the fact, even if they do not know it now, that the bitterest the meanest and most unscrupulous opposition to the new movement will come from those who, like Mr. Hayes, are in the craft unions, with their "boring from within" policy. If we are to estimate the strength of our position by the paltry character of the arguments advance by those in opposition, we have reason to feel greatly encouraged. Mr. Hayes, inferentially at least, would have it appear as if craft unionism were moving toward the emancipation of our class; and that, within the old line unions, the "borers" were in the way of accomplishing their mission. His conception of

BY H. J. BRIMBLE, PLORENCE, COLO. | Max and his friends. From another | what is happening in the world of labor is that a "crafty conspirator" is again busily engaged in "wrecking unions" and in splitting the "Socialist" party. He cannot see that the spectacle of a number of men, who have hitherto been kept apart by the misinformation spread abroad by such as he, coming togther for a purpose such as is set forth in the preamble to the constitution of the I. W. W., is born of a knowledge of the failure of craft unionism. The church, very generously to itself, imputes the spirit of scepticism not to its own manifest failure to make this world a fit place to live in and its alliance with the forces of reaction, but to a devilishness that exists in the unregenerated human mind. Max Hayes sees nothing in the movement for Industrial Unionism, with its magnificent message to the proletariiat of the world, but another "experi ment" in industrial organization. He sees nothing in the revolt that is seething within the "S. P." but the work of "crafty conspirator". That is the tragedy of one whose mind is but a reflex of his environment and whose environment is the A. F. of L.

In Mr. Hayes' appeal to the prejudices of his readers it is useless to look for an answer to the argument that flattens the "borers from within"; or even an attempt at an answer, "Why did not those who believe in the 'boring from within' policy, as applied to craft unionism, stay within the Republican and Democratic parties and carry on the work of education there? The principle of action is as good on the political field as upon the economic" Among those who "parrot" this are such men as E. V. Debs and W. E. Trautmann, the latter adding the unqualified statement that boring from within is a failure", and, if any man on earth is qualified to give an opinion on the matter, that man is the deposed editor of the "Brauer-Zeitung". If outcries against De Leon constituted an argument; if the most rabid abuse is to be substituted for evidence, then Mr. Hayes makes a case for himself and the A. F. of L. Unfortunately for him, people may regard the matter

It may strike some of our readers as strange that we should go for evidence in support of our position to a publication edited by Mr. A. M. Simons, but that I purpose to do. In his review of the work of the convention Mr. Simons remarks that "There seems to be an almost universal agreement, among Socialists at least, that industrial organization is desirable, and that it is the future form under which labor must unite on the economic field. But, But, BUT-we are told, with all sorts of vari ations, that the A. F. of L. is going to be transformed into an industrial or anization in a few years. It is going to endorse Socialism and then you will have received all you want without any fuss or disturbance. You will have made an omelet without injuring the eggs. First, last, foremost and hindmost, this is sum, substance shell and kernel of all that has appeared in the Socialist party press in opposition to the formation of the new industrial union. To be sure, this has been consealed under consider able personal abuse, some shallow ridicule, a good deal of ignorance as to what has really been done by those concerned in the new movement, and a little, just a VERY little (?) downright lying about the proceedings of the conven

Really, this is going too, far. I must protest against this lamentable display of ignorance on the part of Mr. Simons Has he not read the privately-owned press of the "Socialist" party long and closely enough to know that "personal "shallow ridicule", "ignorance" abuse". "downright lying"-fle, fle, Mr. Simons! -are monopolized by the "peculiar band of fanatics", led by the "crafty conspirators"? As to personal abuse, in par icular, a casual perusal of Mr. Hayes' article and the previous article of Mr. A. M. Simons himself, would convince the most sceptical that no memberr of the "S. P." committed to craft unionism as embodied in the A. F. of L. would resort to such a weapon.

"Let us see," continues Mr. Simons, what there is in this argument. What signs are there that the A. F. of L. is moving toward industrialism? Let us have some definite evidence. It will not do to point to the U. M. W. or the Brewers that have succeeded by virtue of pure brute strength in swallowing all allied crafts, for neither of these unions look with favor upon the A. F. of L. or consider that it has in any way helped them in securing what industrial features they now possess. But such a swallowing up process as the carpenters are anxious to practice on the wood workers is not a step toward industrialism. Industrialism is not benevolent assimilation' of the weaker by the stronger un ions, but implies the co-operative interdependence organization of all crafts in one simplified body, yet with equal protection for all trades."

"But we are told of the marvellous pro gress that is being made toward bringing the A. F. of L. to Socialism. I would be the last to deny that the boring from within" tactics have not educated a vast number of the rank and file to the truths of Socialism. Nor would I want to see such work hindered for one moment. But the A. F. of L. is something almost wholly distinct from the rank and file of the membership. Indeed, it is practically outside their control, and the general effect of educating any man to Socialism has been to educate him OUT of the A. F. of L., that is, out of the official Gompers machine." A terrible arraignment, that, on such a one as Haves, who receives favors at the hands of the "official Gompers machine"; but still the argument is faulty. Mr. Simons, so far as it lay in him, has made a case for the I. W. W., as the economic organization for those who call themselves Socialists, and against the A. F. of L. He regards the Hayeses, the Barnses, the Bergers, the Hoehns, as being thoroughgoing and well educated Socialists, and yet, at the same time of his writing, Mr. Simons knew that the element of which the men named are representatives, preposed to stay with the A. F. of L. machine and all. Was it the fault of their education? With the leading exponents of the "boring from within" policy, the result, instead of being as set forth by Mr. Simons, has been to cause them to adhere more firmly than ever to the organization that, at the behest of the Belmonts and Easleys, of the Civic Federation, interposes its bulk between the advanced guard of the proletariat and those with whom it would come to grips. Never was the failure of the "boring from within" policy so glaringly apparent! How contemptible has been the influence of the "borers" may be judged

"So far as that machine is concerned no one dare deny that it is further from Socialism than at any time in its existence. At one time it was rather in clined to play with Socialist phrases. Today, under the inspiration of scab benquets and Civic Federation arotory, it declares open war on Socialism."

And now I come, with the preatest of leasure, to Mr. Simons' contribution in the struggle between the "borers from within" and the "smashers from without". "Furthermore, I believe it to be almost a law of social evolution, that no voluntary association, - having as changeable a base as the modern trade union, can be altered in any essential manner without complete disruption. I have given considerable investigation to this particular point and I have searched quite closely in the history of organizations and I have yet to find an instance where an organization was 'captured' and utilized for a different purpose than that which brought it together. I know that this is contrary to the popular ideas on the subject, but I believe that, as is frequently the case, the popular opinion ism, he purposes to stay. is wrong. Certainly there is no instance of such a fundamental change in a militant fighting organization as that which would be implied in changing the A. F. of L. to the industrial form. Whoever, therefore, is advocating such a change from within the A. F. of L. is pursuing a course that will end in the destruction of that organization. It has been to no small degree due to such work that there is now a large body of men ready to leave the A. F. of L. and unite with the Industrial Workers of the World". Mr. Simons concludes his review of the situation with the remark that the A. F. of L., by which I take him to mean craft unionism, is, in his opinion, played out. His opinion of men of the Hayes stamp is, by inference at least, that they are fools for their pains. If the foregoing can be substantiated, and I have no doubts on that score, then the principles and tactics of the S. L P. and S. T. and L. A. are overwhelmingly vindicated, and, in addition, the case is made for the I. W. W.

Mr. Hayes' abuse of De Leon is varied by appeals to the membership of the "S. P." to stand by him in the conflict which he sees is about to ensue. He justifies his claim to the adherence of "the splendid party and dues-paying organization" on the ground that trade unions are stronger now than have ever been." This ridiculous assumption is all that he advances in extenuation of his position, with exception of remark-ing that he still believes in the policy of boring from within."

At the last Mr. Hayes adopts a defiant attitude and serves notice on the members of the "S. P." who purpose to join hands with the new union that you can sit up and take notice that the Socialists who have borne the brunt of the fight in the trade unions * * * will stand true to their economic organizations despite all their alleged faults. and confusion to all meddling professors and priests, academics or impossibilists, together with the fossilized conservatives, hypocritical plutocrats and their politicians and grafters."

The writer has been entertained vastly by Mr. Hayes. Not be it understood, at the multiplied evidences of the perplexities into which such as he are plunged: not with the thought of the impending disruption of the "Socialist" party in its present form. That is but an inci-dent in the march of the vanguard of the proletariat. The pleasure comes from the progress of such as Max Hayes from fact of such general validity, as to be jest to earnest in the matter of the L W. W. and the pitiful showing of its opponents.

Still, I cannot but regret that Mr. Hayes, instead of wasting time, space and energy in doing what a man of his "intellectual calibre and superior morality" should not have done, has not seen fit to institute a comparison betweenlet us say-the preamble to the constituion of the I. W. W. and that which preceds the constitution of the organization to which he belongs, and with which, in spite of his ardent protestations of belief in the principles of Social-

The Fakir and the Capitalist

(By L. G. A. in the Edinburgh, Scotland, Socialist.)

Employers strove with all their might More dividends to get: They talked about "ennobling toil," Their preachers preached of it--And this was odd because not one Had ever worked a bit Workmen were toiling sulkily, Because they know that they Only received for all their work A bare subsistence pay; A better wage we want," they said, "Also a shorter day."

'Profits" were high as high could be, Wages were low as low; You could not see a rise because There was no rise to show: The owner's power was overhead,

The workers slaved below.

The Fakir and Capitalist Were walking hand in hand They wept to see some chance of gain Still wasting in the land. 'If we exploited labor more," They said, "It would be grand."

If all my dupes at union terms Labored for half-a-year, Do you suppose," the Fakir said, "That I could buy a share?" 'Perhaps." said the Capitalist, And gave a knowing leer.

Oh, workers, come and vote for us. The Fakir did beserch: A pleasant drive unto the poll We shall provide for each, And we shall do great things for you When Parliament we reach."

The workers of the S. L. P. The Fakir sly did flout, Their thumbs they to their noses put And spread their fingers out. Meaning to say they knew hi And would not be sold out.

But four young Liberal workers came, As eager as could be; They had paid taxes, they were told, Were Britons born free-And this was odd because, you know, They had no property

Four other dupes soon followed them And yet another four; And thick and fast they came at last And more and more and more, All crowding through the thoroughfares Up to the polling door.

The Fakir and Capitalist Counted the votes with glee, And then they went to Parliament. Agreed to disagree: The workers read the latest news. And waited hopefully.

"The time has come," the Fakir said. "To talk of many things-Of Free Trade and Protection. Of Immigrants and Kings, Why business is so very bad. And whether priests have wings."

"But help us," the workers cried, "Before you have your chat, For some of us are unemployed, And none of us are fat. Till work you," said Capitalist: They thankel him much for that.

Cheap loaves of bread," the Fakir said, "Is what you chiefly need.

I. Plebs Leaders and Labor Leaders II. The Warning of the Gracebi 00 Two Lectures by DANIEL DE LEON Editor of The Daily People

The Trades Union Question is becoming the Burning Question of the day. Reform movements are simultaneously growing into political factors. In this work the "pure and simple" union labor leader is held up to the light of the plebeians' experience with the leaders of their time; and, through the failure of the Gracchian movement, it is shown how modern reforms are pitfalls for the labor movement of to-day.

This book is especially timely, like everything else that Marx wrote. Written a couple of years before his "Capital" appeared, it is an address to workingmen, and covers in popular form many of the subjects later scientifically expanded in "Capital."

It is unversally considered as the best epitome we have of the first volume of "Capital," and as such is invaluable to the beginner in economics. It places him squarely on his feet at the threshold of his inquiry; that is, in a position where his perceptive faculties cannot be deceived and his reasoning power vitiated by the very use of his eyesight; whereas, by the very nature of his capitalist surroundings, he now stands on his head and sees all things inverted. and sees all things inverted.

The thousand and one schemes that are daily being flaunted in the faces of the working class by the lieutenants of the capitalists show the necessity there is on the part of the working class for a comprehensive understanding of the matter of wages, the relation of the wage worker to the employer, the source of profits, and the relation between profits and wages. These and other subjects are here presented, and so clearly does Marx present them that all he has to say can be understood by any person willing to pay close attention to his words.

FACTS! FACTS!! FACTS!!!

by being thrown upon the street through | support those victimized men and take the instrumentality of Morris Braun and

Pressed by the constant agitation, the Brewers' Pool at last was willing to enter into negotiations. In the first months of 1902, in about half of the breweries, the brewery workers organizations had secured recognition and every employe in those breweries, engineers, firemen, drivers and inside men were members of one industrial union, the United Brewery Workers. No division into different national union was known. The organizations presented a formidable power for the protection of the employes. It was here where the boss brewers, forced to give in, had their plans fixed to cripple forever the power of that organization.

Mr. Ph. Schram, one of the trustees of the United States Boss Brewers As sociation, is also, as stated, a member of the National Civic Federation, and is through that institution in friendly relations with the executive council members of the American Federation of Labor, particularly with Mr. Sam Gompers. By some cunning scheme he and his col-leagues of the Employers' Association got Mr. Sam Gompers to write one of his famous decisions, just when peace negotiations were to be concluded. But not only those breweries that had been at war for years with the United Brewery Workers received an ultimatum that peace be made, and the various crafts the breweries be divided in several international craft unions; those brewries also, in which all employes were members of the United Brewery ers were notified, and a committee of the New York Central Fakirated Union that was elected after Gompers had sent that famous decision, and was solicited apparently by Mr. Schram of the Boss Brewers' Association, had to deliver the message to the employers. The committee consisted of Mr. MORRIS BRAUN, James P. Archibald and Kaufman.

It was Mr. Morris Braun, now car didate on a Social Democratic ticket thus disgracing the name of Social ism, who delivered to the so-called union brewery bosses, the message that they could no longer negotiate with their employes in the engine and fire rooms, bee they were not members of a reactionary craft union,—all these employes were members of the United Brewery Werkers by their own choice. The firemen were mostly members of the reed Progressive Firemen's Union No. 10. Many of these employers were then supporters of the same party, which has honored this year this same Morris Braun with a place on its ticket. Not only this. When the employing brewers net in the "Pool", realized the predicament they were placed in because they feared the engineers and firemen and all other brewery employes would strike if agreements with unions, that had not man organized in the breweries, would be entered into; it was this same mittee, that offered to the employers inducements in the form of longer working hours in order to have them anap at the bait thrown out.

Mr. MORRIS BRAUN WAS PRES-ENT when his personal enemy, Mr. John O'Connell, delivered the message to the union boss brewers that the brewery rkers, members of L. U. No. 95, would strike if any one of the engineers or firemen would lose his place for being elled to belong to a reactionar Mr. Morris Braun, however, insisted that the bosses sign the contract that he and his accomplices had submited at the request of Mr. Sam Gompers and the Central Federated Union of New York, and the employers were then and there assured protection in case of any

The employers subsequently, after they, with the assistance of Mr. Morris Braun had secured agreements more antageous to themselves, COM-MANDED their employes in the mechanical departments to become members of those unions which they had given pre-ference to at the behest of that COM-MITTEE, HEADED BY MORRIS BRAUN, ETC. Many atrenuously objected. Those who were obstinate and ented to be given a free choice, later on knocked at the doors of other craft a but they were absolutely rejected. They appealed in vain to public sentiment,—ABOUT TWENTY OF THE MOST ACTIVE AND OUTSPOKEN PROGRESSIVE UNION MEN WERE FIRED, AFTER THIS SAME MORRIS BRAUN AND COMMITTEE had insisted that the agreement be enforced. Among the men fired were supporters of the Social Democratic Party, as was proven, of the party that now has hon-ored this Braun, the man responsible or one of the most abominable crimes their case up for a fight against the employers. Then the second tragedy commenced. The employers wanted to force, again at the behest of those crooks responsible for the first outrages. the members of that union supporting the locked out men to become members of other unions of brewery workers, who sided with them, the employers.

Upon refusing to obey, about fifty or more of those "obstinate" men were fired. Again Mr. Braun is seen on com mittees serving on this case. Then it came to pass that the official journal of the brewery workers issued that stirring appeal, about three years ago, entitled: "I accuse". In vain. Only the brewery workers in other parts of the country were aroused and a referendum vote was called for to hold a special convention. The victimized men, then about one hundred, tried in vain to get a hearing in the press, or in the NEW YORKER VOLKSZEITUNG. As a perusal of the contents of that paper of those days will prove, it supported openly those who perpetrated the outrages every day. The then National Secrewith the signer of these statements a full review of the affair, asking publication, in justice to the outraged victims, of the facts, but also in vain-the Volkszeitung never published the article nor returned it.

Meanwhile the war went on. John O' Connell's union No. 59 was to be destroyed. This was the dictum of the employers, and Morris Braun is one of their pliant tools.

To protect the union members from further persecution, Brewers' Union No. 59 called, with the sanction of the general executive board of the United Brewery Workers, a strike in the Howard and Childs brewery. But the places of the strikers were immediately filled by oth er union men. Now the boycott began, and was carried on with such a striking effect that the firm was losing enormously.

Finally protection was asked from the Central Federated Union of New York City. THE UNION LABEL HAD BEEN WITHHELD FROM THAT FIRM. Hereupon the committee of three, Mr. Morris Braun, Archibald and Kaufman, issued a label of their own devise, and to earry into eternity the marks of this other outrage, this special union label bears the names of that famous committee, Mr. Morris Braun, Archibald and Kaufman, as an everlasting memorandum of their having served as agents and hirelings of the capitalist class, when honest workers were on strike in protestation against more injustices being heaped upon members of their class.

But that was not enough—the brewer needed protection for the wagons, and again, as witnesses can testify, the same Morris Braun served as special guardsman for the wagons when they left the breweries.

Deprived of all hope of ever winning fight against the many enemies they had to battle against, finally many of the victimized men, who had been deprived of their positions, were forced by hunger and want to apply for admission into the unions which the bosses had wanted them to join. The beer kings preferred these unions, at the behest of Mr. Sam Gompers, who was sitting in the same Civic Federation, of which Mr. P. ers' combine, is also a member, and was directing the fight against the progressive workers, who would not bow to the commands of fakirs. But when these men knocked for admission in the bosses craft unions, although they had been members of the United Brewery Workers, an organization affiliated with the same A. F. of L. as are also the other craft unions, whom the employers preferred, they were compelled to pay fines from twenty dollars up to seventy-five, for having dared to have opinions of their own and being disobedient! AND FROM THE MONEY SO COLLECTED, FOR "FINES", BLOOD-STAINED MO-NEY OF POOR WAGE EARNERS, WERE BOUGHT THE PRESENTS PRECIOUS AS THEY WERE, WHICH WERE PRESENTED BY THE DEMO-CRATIC POLITICIÁN TIM. SPLENDID SERVICES!!!

No protest was heard. All the attempts of the outraged men to get a hearing and reveal the atrocities, were of no avail, the Volkszeitung suppressed all their protests. These men then turn-Although no longer a member of his all their protests. These men then turnsion, the influence of Braun's foe O'- ed to the Daily People, a paper whose address on the "Burning Question of Trades Unionism". "Wagner"-therein mentioned-was only one of the many who would not be subjugated. Behind the scenes of the Wagner affair, were more, still highly honored scene shifters and actors, Morris Braun, of course as flagman for the horde of bandits.

The curtain has risen. See now, after lapse of four years, the spectacle in all its glaring colors, another illustration of the unholy alliance entered into by the captains of industry and the docile labor lieutenants of the capitalist class. Note how the leader of the employers, Mr. P. Schram, manages that certain decisions of the servile tool of the capitalist class, Mr. Sam Gompers, comes just opportune to make the other wheels in the capitalist machinery set themselves into motion for the grinding out of the graft. He who claims that there is no onnection between the motive force and the revolutions and workings of the wheels has to prove that the propeller generates the steam.

Mr. Morris Braun laughed once when he was told that the story of his connection with that outrage would mark him for all time to come as a tool of the capitalist class; that the curses of these victims would one day drown his sham eratorical battles for human rights. Four years had to pass by before the stronger "I accuse" was hurled into the face of those who thought themselves protected and shielded by the employers, whom they had served so well. More than twenty living witnesses were present when the second "I Accuse" was fired The challenge was accepted by the accused, and present again were the vic timized wage earners of 1902, in a Brons Borough meeting to hear the criminal defend himself, only the accused did not show up. Of those outraged men, at least fifteen, are now members of the individuals whe use the sacred name of were present, and to them I owed the duty to unfurl the flag of revolt against individuals, who use the sacred name of Socialism only to hide their crimes, and to betray and to sell out the working

I do not know Morris Braun personally, his person does not concern me at all. In this again I wanted to show the intimate connection between the combination of employers-in this case the United States Brewers' Association, (Bosses) and the head of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Sam Gompers, who sits with Mr. Schram, the representative of that capitalist organization, in the same council. See also the small wheels in the gigantic capitalist machinery acting as messengers, executors of the prearranged mandates given out by the unholy alliance-what a harmony of functions in their game of keeping the working class divided, fighting each other, and betraved.

Not again will a committee, as in the G. A. Hoehn affair of St. Louis, try to whitewash, without giving the version of those who were the sufferers. In the Hoehn affair no street railway employes have spoken yet, only his committee In the Braun affair the living witnesses can produce the evidence, are willing to do so, aye, even agreed to pay the hall rent, if those whose crimes are herewith exposed dare to face them and refute these accusations, well proven, as most of the brewery workers of New York City know to-day.

This story is not ended-there is series of outrages consequent upon the ones here recorded that followed in their wake. Of them I'll speak when the defendants will start their fire.

Washington, Oct. 7 .- On the second of October, a notice appeared in the Washington papers to the effect that there would be a meeting on the evening of October 6, at Typographical Temple on G. street (in which building is the headquarters of the A. F. of L.). for the purpose of organizing a branch of the "National Industrial Peace Association", in Washington, said association having as its object the arbitration of the differences between employer and employe and that Mr. P. H. Scullin. general secretary and manager of the association would be the chief performer of the evening. At 8 p. m. on the evening of the 6th.

Typographical Temple did not present a very cheering aspect in point of numbers of those pre sent. It did, however, in other ways. Professor Gore, of the George Washington University, Dr. Hamlin, and United States Commissioner of Labor, Charles P. Neil, sat in row against the wall near the rear of the hall, conversing. In the center of a group at the back of the hall were Jerry McCarthy, president of the Central Labor Union, and Henry O. Sherman, general secretary and treasurer of the Electrical Workers' Association, smoking and also talking; and various other local and national "notables" (?) in the labor world were scattered around the hall, but as vet Big Medicine Chief Sammy had not hove in sight. A medium sized individual with a large expanse of forehead, a shining half bald head and a weeping willow mustache, ran back and forth between the groups and gave each newcomer as he entered the hall the glad hand,

At 8.32 p. m. the meeting was called to order, with the hall about half filled, and United States Commissioner of Labor Neil in the chair. On the platform with Neil were Father Kirby, of the Catholic University, Rev. Hamlin, of the Presbyterian Church, and Professor Gore. There being only four chairs on the platform, he of the weeping willow whiskers, sat on the plano stool.

The chairman opened the contest by stating that the object of the meeting was the forming of a branch of an asso ciation which had as its object the abolishing of the "disturbances of today relative to the division between employer and employe of what is co-operatively produced," and that he took pleasure in introducing as "the chief speaker, etc., Mr. Patrick H. Scullin, general secretary-manager of the National Industrial Peace Association.'

Patrick Henry Scullin turned out to be he of Weeping Willow Whiskers, who then left his seat on the piano stool and advanced to the front of the platform. He began by saying that his movement was indorsed by six governors, the trade unions and all the Citizen Alliances and commercial bodies on the Pacific Coast and that he was enabled to carry on his propaganda by reason of the subscriptions he had received from the commercial bodies, corporations, clergymen and trade unions in the West. The headquarters of the association is in San Francisco where the general board is situated, which is composed of "two lawyers, three millionaire manufacturers ("all use the union label and one was the first to establish profitsharing in the West," the speaker said), one bishop, two ministers and a rabbi; "and," added the speaker, "where could the workingmen get more justice than from these men?" "My association," continued Mr. Scullin, "recognizes the injustice done the public by strikes and lockouts and advocates the jury settlement of these disputes and have as jurors disinterested popular citizens and why can't you workingmen join this movement which has been endorsed by men in the highest society in this land? Mr. Scullin finished by stating that he was a member in good standing of the "Carpenters' Union" and until he had been active in this movement he had been an employer of labor for many years; and capital and labor should go hand in hand.

The next dose on the bill of fare was the Rev. Dr. Hamlin, who agreed in the main with the remarks of the previous speaker and said the "Rev. Dr.": "My faith in arbitration has been strengthened by the recent peace conference in Portsmouth where peace was concluded between the Russians and the Japanese, for civilization has advanced to such a promptly at 7.30.

standard that when four men get together in a room to settle a dispute, especially one of labor, peace will surely be the outcome.'

He wound up by saying that the Presbyterian Church has recently established a board in New York City to which the trades unions could bring their disputes with their employes for settlement. This innovation was to be of great benefit

Dr. Kirby, of the Catholic University, was put on for the third round. He gave his heartiest approval to what Mr. Scullin had said and he added: "Labor is strong enough to be respectfully

Professor Gore and a Mr. Parsons, president of the Master Builders' Association, said a few sweet nothings in favor of the association.

After the regular speakers of the evening had finished expectorating chunks of wisdom, the chairman cast his optics over the audience and seemingly having discovered "something," annotinced that as there was a person in the audience who was well known in the labor world he would call upon him for a few remarks: "Would the president of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Gompers, care to make a few remarks?" In the seventh row from the platform arose a person whose general appearance suggested to one's mind the Speiler at the entrance to the Hawaiian village at the Pan-American (with apologies to the Speiler). This individual proved to be Samuel G. Gompers.

Samuel for the first ten minutes of his eighteen and one-half minute speech wandered all around his subject and made no definite statements until the latter part of his flow of oratory when seemingly bolstered up by the smirking and sickening applause of his henchmen he grew bold and made the following statement: 'The present condition of Industrial peace which we are enjoying has not been brought to us on silver platters, but has been wrung by hardship from the employer. The time has not come when the lion and the lamb shall lie down side by side. For the lamb that lies down with the lion to-day will wake up on the inside of the lion." "Though," he said, "I look forward to the time that they will lie down together." Mr. Gompers said he believed we had enough arbitration for present needs, and probably to hedge for what he had previously said he finished by stating that "there is not a right of the employer that he will not stand up and fight for."

Jerry McCarthy, president of the Central Labor Union, was called on and obediently toadied and endorsed what Gompers had said. The meeting then adjourned, a branch not being formed undoubtedly because of the knock given by Gompers.

After the meeting Gompers and Neil stood about half way down the hall talking. Neil, being a politician, probably squaring himself for being chairman of the meeting. As Scullin left the platform and reached Gompers he spoke to him and an argument commenced. It had no sooner started than United States Commissioner of Labor Neil. being, as before mentioned, a politician. quietly left. The argument rapidly became heated insinuations flew back and forth; the lie was passed; they were prevented from coming to blows (if such a thing was possible with these two men) by those present. Scullin challenged Gompers to make public his insinuations and debate them, but Gompers refused and, finally after hurling another challenge and den at Gompers that he intended to stay in Washington and fight it out, Mr. Patrick Henry Scullin left the

Mr. Scullin said the reason Gompers opposed him was because when his association is in full power Gompers will be out of a job, but the real reason seems to be a local fight which is pending between the Master Builders' Association and their employes, and Scullin has been promised unfimited backing to get the branch agoing. He also has a bill which will be presented in Congress this winter. Gompers said that the reason he has objections is because "the whole scheme is premature." There will probably be lively doings in the labor world in Washington this winter. C. J. B., Jr.

BRADDOCK IRON WORKERS ORGAN-IZED INTO STRONG LOCAL.

Success for Industrial Unionism Principles After A. F. of L.'s Ten Year Failure to Corral the Men-Organizers Pushing Work Steadily.

(From the October 4 Pittsburg, Pa., Dispatch.)

Last night in Braddock the Industrial Workers of the World organized a Braddock Iron Workers' Union as a branch of the national organization. This marks the first step taken in the last ten years having for its object the unionizing of the 50,000 iron and steel workers of the Monongahela valley.

The meeting was attended by several hundred workers of the mills and sixty signed as charter members, thus making possible the first organization which is looked upon in labor circles as the entering wedge movement which will eventually accomplish the organization of the thousands of mill workers of the big mills of the valley.

The utmost secrecy was maintained in arranging for the meeting and admittance was only by card. . The steel corporation which controls practically all of the mills of the valley has been opposed to the formation of unions among the men and efforts of the last few years have met with defeat.

Since the battle at Homestead when the Amalgamated Association was defeated and the control of the mills wrested from that organization there have been periodical attempts to form anions, but all have been defeated,

In the guise of advocates for the Socialist Labor Party organizers for the Industrial Workers of the World have been busy in the Monongahela and Turtle Creek valleys and have secured a following of several thousand.

The same efforts are being made among the thousands of workers at Jones & Laughlin's plant on the Southside, and advocates of the movement say that within the next ten days they will organize a lodge on the Southside which will have a greater membership than the Braddock lodge.

The organizers of/the union have been keeping in the background as much as possible, fearing intervention on the part of the steel companies.

The following announcement was sent secretly to the workingmen who had been approached and who were known to be favorable to the movement:

TO THE WORKING CLASS! The Industrial Workers of the World will organize at Parlack's Hall, corner Eleventh and Washington streets Braddock, on Tuesday evening, October 3, at 7.30 o'clock. Workingmen should know by this time that an injury to one is an injury to all, and the only way to conserve the interest of our class is to organize, not as a craft, but as a class. The working class can and must win when all strike, boycott and vote as one. Come one, come all, and join this movement of your class, and like men put down all our enemies. Down with fakirs, frauds and bossism of all kinds. Up with industrialism. Strike as a class. Vote as a class and boycott the tyrant as a class.

Time, 7.30; Place, Parlack's Hall. corner Washington and Eleventh streets, Braddock, Pa., Tuesday evening, October 3.

The Industrial Workers of the World are credited with being a half-brother of the Socialist Labor Party and have formed in the Western States an organization of over 100,000 workingmen, comprising the miners and smelters of the Western States and the other allied metal trades. ### THE TIGER JUBILANT.

An appreciative audience filled Carnegie Hall on the night of the 5th instant, stood upon chairs, waved hats, and shouted themselves hoarse at the speech with which the Tammany nominee for Mayor accepted the nomination just ten-dered him. Why should they not? The shouters and the applauders were in fact applauding themselves. Mayor McClellan had pronounced them "honest," "eco-nomic" and "efficient," and so as to make them feel doubly happy he pledged himself to safeguard the interests of the

As workingman, the workingman pays no taxes. His quota is paid by him in the shop where he is plundered as a wage-slave. It is out of that plunder that taxes are paid. Taxes, accordingly, are paid by the plunderer, by the capitalist class. That the Metzes, who were nominated for President of the Board of Aldermen, and the McGowans, who were nominated for Comptroller, and both of whom are manufacturers on a large scale, and trust magnates, plunderers, in short, that they should be delighted at the assurance that their rights as "taxpayers" will be held sacred—that surely as natural as natural can be. And what more natural than that they, together with the fat parasites upon the Metz-McGowan class, who made up the convention, should shout themselves delirious with joy when the career of plunder that they pursue against the work-ingman is praised as "honesty"; when their lavish expenditure of the wealth produced by Labor is commended as "ecomic"; and when the pitiful condition in which they keep the kennels of the working class, and the poverty-stricken state in which they keep the school children of the workers are extolled as "efency"? That's all perfectly natural. Never yet did bandits otherwise than hurrah for the pirate chief who showers bouquets upon them. Why should the nany crowd behave otherwise?

The Tiger was in high feather. He is certain of success this time. No spotd hyenz contests with him this year, this time for Labor's hide with any chance of success; nor does any wolf in sheep's clothes prowl over his preserve threathis comfort. And to crown it all. his fangs are patted as agencies of "honesty,"his claws are caressed as "efficient," and his rapacious maw is fondled as this is a country of infinite riches in the means of sustaining life. Varied and fertile in soil, it produces staple icles of food in excess of the needs of its inhabitants, enabling large cargoes to be annually shipped abroad. This too, despite the ugly truth that immense quantities are yearly permitted to go to waste on every hand. Barely scratched, this country is capable of sustaining, by its agricultural resources alone, over a on souls, or more than twelve times its present population. This country is pre-eininently a land of wholesome, natural, luxuriance and abundance. Amid such conditions, it is logical to expect, a people will be found who subsist on none but the purest of Nature's products, and who, as a result thereof, enjoy naught but the most perfect of health. But such an expectation though apparently logical, is far from the facts in the matter. Adulteration, with all its dangerous results upon health and life, is widely prevalent. So much s this the case that, it is reported from Washington, among the features of the coming Congress, there will be A FIGHT FOR A PURE-FOOD LAW. Efforts will be made to prevent or restrict adulteration, and thereby insure : greater measure of safety to health and e. These efforts will be strenuously fought, with the prospects that they will cessfully overcome, as the great ng trusts, and other food corpora-

anomaly-this fight for pure food, where excessive; and where, were it not excessive, there are natural resources at hand that will admit of its manifold augmentation, thus permitting the removal of whatever defect in the way of a shortage that may exist? The reason is plain. Food producttion is a social necessity, socially organized, but pri-vately-owned. Being privately-owned it is exploited in the interests of the private individuals constituting the owners. These compete for the dominant control. Adulteration, as a means to this end, is a result. Again, taking the matter from another side, we see the majority of the people, the working class, robbed of four-fifths of their products by the capitalist class, and, as a consequence, so poorly paid that adulteration alone can meeet the requirements of their pilfered purses.

The remedy is obvious: food produc tion must be fully-rounded; social ownership must be added to social organization and necessity. The latter demands it. So also must the working class be accorded the full products of its labor, so that it may encourage the creation of none but pure foods. In brief, in food production, as in all other spheres of life where production for capitalist profit, or Capitalism, prevails, production for social use, or Socialism, must take its place. Then the incongriuties of the present condition of affairs will cease to be in evidence.

"THE 'SALOON' AND OTHER EF-PRCTS" ONCE MORE

The People last week, after showng, in an editorial entitled "The 'Saloon' and Other Effects" that the saloon is an effect of capitalism, concluded with this paragraph:

"So long as there is profit in liquor, drunkenness will exist. So long as the soben, 'Christian,' 'patriotic' Capitalist Class is in power, it will see to it that profit remains in liquor, and that drunkenness continues so as to stimulate the profits."

On the 3rd inst. the New York "Sun' published the following item of news: "Whiskey Trust Earns 4.8 Net. 'And Looks Ahead to a Year More Profitable Than Any. "The annual report of the Distillers Securities Corporation, generally known as the Whiskey Trust, for the year ended June 30 shows that the receipts from sales amounted to $71,210,447, a decrease of $7,956,719 from the previous year. President Curley says that with the exception of the spirit branch all departments of the company show an increase in net profits, the poor condition of the spirit market accounting for the decrease of both gross receipts and net profits. Spirits are the raw product and are enirely different from rye and bourbon whiskies, the manufacture of which form the most profitable part of the corporation's business. President Curley says:

"The management of the company ome time since determined upon a course which would lead outside spirit distillers to realize that certain well considered business methods should be pursued by all engaged in that branch. Accordingly, this company has so conducted its spirit department as to result in the adoption of a business like and conservative course by the outsiders. Since May of this year the profits of the spirit department of the company have again become normal.' "President Curley says that the outlook for the coming year is probably the that a substantial increase in the sale of all kinds of liquors is anticipated. It is contemplated during the current year to dissolve other subsidiary companies, the Standard Distilling Company having been dissolved a few months ago. Dividends amounting to $1,317,069, or 4 per cent., were paid during the year, and dividends amounting to about 4.8 per cent. were earned."

As will be seen, this item of news cor roborates The People in every particular. Here is a trust doing a business in alcoholics amounting to over $70,000, 000 a year officially informing its stock holders that it intends to see that profit remains in liquor, even if it has to so, Further seeing that it is anticipat-ing "a substantial in crush its competitors in the effort to do of all kinds of liquors," next year, it must perforce, owing to such anticipation, stimulate such sale. The warning against dishonesty delivered by J. Edward Simmons, before the Maryland bankers, is significant as an indication of the trend of the times, but it is not going to prove effective. The system of competition and capitalism which makes this dishonesty inevitable is already too far gone. The International Confectioner for August has an account of the proceedings of the eleventh annual convention of the National Jobbing Confectioners' Association, held in Chicago August 2, 3 and 4. One of the declared objects of the lobbers' Association is: "to promote the manufacture and sale of pure and wholesome confectionery."

During the proceedings it was stated that adulteration and short weighing is largely practiced by some manufacturers. Chocolate coloring, for instance, is used in place of chocolate. It is described as Spanish brown or ochre; Western papers call it roof paint. Paraffine wax is another adulterant complained of. On these evils the convention waxed justly indignant.

As the International Confectioner gives the convention proceedings in full, and as it carries a list of the national and local organizations of the Jobbers' Association it is not improper to conclude that the paper is the official organ of the N. J. C. A.

However it may be we notice in the same issue of the paper a full page article under the department head: "Soda Fountain," a list of formulas for new drinks, and "other profit increasing suggestions."

The August suggestions are on "The Lime: Its Fountain Use." After telling how the real article may be dispensed the "suggestions" go on to show how Artificial Lime Juice may be made. Citric acid, phosphoric acid, essences water and the judicious use of green coloring matter make up the receipt. Salicylic acid is recommended as a preservative of another solution and talcum which we understand is a mineral product, is "suggested" for some of the

The Jobbers, in the language of one of the convention delegates, met for "a specific purpose of good for the entire community." That "good" is reflected in the profit increasing suggestions of their official organ. Modern business breeds hypocricy as a swamp breeds mosquitoes.

UTTERING BETTER THAN THEY

It is proverbial that the fool only ppens his mouth to put his foot in it. In so doing, the fool quite often renders a service of more value than is generally perceived. "System," "the business magazine," for instance, reasons with all the pompousness that passes for profundity in its particular sphere. Then it makes a few statements that show its wisdom to be like Beauty, only skindeep-statements that help to drive home an important Socialist contention. In its September issue, P. 304, "Sys-

"Does the business man really think?" To this it at once makes answer, as

"We need only consider the immense strides made in business methods, the wonderful progress and development of the country, to know that he does."

But unfortunately for "System" and its profound and unsupported assertions, it tells a little further on, and in another connection, this matter-of-fact

"Two years ago some of the younger employes of one of the best known of the paper-houses of Boston-W. H. Claflin-became sufficiently infused with the 'system fad' to offer a few suggestions to the executive head. They pointed out number of alleged defects in the methods of management then in use, and urged the adoption of quicker, of newer, systems. But Boston is conservative and the new does not supplant the old without deliberate study. After a few months of consideration, the expert opinion of a 'business doctor' was sought with the result that practically every suggestion was approved by him and ultimately by the executive head.

"The new systems were installed just fourteen months ago,' said a Boston financier who is interested in the company, and during this period the company has already saved sixty per cent. on its expenses for the corresponding period preceding. It is interesting to compute how much money the company has lost through red tape and undiscov ered carelessness during the past few years-and how much money it will save hereafter.' "

Here is concrete evidence as to whethr business men think or not-and by business men, the whole capitalist class is meant, as is evident from "System's" answer to its own question. Here we see who it is that makes possible "the immense strides in business methods, the wonderful progress and development of the country." It is the employes, the working class. It is they who possess expert technical knowledge, and the consequent ability to suggest, invent, advise and direct; but, being without land and capi-

As shown in the above story from "System," the capitalist class thus not only takes all the glory and the gain of the achievements of the working class, but it stands in the way of revolutionary progress. In addition to being exploiters, the capitalists are obstacles to human advancement:-"System's" story thus not alone exposes its own foolishness, but is an all-around proof of the correctness of Socialist contention.

"System" has uttered better than it

"OUR COLOSSAL IMMORALITY'S" ANTIDOTE.

President Schurman, in his address at the opening of the thirty-seventh year of Cornell University on "Our colossal immorality" as revealed by the insurance investigation, said:

"I believe that we need to go back to the old ground that a man's life consists not in the attainment of this world's possessions, but in the development of the best character and power that is in him."

This is equivalent to a confession that the modern "ground" develops the worst in man. This confession is valuable, for other college presidents hold the contrary. But it is not enough. It gives no clue as to why this should be so and how it can well be otherwise. Men do not strive for "the world's possessions," that is, its land and capital, primarily to gratify their cupidity. They recognize that without them culture and life are impossible, and that slavery and ignorance would take their places. "The world's possessions" are a means to an end, and that end is not an ignoble one So recognizing the individual begins to accumulate a little of them. But he soon finds that in order to protect that little from the competition of the little of others, he must augment it, or "go down and out." The more he strives in this direction, the more his fellows likewise strive. This process continues indefinite ly. The fear of extinguishment, with all that that implies, leads to larger accumulations and concentrations of wealth, so that finally it must now be said that the more a man or a corporation possesses the more they must possess to protect themselves from economic destruction. A capitalist or a corporation must continually extend their ramifications in order to buttress up their "holdings" and prevent them from being ruined or confis cated by their competitors. For this purpose, they struggle for the control of the insurance companies, and create a state of affairs such as that now being deplored by the President Shurmans Out of the competitive conditions de scribed there has sprung a morale that turns the getting of "the world's possessions" into the end, instead of the means of, life.

But fortunately for society, this process of vast wealth accumulation is no without its antidote. It has aided in the creation of industrial co-operation. The individual no longer works alone thousands, yea, millions, are his co-workers. Not only are his productive powers thereby enhanced, but so also are theirs Co-operation is producing an abundance for all by all, and making possible ar existence for all in keeping with the best aspirations of man. Co-operation is demonstrating that a property career, in the modern sense, is not the aim of society, nor the end of life. Co-operation in brief, is establishing the interdependence of society and leading the way to the social ownership of land and capital, under which "the best character and power" that is in man may develop as

THE FOOLISHNESS OF THE AMERI-CANS.

James J. Hill, President of the Great Northern Railroad, is admittedly one of the few far-sighted capitalists of this country. He was the first to warn against the approach of the panic of 1903. He also gave evidence of prevision in his early recognition of the immense possibilities of Oriental trade. Discussing the latter at Seattle, Wash., on Sept. 30, he said:

"The people who are banking on Orien tal trade are bound to be disappointed The United States cannot compete with foreign countries until we can manufac ture products at a lower cost, which means cheaper labor."

He said further:

"The American people are fools and are vaingloriously patting themselves on the back over the so-called American invasion of European and Oriental markets while the other countries, saying nothing, have practically monopoloized the arise from any failure on their part to capture foreign markets, will lead to a crisis, on one hand, or a readjustment of conditions in this country to meet the foreign situation, on the other. With the factories of this country continually turning out more products than are consumed, the need of foreign markets grows, instead of dimishes, Hill's language makes it plain that, instead of growing, these outlets are being diminished by the successful competition of those very countries whom the capitalist class of this country are supposed to have competitively subdued, for once and for all time. The inevitable result of such a condition can only be "overproduction" and panic, with their widespread unemployment and working class suffering, both of which Rockefeller has predicted for the very near future. Or this calamity may be partly averted by a general reduction of wages, a greater introduction of labor-displacing machinery, intensification of labor, and concentration of capital. It is low wages, and more machinery, intensification, and concentration, a la America, that enables the old world to wrest the palm of victory from the new. The Americanization of Europe will now have to give way to the Europeanization of America World competition will force it. With the working class on the horns of this dilemma, of either panic or readjustment, the import and truth of Hill's words become evident. Verily, verily, "the American people are fools." They suffer the pangs and outrages of capitalism, when, by remove ing the system of wage exploitation upon which it is based, and substituting therefor a system guaranteeing to them the full product of their toil they could buy back all that they produce, and thus avert the need of foreign markets, with all that thereby hangs.

bances in Germany afford proof of the fact that that country is progressing toward unadulterated Capitalism. few more years of such conflicts and the German Socialist movement will, perforce, be torn from its parliamentarizing tactics and compelled to deal with the modern class struggle in all its undisturbed features, just as we must deal with it. According to the reports received of the iron and metal lock-out in Sweden, Germany is not the only country that is progressing away from Feudalism toward Capitalism. Indeed, it is a question, if the little nation in the north is not already in advance of the Fatherland, as far as definite modern class issues are concerned. The nomination of Hughes, the chief insurance inquisitor, by the Harriman-Odell Republicans, was a shrewd capitalist move. It offers a good, though impotent, counterpose to McClellan's nomination, while, at the same time, killing Hughes' usefulness as an investigator. No intelligent man can have faith in a nominee of Harriman's, who is himself deep in the insurance mire.

McClellan, the choice of the corporations, will, without doubt, succeed himthe class that, being in control of the industries, must, since the political is a reflex of the industrial, also control the government. When the workers control industry through the I. W. W. they will then also be in a position to control the powers of state.

In using the millions of the Mutual for himself and family, McCurdy has only followed the capitalist principle of exploiting a social organization for private purposes. No serious harm will befall him, as a result, for Capitalism cannot do injury to itself.

Standard Oil Co. shares sold on Oct. up to 675, the highest figure touched in years. The report that the company would within a few days, declare a cash dividend of 100 per cent, was the reason ascribed for the rise.

John D. Rockefeller controls 51 per cent. of the $100,000,000 capital stock, having within the past year increased his holdings seven per cent.

John- Mitchell's visit to President Roosevelt, in behalf of the political aspirations of the editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, may afford a clue as to why so many articles favorable to the President appears in the columns of the latter. It looks like a bill "for services rendered."

tution.

An appeal has been issued by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to the labor unions in this State, urging them to use every means in their power to get votes for the labor amendment to the State Constitution, which will be voted on at the coming election. This amendment would give the legislature the power to regulate the wages, hours of work and conditions to prevail on all municipal and State work.

The amendment was drafted owing to the agitation of the labor unions, because the eight hour and prevailing rate of wages and one or two other laws of the same kind have been declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals Gompers says: "The courts have been usurping the powers of the Legislature."

Gompers would lead intelligent workingmen to infer from his appeal that constitutional rights cannot be usurped. Gompers conveniently overlooks Colorado. The Colorado conflict was due to the usurpation of constitutional rights. The people of Colorado adopted an eight hour amendment to the constitution by an overwhelming majority. The Western Federation sought to enforce it, and inaugurated a campaign to that end. The Mine Owners' Association opposed this action. The result was an open violation by the Mine Owners' Association, Gov. Peabody, the Legislature, and the Judiciary, not only of this right, but of all constitutional rights in some counties,-in fact, the constitution was there suspended, and the dictatorship of Gov. Peabody was substituted instead. This worthy labor constitutionalist, Gompers, ably assisted in the usurnation of Colorado's constitution. Prior to the Cripple Creek disaster, he sent letters to the Colorado unions urging them to withdraw support from the Western Federation of Miners. After the Independence Mine disaster, Ralph Easley, Secretary of the Civic Federation, of which Gompers is vice-president, on behalf of the American Federation of Labor's Executive Board, sent a telegram to Gov. Peabody ordering that no discrimination should be made against members of the A. F. of L. It is on record that Gov. Peabody said: "We have no objections against organizations working in harmony with the capitalist class." Peabody had no objection to Gompers's A. F. of L. because it is practically an auxiliary of that class in all its usurpations.

In view of these facts, it is plain that in this constitutional matter, Gompers is merely acting as a capitalist political bellwether. Knowing full well, as every intelligent man must know, that law is of no value until enforced, and that no law is enforced except by those to whom its value redounds, he deludes the workingmen into believing that they can pass anti-capitalist laws that the anti-labor governments of capitalism will enforce in their interests. By these means, Gompers keeps the workingmen bound to the chariot of capitalist politics, behind which they are yanked around the legislative arena to their economic and political detriment, as illustrated by Colorado.

Labor will know no enforcement of the constitution in its favor, until it makes the constitution synonymous with itself. This it can do by capturing the powers of State and wielding them according to the dictates of its interests, through a class conscious industrial union and a working class political party. These are already in existence and are known as the Industrial Workers of the World and the Socialist Labor Party respectively. Join them, if you desire true constitutionalism.

The preachers are working overtime writing sermons against high and corrupt financiers. But they are woefully silent regarding the conditions breeding them. They fail to perceive that social environment is more powerful than individuals. Until that is changed all invective is both cant and rant.

The unexpected has happened-a party of capitalists, headed by the Havemeyers, were injured in an explosion at the Portland mine at Cripple Creek, Colo. Generally, whenever an accident occurs in any of the industries that are supposedly conducted by capitalists, the latter are conspicuous by their absence among the victims, who are almost, without exception, paid employes compelled to risk the dangers involved in order to secure a bare livelihood. But it is not to be concluded from these statements that the Havemeyer capitalists were engaged in labor at the Portland mine, or that they were exercising therein the profound foresight, caution and wisdom for which they are so unjustly noted. Oh, no. The gentlemen were, as usual, an idle, pleasure-seeking party. As such they stupidly entered a mine chamber that ordinary precaution would have told them to avoid, owing to the enumerous indications of danger present.

BROTHER JONATHAN-This is going too far. This is awful! These labor unions must be smashed!

UNCLE SAM-Hem! B. J.-Do you believe in Trades Un-

U. S .- I do in some; I don't in others. B. J.-Do you believe in Unions that establish regulations which deprive their members of the freedom to enter into whatever agreement they please?

U. S .- There can be no sensible objection to that B. J.-Well, I have a sensible objection to it. We call this a free country; and so it is. True freedom means that men shall be allowed to enter into any agreement, unrestricted and unmolested To do what the Unions do is a violation of freedom. Smash the Unions!

U. S.-Tut tut tut

B. J .- No "tut, tut, tut" about it; I say the Unions are treasonable, they violate the land's fundamental principle of freedom. Smash them, I say.

U. S .- "Smash them" on the ground that they restrict their membership from absolute liberty to do as they please? B. J .- Just so!

U. S .- Suppose you feel like selling your vote to me on election day-

B. J .- I couldn't.

U. S .- Not if you wanted to? B. J.-Not if I wanted to.

U. S .- Why not? B. J.-Because I am forbidden by law

from so doing. U. S .- The law restricts your freedom to enter into such an agreement unrestricted and unmolested? B. J.-It does.

U. S. (with a satirical smile)-"Smash the Law!" Would you? B. J.-No! But-

U. S.-What, then, becomes of your rigmarole about smashing the Unions on the ground of their restricting their members from doing just as they please?

B. J. (visibly at sea)-I must admit that I have lost my foothold. But let me tell you that what I said, and the argument that I held, I read in the papers from the decision of a Judge, who issued an injunction restricting the strikers from picketing and the like. That was no argument. The fellow must be a jackass.

U. S.-No, he is not a jackass; he is simply a hired man of the Capitalist Class, put there by the Capitalist Class of labor fleecers and the labor fakirs who act as labor lieutenants of $\sqrt{} Capitalist Class to twist the Law ; as to get Labor always on the hip, L., to blind its eyes with the dust of

B. J.—That it is.

U. S .- And you will admit that it is proper to put that restriction upon him lest the suffrage be utterly demoralized? B. J.-I see that.

U. S.-Accordingly a "restriction of freedom" is not in itself wrong. It may be perfectly right. If by such restriction the welfare of the commonwealth is preserved, the restriction is benefi-

B. J.-I see that.

U. S.-Accordingly, the question to be considered in each case is not the abstract question of freedom or slavery, but the concrete question, whether a specific action is good or bad. If it is good, then to restrict it is wrong, is to interfere with freedom: if it is bad, then the restriction of it is right, because freedom aims at the happiness of the masses, no act that would interfere with that promotes freedom.

B. J. nods assent. U. S.-Now, then, test the action of a bona fide Trades Union by that principle. Do you not see that if one man is willing to work for lower wages than others he thereby lowers the happiness of all? If that one man chooses to cut off his own nose no one might interfere. But if the cutting off his own nose would compel others to do likewis then his operation ceases to be his pr vate business, and becomes the busines

To the Daily and Weekly People:-The Amsterdam Congress declared that as there is but one capitalism there can be but one party of Socialism in any one country. I agreed therewith, but could not see, under the then existing conditions, any possible basis upon which Socialist political unity could be brought about here. I therefore was one of those who vigorously opposed the "unity" idea that was interjected into the Bulgaria-Italy discussion, The Amsterdam declaration seemed logical enough, but it didn't square with the material facts, so far as we in America were concerned.

But we have had growing times in the past year. The organization of the Industrial Workers of the World has altered the material facts. Until now, try as we would, there could be no working class political unity, because the workers were organized in warring craft conscious organizations. Their conflicts with one another were reflected on the political field, one set of Socialists ncing craft organization, another

THE PROFESSIONAL CLASS.

To the Daily and Weekly People:-Referring to the matter of the admission of lawyers at the Chicago Convention and the letter of "A Lawyer," in a recent issue of The People, we wish to make the following observations: Yes, we are slaves. We are all supposed to be in favor, of capitalism, and woe be to one of us who is not found to be so. If we wish to be Socialists we must give up the idea of making a living by practicing our profession, and turn our hands to something else. I don't know whether you can conceive how humiliating it is to stifle ones conctions: to think that wrongs exist bright before your very eyes which you

EN dare not oppose for fear of losing the O'C few stray dollars that may come to you. And they are getting fewer, too, for, as issue of The People, capitalism is having less use for the lawyer. We spent $1,500 for a college ducation and can't get enough to pay living expenses. We thought that when we came out of college capitalism would bow down to us and respect us on int of our learning and our profession, but they care nothing for us. What do the capitalists care for learning and ability in any occupation or profession? Nothing, except when they can use it for their own interests. The writer has worked in offices of industrial establishments, has been in close touch with the list class, and never found one of them yet who did not show contempt for the working class. We have seen capitalists oppressing EVEN THEIR WORKING CLASS RELATIVES.

Among the professional men to-day those who are "successful" have a "pull" with some exploiter or his hence Those who would be willing to fawn at the feet of Mammon are given "soft aps" regardless of ability, while those who wish to stand on merit alone and by "fawning" get very little recognition

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED.

To the Daily and Weekly People:-In addressing meetings this year it is my opinion that our party speakers cannot lay too much stress on the new development of unionism. I have made it plain at meetings and find it spells success in the way of selling literature and in the attention paid to advocates of the party. My experience I respect fully commend to the party's speakers for their earnest consideration.

THE SOFT COAL TRUST AND WIL-LIAM DODD.

To the Daily and Weekly People: The active participation of the Pittsburg Coal Company in the Republican party primaries of Allegheny County, last month, when it tried to secure the nomination of Clerk of the County Courts, for William Dodd, Secretary of the Mine Workers' Union, should not have caused any surprise, since "Brother" Capital and "Brother" Labor should at all times help each other. "Brother" Labor, as represented by the Mitchells and the Doddses, has done all in its power to help "Brother" Capital in the two years agreement from 1904 to 1966, and now it is time for "Brother" Capital, as represented by Frank Robbins the President of the Pittsburg Coal Co. to reciprocate.

The mine workers were persuaded, cajoled and intimidated into accepting a five and fifty-five per hundredths cents reduction (5.50 per cent.). Take a glance at the following comparative items taken from the two year agreement scale, and you will understand the great debt that "Brother" Capital owed to "Brother" Labor, which is has just endeavored to repay.

The notice of the meeting would have looked a great deal better in the Comic Sheet of some Sunday paper. It is to laugh. August Belmont, who owns the municipal government, to consider municipal ownership of railroads (does he include the "L" and subway?)!

How much longer are the honest workers going to be fooled? INFORMATION WANTED. To the Members of the Socialist Labor Party in Illinois:

Comrades: Was Herman Justi, secreary of the Illinois Coal Operators' Asociation, ever a member of the United Mine Workers of America? Or if not that, with what pure and simple union was he connected? I would be greatly obliged if some one would give a sketch of the man's career

My object in seeking information upon this point is this: The operators of the country are convinced, it would seem that a struggle with the unions is impending, and are moving toward the perfecting of an organization that will enable them to wage war to advantage in any part of the country. The leading spirit in this movement is the said Herman Justi, who, with a number of exfriends of Labor, among them being John P. Reese and P. H. Penna, is doing everything that lies in his power to ensure the defeat of the miners in case they should take up the cudgels for improved conditions next spring.

Reese I know to be an ex-fakir of the United Mine Workers of America, who after trying to break into Congress on the strength of his prominence in the union, sold his knowledge of the Labor Movement to the bosses, and is now engaged in organizing them for the purpose of making inevitable the defeat of his former followers.

Penns was president of the United Mine Workers of America some years ago. He, too, has capitalized his knowledge of the Labor Movement and gone over to the other side, openly, at least.

What's Justi's record? Is he of the Reese-Penna stamp?

A CAPITALIST DEBATES WITH

A SOCIALIST. To the Daily and Weekly People. On Wednesday, October 4, the Fifteenth

Assembly District, Socialist Labor Party, held a meeting at the corner of Fiftieth street and Tenth avenue, that was remarkable in many ways. W. Woodhouse was the first speaker. He explained the difference between wage MINING AND DEAD WORK SCALE slavery and Socialism. A man dressed in the height of fashion, and claiming to be David Crockett of Virginia, objected to Woodhouse telling the workingmen around that they were slaves. Woodhouse thereupon entered more fully into an explanation of wealth production and the labor market, showing the workingmen present how they were compelled to sell themselves in the latter by the day or week, as all other commodities are sold, that, is, according

Pat Walsh took the stand. He de scribed the Class Struggle, showing how it raged in Buffalo under a Democratic administration and in Brooklyn and Albany, under a Republican one. Crockett, enforced by some of his class, interrupted again, Thereupon Walsh challenged him to share the platform for Afteen minutes in a debate on the topic, Resolved. That the Working Class is entitled to all that it produces." Crockett, accepting, took the stand and began a spread-eagle speech about the glorious country we live in, and advised the workingmen present to work hard, and save, and thereby raise themselves into millionaires. He asserted that Governor Flower did right in sending the militia to Buffalo, as it was to protect property; that the rioters were no longer workingmen but criminals. the speedy and vigorou He said he ate supper with workingmen, have been abandoned.

and favored a Socialism that stands for construction. "The speaker,' said he, tried to create class distinctions, and talked rot. Christ was a Socialist, but he did not create class distinctions."

Walsh took the stand and called attention to the fact that Crockett had not spoken to the subject, but had acted like a runaway horse. Then he proceeded to show that according to the Census figures, the more wealth the workers produced the less wages they received; and that their reward for working hard was not millionairedon but pauperism. He then explained the conflicting interests of Capital and Labor, and showed that it was right for Crockett to defend the Capitalist Class to which he belonged, as it was to his interest to do so. The workers at Buffalo were shown to be enforcers of the ten-hour railroad law and not criminals as Crockett contended. The law breakers were the capitalists who violated the law and used the militia to compel submission to that violation 'Private property", said the speaker, "is the product of labor stolen by the capitalist through the profit and wages system. It belongs to Labor." Referring to Crockett's claims regarding class distinctions, Walsh pointed out that Crockett gave proof of their existence. "If no classes exist", said Walsh, "how comes he to refer to the workingmen with whom he ate supper; and why does he advise you to raise yourselves to millionaires?" As an indication of the glory of the country, Walsh called attention to the he-towns in the West, the she-towns in the East and the child-labor towns in the South and showed how they were destroying the family, especially the workingman's family.

In conclusion Walsh called upon the workingmen present to consider Crockett's and his own remarks. He urged them to use their brains and they would determine for themselves to what class and to what party they belonged. The crowd was with Walsh.

THE GENERAL AGITATION FUND.

To the Daily and Weekly People:-Seeing the necessity of sound Socialist teaching for the working class, and knowing that in the Socialist Labor Party we have a number of men and women, who possess the requisite knowledge and courage to go out as organ izers (like Com. Frank Bohn and B. H. Williams), and expound the principles of Socialism and thereby arouse the interest of the workers to study the literature of the Socialist Labor Party, and also knowing that the necessary funds to send out more organizers and agitators is all the Socialist Labor Party is lacking in, we, of Section Schenectady, Socialist Labor Party, have decided to carry out the following plans: The Section elected a "Secretary for the General Agitation Fund", who, with the assistance of other members of the Section, canvass the members and sympathizers of the Socialist Labor Party for their voluntary pledges to pay week ly the little sum of five cents, or more, which money will be sent monthly to the National Secretary to be applied to the General Agitation Fund, the receipt of which is to be acknowledged in the columns of the Party's organs.

As we have only started this recently the amount thus pledged is so far $6 per month, but we expect to bring it up to $10 a month in a short time,

Now, in carrying out this idea, the contributors never feel the expenses, as but the National Executive Committee is assured of a regular income, and, if followed by other Sections, the money thus raised may amount to hundreds, it not thousands of dollars every month.

Now, comrades, our reason for pub lishing this letter is to solicit your cooperation in this our common cause (ony through education can the cobwebs be removed from the worker's eyes.), and we hereby urge you to take up this idea in your respective Sections.

There is no hard work attached to it but it is a pleasant side line for some active members, as we have found the workers glad to contribute their mite to this fund, and we know you can do just as much as we, if not more.

Yours for education and scientific Socialism.

KAIZ UP STATE

Finds Conditions Ripe for the I. W. W. and the Socialist Labor Party in Many Places.

Little Falls, N. Y., Oct. 4-North Tonawanda, in Niagara County, and Tonawanda, in Erie County, are practically one city, and only the residents can tell you at what corner the city of Tonawanda ends and at what curbstone North Tonawanda begins. It is the artificial line of political nature, drawn in this case to give the graft to two mayors, chiefs of police, etc. Both cities are working class beehives, the wealth produced here is mainly in the iron and wood industries. Several comrades from Buffalo came up to the Tonawanda and a meeting was held. We did not succeed in gaining subscribers at the meeting, but Comrade Joe Mahoney, a member of Section Erie County, who works now in a Tonawanda foundry, succeeded in getting six of his fellow shopmates to subscribe to The People. Batavia, the largest town in Genesee County, has also a working class population; there is a large shoe factory in Batavia and also many wood factories. The town is practically unorganized. On account of inclemency of the weather a meeting could not be held, but three subscribers for the Weekly were secured through our staunch friend, E. Keen. Rochester, in Monroe County, is so much like Milwaukee: it has its share of breweries and bogus Socialists. Frank Sieverman, the Berger of Rochester, has left the city and is manager for a credit clothing company, and instead of selling out workingmen will henceforth manage the selling on the instalment plan of coates and pants, all wool but the button

The open air meetings held in Rochester were well attended, a meeting in a hall of the Industrial Workers of the World was also held, and a recruiting local organized; temporary officers were elected and the new organization decided to keep the application for a charter open for two weeks. There is hardly a place with more favorable conditions for the organizing of the wage earners in a bona fide union than Rochester. Nearly all the garment workers are unorganized and out of over sixty shoe factories, only one large factory has a contract with the Tobin con-

A few Social Democrats had their eyes opened and joined the I. W. W. local.

Wayne County is small both in population and territory, and agriculture has first place and industry last place. At a meeting held in Palmyra, only one subscriber was secured for the Weekly People. Lyons is the county seat; hearing that there are a tannery and a glove factory there and also an establishment where Uncle Sam has all his mail bags manufactured, and that all these work shops were as busy as can be, and that in the latter place a hundred men were wanted, I stopped there to have a closer look at such "prosperity." The tannery was as large, as a good sized chicken coop, the glove factory employed girls and women only, and as to the place where a contractor manufactures the mail bags and where a hundred men were wanted, I went there to be sure and find what the general talk given to men out of employment and chasing them from town to town, with the hone of getting a job, amounts to.

The following dialogue took place beit is so little, and is collected weekly; tween the contractor, Mr. Taylor and

"Well, leave your address here and when we need somebody we will let you know. Auburn, a city of over 30,000 population, is developed industrially and so are many towns in the vicinity of Auburn. There are shoe factories, foundries and mills; the Osborne Harvester Machine Company employs hundreds of men, and from personal conversations with them I have learned how they are being exploited. The piece work system is in vogue in Osborne with all that piece work implies. Two dollars and fifty cents are the highest wages paid, and as soon as that standard is reached by a large number, down goes the piece price, and again the workers must increase their energy, to make as much as they did before.

There is no organization to protect the workingmen now, but here, too, the message has reached some wage slaves, and they are getting their heads to-

E. B., BROOKLYN, N. Y.-Improved machinery is one thing, the prolongation of the work-day is another The capitalist can squeeze out more surplus value from his workmen by the prolongation of the work-day-up to a point; beyond that point he cannot. It is otherwise with improved machinery. The imagination can barely conceive a limit to the improvement of machinery: the more improved the machine, all the more surplus value is squeezed out. Now then, as to the two concrete questions-

B is wrong in claiming that the capitalist will eventually be checked by decreasing surplus value in his introduction of improved machinery. What will check him is the Revolution. The improved machinery recruits the revolutionists.

A is wrong in the opinion that the displacement of Labor by improved machinry will render the I. W. W. inoperative. It can only render craft unionism inoperative: it is doing so now.

J. V., HELENA, MONT .- Never fret about the political side of the issue. If you have time for nothing else, center your activities upon your Union. Ferret out of it all capitalist economic lies as you would ferret rats and mice out of your barn. The political blossom will ceived.

Fall in line with the I. W. W. and labor to keep it straight and improve it. All else will come in due season.

Telepathy, hypnotism, X-rays and many such matters now being organized into science were once poohpoohed. By the same token, crooks who get hold of some portion of these matters do certainly swindle with them, H. B., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL .--

Most assuredly the capitalist class will try to smash the I. W. W. with the A. F. of L. Is not the Gompers concern there for the purpose of keeping down the workingman?

L. C. H., LOS ANGELES, CAL.-The poem is rather too long for insertion at this time.

A. M. C., WILKINSBURG, PA.-Would you yield to our judgment, and allow that article to be laid over for the immediate present?

M. D., TROY, N. Y .- The essential difference between the Socialist Labor Party and the Socialist party is that the S. L. P. holds that the economic or Union qustion is inseparable from the political question, whereas the S. P. claimed the opposite. From this fundamental error on the part of the S. P. a number of things have flown that emphasized the original error. Seeing that the Union question cannot be kept out from the political, the S. P. simply slided under the domination of the A. F. of L. until it has become an A. F. of L. party. Now, then, the A. F. of L. is avowedly an attempt to patch up harmony between Capital and Labor. The consequence is that the S. P. has fused and dickered with capitalist politicians and become a candle-holder for the Gompers fakirs.

A. K., LOS ANGELES, CAL.-The S. T. & L. A. never had any real existence except in the East. The I. W. W. is established East and West. That is great progress. The other matter we know nothing of and should be raised with the national officers of the

At an open air meeting four subscribers to the party press were secured, seven the next day at the factories, most of them brewery workers who don't like the "editorial" trash of "Colleague" Weigeloni in the Brauer Zeitung.

The Kangs of Auburn are doing business at their old stand and in the same old way. They held a city convention to nominate a full city and country ticket, although they have not members enough, nor even sympathizers, to fill all nominations in one ward. HERE IS WORK FOR YOU TO DO-RALLY IN DEPENSE OF YOUR TIME-HONORED NAME!

Members and sympathizers of the | Socialist Labor Party, rally to this call? Six years have now passed and it seems like yesterday when an attempt made by the outposts of the labor fakirs then found in our ranks, to usurp and arrogate to themselves the timeed name and emblem of our party

Ther intrigue was exposed and upon facts then presented to the Secretary of State, these intriguers were driven from their maleficient post and the Party's name and emblem was accorded to its rightful owners,

The most conspicuous in this work was the Volkszeitung Corporation and its understrappers who, since then driven by the valiant S. L. P. from under cover, were proven to be an annex to the A. F. of L. labor faking brigade.

The "Volkszeitung" or A. F. of L. ourt of Appeals from using the word Democratic" for its party name. It is now trying to steal our name. It has d the Board of Elections that it will assume as its new name the word "Socialist," and thus it tries to make its appearance before the voters as a "Soialist" party.

This new name involves the S. L. P. in another contest to protect its own name. Steps have already been taken Information regarding strike at Lodi was given the S. E. C. Principles of Industrial Unionism had been set forth at strikers' meeting.

Several calls for speakers were referred to the secretary with instructions to try and fill them.

Appeal of Frank C. Burgholz against action of Section in expelling him for insubordination and contempt of Section's Grievance Committee, was heard, the Section's side of the case being also presented.

Burgholz based his appeal on claims that two members of Grievance Committee were prejudiced and that he had protested against them. It developed that Burgholz had protested to the trial committee itself, against its membership, which body could not heed the protest, having no power to change its own complexion. They told the defendant that such objection should be made to the Section, which body had created the Grievance Committee. Burgholz acknowledged that he had not lodged any protest with the Section.

Burgholz further appealed from the refusal of the Grievance Committee to accept his answers in writing. The Section held that in insisting on verbal questions and verbal answers the Grievance Committee was following Party procedure, that its secretary was capable of keeping a record of the trial, that the rules of a court cannot be regulated by a defendant, who, however, had the right of protest, but must then proceed under the ruling of the trial body. To a direct question by the S. E. C. Burgholz denied that his action had been tatamorent to a refusal to answer the questions of the Grievance Committee and a hindrance to its work.

The S. E. C. considered that Burgholz's attitude before the Grievance Committee was that of unamenablness to a properly constituted body of the Section before which he had been called. and that therefore the S. E. C. could not sustain the appeal. The secretary was instructed to advise the Socialist Labor Club that the S. E. C. would entertain favorably the idea of co-operating with them on Jewish speaker, provided the expense to the S. E. C. did not exceed a certain stipulated sum. On motion committee adjourned to meet

SIX CHARTERS ISSUED BY GEN-ERAL OFFICERS FOR WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 7.

Brewery Workers Are Being Organized In and Around Denver-Omaha Is Arranging a Debs' Meeting: Big Work Being Done There-Bohn Organizes Washington Miners-Great Progress in Chicago.

[Special Correspondence.]

Chicago, Oct. 7 .- The following is complete report of the work of the Industrial Workers of the World for the week ending October 7. Charters issued as follows:

Mixed Local at Braddock, Pa.; Mixed Local at Colorado City, Col.; Mixed Local at South Omaha, Neb.; Printers' Local of Greater New York; Mixed Local at Columbus, Mont.; Miners' Local at Roslyn, Wash.

The local at Braddock, Pa., has already been reported in full from Pittsburg. The Printers' of New York is a former Socialist Trade & Labor Alliance organization.

Colorado City Mixed Local was or ganized by M. E. White. The brewery workers of Denver are already members of the Industrial Workers of the World and White is busy at present organizing the brewery workers in other towns close to Denver. The brewery workers are to be part of the same organization as' Denver, thus making a compact organization with a selid front toward the common enemy. Omaha sends in about the best report of the week. The Mixed Local at South Omaha was organized by Joseph Gilbert. He was a delegate to the Industrial Workers of the World Convention and has been doing exceptionally good work ever since the close of the convention. It is in a great measure due to him that Omaha is waking up. He has carried on such a tireless agitation that the spirit of revolt has permeated nearly every organization connected with the American Federation of Labor, He has been aided to a great extent by Loeal Omaha, Socialist party. Local Omaha, S. P., it will be remembered, was one of the foremost locals of that party in the revolt against the National plat form of 1904. It is only in keeping with their revolutionary tendencies to declare for and co-operate with the Industrial Workers of the World. They have arranged a date for Eugene V Debs for October 12. His subject will be "The Industrial Workers of the World." The local is very busy advertising the meeting, and from present indications it will surely be a success

The prospects at Pullman, Ill., are very bright. It is here where the great shops of the Pullman Palace Car Company are located. Following the great American Railway Union strike of 1894 the American Federation of Labor or-1.00 ganized every worker into the American Federation of Labor. This is the town the late George M. Pullman founded as a "model" town. With the American Federation of Labor directing the policy of the wage slaves there it certainly was a model. Through their craft plan of organization and fakirs for leaders the wage slaves there have been buffeted from pillar to post until all semblance of organization has been wiped out. So much so, in fact, that the Chicago "Chronicle" gloats over the results of the American Federation of Labor work. The "Chronicle" is the recognized spokesman for the Capitalist Class in the middle West and every Sunday prints a special section showing conditions in towns near Chicago. Last Sunday it printed a full page concerning conditions in Pullman. It called attention to the disruption of the American Federation of Labor there and said the Pullman's idea of a model town was fully realized. But a revolt has set in, and now the wage slave is rapidly awakening. A meeting was held three weeks ago with but twenty-two men present. The Industrial Workers of the World plan was explained to them and they applied for a charter. At the second meeting about fifty were present, and the pioneers received many new members. On 2.00 October 6 another meeting was held. It was addressed by Sherman, Kirkpatrick and Trautmann. Over 250 men were present and now the place is being swept like wild fire. The workers are doing nothing practically in their spare moments but discuss their condition and the Industrial Workers of the World The Industrial Workers of the World is fully alive to the situation and literature is being scattered broadcast, and it is only a question of time until the town will be in the folds of the Industrial Workers of the World, and the class which the "Chronicle" represents will be compeled to change its tactics.

such a model town, from the Capitalist Class standpoint.

Bohn continues his good work in the far West by organizing a branch for the Mining Department at Roslyn, Wash. They have ordered literature and good results are expected from them.

The Stogie Makers of Cleveland are still on strike. They were addressed by Sherman last week. The employers are puzzled by the firm attitude of the Industrial Workers of the World, as it is an entirely new condition for them to face. A further report concerning this will be sent next week.

A mistake was made in the last report concerning the Machinists. The report should read, "Business Agent Kepler of the International Machinists". instead of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Here in Chicago the Industrial Workers of the World movement has gained such headway that the different bodies connected with it are about to form a central body. It will probably be known as the Industrial Council of Chicago. The American Federation of Labor is on the run and they are leaving no stone unturned to block the progress of the Industrial Workers of the World. They are using the Structural Iron Workers' strike in an attempt to fool the workers into believing their organization is still capable of handling the workers' interests. So far they are unsuccessful and they are at their wit's end to find some way of undermining the work of the Industrial Workers of the World,

The number of the Weekly People of October 7, thus far taken already exceeds the number ordered of the special issue containing "The Burning Question of Trades Unionism." As 100,000 of the issue of October 7 was printed, we are still in a position to fill many more orders. Every section, and I. W. W.

our party or reader of our press should get a bundle and distribute it. We will send them to you at one cent per copy, and you may pay for them in stamps or whatever may be the most convenient way to you. We are sure, wherever you are, your field needs this work, so we urge you to do the best you can along der Socialism". As you are aware we can no longer send our leaslets through the Post Office as second class matter. While this is quite a disadvantage to us we do not intend to discontinue so important an adjunct to our propaganda as the leaslets have proved to be. Having looked into the matter of some other way to ship them, we find that express charges make the leaflets come too high; and in order to keep any where near former prices we will have to ship by freight. But to ship by freight will not pay unless in lots of 7000 leaflets or over. We find, to our satisfaction, that freight transportation is sufficiently rapid to permit of its use by us at almost all times without very considerable inconvenience. We also, in considering the matter, have concluded that it is only fair to establish universal rates regardless of the situation of the Sections or member ordering, fixing the same prices for leaflets delivered, whether they be sold to an Assembly District of New York City or to a member at large in Utah or California, for instance.

We can sell 4-page leaflets in lots of 7000 or more at $1.25 per thousand, delivered at the office or at your railroad station by freight. In smaller lots of by express they will cost $1.75 per thousand. Two-page leaflets will cost, in 14,000 lots, at office or by freight 65 cents per thousand; by express or in smaller lots 90 cents per

We are going to print leaslets in hundred thousand lots. Among them some new ones on Industrial Unionism. Send us your order now with the cash, Order a stock of pamphlets at the same time to be shipped with the leaflets. The day of small things is past and we must rise to the occasion. Keep us is that Judge so dead set against it? U. S .- For the reason that I have already given you. He is not deciding an abstract question of freedom. He pretends to; but that is only swindle. What he is deciding is a concrete question of happiness.

B. J .- Why, then he should not be against it, but for it.

U. S .- Not so. He is a capitalist offieinl. He therefore interprets things from the standpoint of capitalist interests. The actions of these Unions would cause them to receive higher wages. Now, where do wages come from!

B. J.—They come from the product of labor. U. S .- And where do the profits of the capitalist come from?

B. J .-- Also from the product of labor. U. S .- Does it not, then, follow that he higher the wages of the working people, the lower must be-the profits of the idle Capitalist Class?

B. J. (striking his forehead)-That's

U. S.-Now you will understand why that Judge decides as he does. He is deciding in the interest of the class that he represents—the Capitalist Class. The interests of that class are to demoralize the Working Class so as to keep from them ever larger slices of the workers' product. Hence he declares that the conduct of these Unions is repugnant to freedom; and so it is to the freedom of his fleecing class of capitalists.

B. J .- But that's horrible.

wise until the workingmen kick these capitalists out of the public offices, and elect the Socialist Labor Party. Then freedom will be interpreted the other way. The right way.
