ACCORDING TO HIS OWN CONFESSIONS AN UNMITTIGATED VILLAIN WHO DELIBERATELY INCITED HIS VICTIMS TO THE COMMISSION OF CRIME-HIS RECORD AS GIVEN BY THE AMERICAN LAW RE-VIEW-STEUNENBERG A LAWLESS MAN WITH LITTLE REGARD FOR HUMAN LIFE-VICTIMIZED MINERS' OFFICIALS FEAR NOT THE RESULTS OF A FAIR TRIAL.

ver. On his sole testimony three officers of the Western Federation of Miners, Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, were spirited away from their homes, and illegally, without having recourse to law, dispatched in a special train furnished by the Mine Owners' Association and Standard Oil freebooters, to Idaho, to be indicted, together with seven more members of the Western Federation of Miners and charged with the murder of acts that he was in the habit of applaudex-Governor Steunenberg.

On p. 233 of the American Law Review, the best authority on the history of law, the following extract may be

" James McParland, selected by Allan Pinkerton, at the behest of the capitalists, went under the assumed name of James McKenna among the Molly McGuires in 1873, became officer and very prominent of a district union of that order. Murders were committed. McParland instigated them, aided and abetted the crimes, according to testimony adduced and used by the defense for the sole purpose of using his participation as evidence in the prosecution of his alleged accomplices; seven of them were hanged, although McPar-land's testimony of their guilt should have required corroboration."

Under the caption "The Infamous McParland," "The Irish World" of March 10 gives more fully the record and the private character of McParland:

"The notorious McParland of unsavory reputation, who as a Pinkerton agent sent many an innocent man to the gallows or to prison thirty years ago, is plying his nefarious trade in Several New York papers with anti-labor leanings have been devoting much space to him and his work as an agent of the Pinkertons. He is repre-sented as a hero deserving of all praise, whereas according to his own confession he was an unmitigated villain who deliberately incited his victims to the commission of crime. If they yielded he played the part of the informer and so nced his value in the estimation of his employers. It is well known that Pinkerton detectives are recruited from the off-scouring of cities. An utter lack of conscience is the prerequisite for the candidate who would become a Pinkerton man.

"McParland, a North of Ireland Irishman, seems to have been fitted by hature for the criminal work he engaged in. It is some thirty odd years since he made his first appearance in Pennsylvania under the assumed name of Mc Kenna. In a two and a half column article which the New York Sun devotes to him we find the reason for his going to Pennsylvania thus stated:

'He joined the Pinkerton detective torces in 1872. When arrangements were made with that agency by Franklin B. Gowan on behalf of the Pennsylvania & Reading Coal and Iron Company to undermine the Mollie Maguires, McParland was selected as the operator.

"In this way McParland was launche upon his career of crime inciter. His role was that of a rollicking, reckless desperado who was always ready to appland any act of violence. He gave ou that he was a member of the A. O. H. in Buffalo, who had killed a man in a fight and had sought safety in flight. His lying assertion in regard to his being a member of the A. O. H. nearly brought him into serious trouble as is thus told in the newspaper article from which we have already quoted:

"A member of the A. O. H. not friendly to the detective began to question him about the ritual of the organ-McParland pretended to be drunk and finally rolled to the floor as if * It was finally dein a stupor * * * It was finally de-cided that he was really drunk and was not accountable for what he said. All the time he was listening and he heard enough about the inner workings of the A. O. H. to become familiar with the titles of the officers.

"In the course of time McParland worked his way into the Miners' Union. A man of his moral make-up we have no hesitation in luring thoughtlese

James McParland is the Chief of | young men into the commission of acts Pinkerton's Detective Agency in Den- of violence. In a lengthy notice of him in the New York Evening Post we are told that his 'enthusiasm waxed high at each killing, as he exclaimed between drinks, "An' may the devil fly away with

> "If the truth was known it would be revealed that he, by his incitements, was morally, if not legally, guilty of the crimes for the detection of which he received blood money from his paymasters. He always took good care not to expose himself to the risk incident to ing. How he succeeded in doing this is thus told in the New York Evening Post article:

"'To save himself from being deputed to remove an objectionable mine boss or other official, he deliberately acquired the reputation of being a drunkard, who had no physical or moral capacity to withstand the effects of the wee poteen. Fever frequently laid him low, and he lost his hair, and substituted a disreputable looking wig for it. His consti-tution was severely shaken, but he stuck to the job and sang, danced, drank and fought whenever necessary. He was the pet of the Mollie Maguires, and all the time lists of members and notices and plots against life and property were constantly going east by mail.

"The article from which we have just quoted furnishes convincing evidence of the part McParland took in stirring up Pennsylvania miners to lawless acts. We have this picture of his leading a mob of striking miners:

"'McKenna (McParland) helped to lead a mob against the West Shenandoah colliery, where was a force of armed police and the secretary of the Mollies (McParland) was in imminent danger of being shot down by his own people (Pinkertons), some of whom he knew, and the commander of whom knew him. There were sixteen bullets in every rifle and McKenna (McParland) suggested to his pals that "twenty times sixteen wur three hundred an' twenty, an' that was the number that must fall before them Winchesters were exhausted! An' wur it all worth even fifty lives " The Mollies 'allowed' that

"Here we have Pinkerton agents acting in the open. It is reasonable to suppose that long before he undertook to lead that mob against his fellow Pinkertons he was engaged in egging on his dupes in order that he might have a chance to betray them. We are told by the New York Sun that 'it was mainly on his testimony that the malefactors were sent to the gallows' The same and in the trial which followed, H. H. derail the train. lay, June 21, 1877, six of his victim were hanged in Pittsville, four at Mauch Chunk, and one in the Luzerne county prison yard.

"After the lapse of almost thirty years McParland reappears in his old role. The scene has shifted from Pennsylvania to Idaho. Again he has been busily at work searching out victims. By employing methods identical with those he used in Pennsylvania he has sought to create the impression that the western miners are a gang of thugs wholly andeserving of sympathy of any kind. Judging by his past record we are justied in suspecting that he and other Pinkerton agents have had a good deal to do with bringing about the condition in the western mining districts out of which he and they will derive a pecuniary benefit. The unsupported testimony of McParland and of his Pinkerton tools should not be sufficient to hang a dog, much less a man."

ATTEMPTS AT TRAIN WRECKING AND FATAL EX-PLOSION IN THE VINDICATOR MINE

3rd Session.]

On September 14, 1903, E. E. Hart nan, superintendent of the electric division of the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District Railroad, reported to the military authorities that during the previous night a number of spikes on the outside rail at the sharp curve near the Economic mill had been removed. Should a car leave the track at this place, its occupants would probably be precipitated into the bottom of the gulch, 300 or 400 feet below. The first car in the morning was usually loaded with miners, but the removal of the spikes was discovered by the track walker before the first trip in the morning. Two months later there were other attempts at train wrecking, McKinney admitted that he had made this attempt and with others had made the later attempts.

On the night of November 14, 1903, an attempt was made to wreck a train on the Florence and Oripple Creek Railroad. The track walker discovered that the spikes had been removed for two rail engths on a curve near Anaconda. This discovery was made in time to give warning to the engineer of a train carrying a party of business men and their ives, who were returning to Cripple Creek from a military ball at Victor. On the night of November 16 a similar attempt at train wrecking was made at nother curve near Anaconda, on the same railroad. Spikes on the outside rails and fish-plate bolts were removed. This discovery was made by a track walker in time to give warning to the engineer of a train carrying 100 or more persons, mostly non-union min-

H. H. McKinney was charged with the crime of attmepted murder in loosening the rails and was arrested, McKinney had been a member of the Western Federation of Miners, but was not in good standing, being a delinquent member, In December, while he was in jall he made a written confession to D. C. Scott, a detective for the railroad company, and K. C. Sterling, a detective for the Mine Owners' Association. In this confession McKinney charged that Sherman Parker, W. F. Davis, and Thomas Foster, all prominent union men, were active participants or accessories before the fact in the two attempts at train wrecking on the nights of November 14 by messages, which he sent once and made to an attorney, F. J. Hangs, he stated that his first confession, implicating Parker, Davis and Foster, was false; that for making the first confession he had been promised immunity from punishment, and also $1,000 and transportation for himself and wife to any part of the world he might wish to go; that he believed the detectives had tried to clear their own skirts by getting him to make such a confession. McKinney also wrote a letter to his wife, afterwards adduced in evidence making statements in accordance with his second confession, and also saying that he did not know who attempted to

The trial of Parker, Davis and Foster, charged with attempted murder, took place in the district court in February 1904. Judge R. E. Lewis presided. The jury was selected from a special venire of 80 men, all of them ranchmen or timbermen and non-union men. The first witness was H. H. McKinney, who turned State's evidence. He admitted that he had attempted to derail a train on the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District Railroad on the night of Sentember 13; that he had attempted to derail a Florence and Cripple Creek train on the night of November 14, and that two nights later he made another such attempt, He testified that in the two latter attempts he was assisted by Thomas Foster. On cross examination he testified that he had formerly been a prize-fighter, and that he had | pie to Cripple Creek under an assumed He further testified that for 85. would wreck a train carrying 200 to 300 people, but that he had asked $500 for this job, as another man would have to work with him, and that Scott and Sterling had promised him that amount

The next witness was Charles Beck man, who testified that he was a native of Germany; that his right name was Herman Neumeister; that he had arrived in New York five years previously; that since December, 1902, he had been employed by Thiel's Detective gAency, of Denver; that he had joined the Western Federation of Miners at Murray, Utah, on April 17, 1903; that he had come to Cripple Creek and put his card in Victor Union, No. 32. He further testified that

In this second confession, Owners' Association, posted as to the Owners' Association, posted as to the progress of the plot to derail a train. K. C. Sterling, being placed on the stand, admitted that he was employed on secret work by the Mine Owners Association, and that he and Beckman and Scott had concocted a plot to induce members of the miners' union to derail a train.

D. C. Scott testified that only two men. Beckman and McKinney, tampered with the rails and spikes, and that on the night of November 16, he (the witness) and Sterling were in an assay office near the scene of the attempted derailment for two hours, afterward going outside and being within 50 feet of Beck man and McKinney. He also testified but no words were exchanged, and that W. F. Davis and Sherman Parker were accessories, lending him money and tools He further testified that in the attempt on the night of November 16, he was accompanied by Charles Beckman, a de tective of Thiel's Detective Agency, who was employed by the Mine Owners' Association; that he (the witness) and Beckman pulled spikes from the rails while McKinney pulled burrs off the fish plates with a wrench.

W. W. Rush, an engineer on the Florence and Cripple Creek Railroad, testified that he had been approached by D. C. Scott, a detective for the Denver and Southwestern Railway, who asked him where there was a good place for derailing a train.

The State resting its case, the defense moved that Thomas Davis, one of the defendants, be discharged, on the ground that no incriminating evidence against him had been adduced. With the consent of the prosecution Judge Lewis promptly discharged Davis. It was agreed also that the charge against Foster for the attempt at derailing on the night of November 16 be stricken out.

The first witness for the defense, V. W. Mather, a butcher, swore that or the night of November 16 he passed along the Florence and Cripple Creek road and saw Scott and another man at work on the track where the attempt at derailment was made; that they asked him if he were a union man; that he replied that he was, and that they allowed him to proceed.

and 400 workingmen and women met at Investigator Hall, Paine Memorial Building, last night to voice their protest against the arrest and imprisonment of Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone and St. John. The meeting was called by Section Boston, Socialist Labor Party. The chairman, James J. Corcoran, opened with a short review. Then T. F. Brennan, of the S. L. P., traced the miners' struggles, spoke upon the futility of merely passing resolutions and raising a defence fund, and urged those present to line up and join the organizations of the I. W W., in order to help to carry the work along. W. P. Thorne of the Socialist Party followed. He has had experience as a workingman in the Rocky Mountain regions; and reviewed the class struggle dwelling on the impotency and treachery of the old style trades union leaders.

Following Thorne, J. Koundish of the Litonian Socialist Federation, spoke in his native language arousing his countrymen present into approving applause.

Simpson, of the Workingmen's Circle, next drew lessons from history, pointing out the methods of the ruling class and quoted Marx on the bourgeoisie being alarmed at the stupidity of the working class, when conservative and fearing them when they became intelligent, because then they became revolutionary His citation of the Chicago judicial murder, when August Spies said to the infamous Judge Gary, "My conviction is your condemnation; I speak for my class, you speak for yours," aroused storms of applause. Simpson closed his remarks by dwelling upon the inspiring sight presented by the meeting, that of men of different views uniting as they had done that evening in the interests of their class—the working class.

In endorsing the resolutions presented the closing speaker, W. H. Carroll, of the S. L. P., went over the rise of new trades

Copies of the resolutions were ordered | sent to the governors of Colorado and Idaho, the press and the families of the victimized men.

The chairman at the close of the meet ng, called for three cheers for Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone, and St. John, which were given with a will.

An incident worth mentioning occurred en Sunday afternoon. A mass meeting of new voters in Fanuel Hall was ad dressed by prominent Bostonians in "the interest of good government." The usual patriotic speeches were made; but on coming out of the hall each one got a copy of the New York Labor News Co. leaflet, "Shall Our Colorado Brothers Be Murdered?" and a card announcing the protest meeting. These were read and discussed by many groups from the large audience attending the new voters fes tival. This suggests a means of making the protest more extensive. San Diego, Cal., March 22 .- National Organizer B. H. Williams, now making a tour of the Pacific Coast in the interes of the Industrial Workers of the World and the Socialist Labor Party, visited San Diego March 5th and held street meetings nightly during the week, explaining the principles of class-conscious unionism and Socialism in a clear and forcible manner to good crowds. These meetings awakend much interest in the I. W. W. among the rank and file, and aroused the ire of the local labor fakirs and tools of capitalist politicians, in the pure and simple (Brotherhood-of-Capitaland-Labor) craft unions. A large quantity of literature was sold. Saturday evening, at an open meeting

Rochester, March 26 .- The Indignation Meeting against the kidnapping and railroading of Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone, and St. John held here on Sunday, March 25, was a rousing one. Cook Opera House was filled to the utmost, and many went away, because they could not even get standing room.

A few choice selections of music were furnished at the beginning by the 54th Regiment Band.

James O'Neal, of Terre Haute, Ind., was the only speaker. He did not make any effort to appeal to the centiment of the people or to arouse their excitement (the plain facts themselves are very exciting); but his explanation as to the origin of the present struggle in Colorade and Idaho and the consequences that would necessarily follow the legal murder of the victimized men, were as plain and clear as any man could make it; and his criticism on the conduct of the capitalist class as well as his exhibit of the class struggle in general were excellent. The applause which he frequently called forth was inspiring.

A collection was taken up, the amount of which is at present not known to the writer; but it is safe to say that it will be a good one; and there is certainly a good surplus from the money that was previously donated by the various organisations towards covering the expenses, to which they contributed very liberally; several of them giving as much as $25.

Resolutions were adopted unanimously condemning the conduct of the State officials of Colorado and Idaho, towards the wrongfully imprisoned members of the Western Federation of Miners.

The above meeting was not arranged by the Civic Federation, nor was it presided over by the Civic Federationized Messrs. Gompers and Mitchell. The rank and file of the Working Class arranged this meeting. Its members sat on the platform and filled the house; and, no doubt, it will be that same rank and file that will act if peaceful means shall fall to produce justice fo rthe victims of the capitalist class. That rank and file will act in spite of Gompers, Mitchell and the Civic Federation. It is to be hoped that those of the capitalist class who still preserve a grain of sense and decency will take warning in time.

San Pedro, Cal., March 21,-A meeting to protest against the outrageous kidnapping of the Western Federation of Miners' officials, and also to raise funds for their legal defence, was held in Federal Labor Hall, on March the 17th. There was no lack of enthusiasm. The meeting was arranged by the I. W. W. and S. L. P. The hall was given free by the Pacific Federation Union, which organization also donated $10 for Moyer and Haywood defense fund

H. Shade and National Organizer B. H. Williams made some good speeches. When they called for donations $12.45 was collected, and about a dozen promised to give a day's wages. A lawyer by the name of Stieglitz stated in his speech that he was positive that the accused miners' officials were no more guilty, than he himself, and as evidence of his

Again, it is shown here that the bomb was in all probability thrown by some one seeking personal revenge; that a course had been pursued by the authorities which would naturally cause this; that for a number of years prior to the Haymarket affair there had been labor troubles and in several cases a number of laboring people guilty of no offense had been shot down in cold blood by Pinkerton men and none of the murderers were brought to justice. The evidence taken at coroner's inquests and presented here shows that in at last two cases men were fired on and killed when they were running away and there was consequently no occasion to shoot, yet nobody was punished; that in Chicago there had been a number of strikes in which some of the police not only took sides against the men, but without any authority of law invaded and broke up peaceable meetings, and in scores of cases brutally clubbed people who were guilty of no offense whatever. Reference is made to the opinion of the late Judge McAllister in the case of the Harmonia Association of Joiners against Brennan et al., reported in the Chicago Legal News:

JUDGE McALLISTER'S OPINION.

Among other things, Judge McAllister says:
"The facts established by a large number of witnesses, and without any opposing evidence are, that this society, having eased Turner Hall on West Twelfth street for the purpose held a meeting in the forenoon of said day in said hall, composed of from 200 to 300 individuals, most of whom were ourneymen cabinet makers engaged in the several branches of the manufacture of furniture in Chicago, but some of those in attendance were the proprietors in that business or delegates sent by them. The object of the meeting was to obtain a conference of the journeymen with such proprietors or their authorized delegates with the view of endeavoring to secure an increase of the price or the diminution of the hours of labor. The attendants were wholly unarmed and orderly, and while the people were sitting quietly with their backs toward the entrance hall, with a few persons on the stage in front of them, and all engaged merely in the busi-ness for which they had assembled, a force of from fifteen to twenty policemen came suddenly into the hall, having a policeman's club in one hand and a revolver in the other, and making no pause to determine the actual character of the meeting, they immediately shouted: 'Get out of here, ,' and began beating the people with their clubs, some of them actually firing their revolvers. One young man was shot through the back of the head and killed. But to complete the atrocity of the affair on the part of the officers engaged in it, when the people hastened to make their escape from the assembly room, they found policemen stationed on either side of the stairway leading from the hall down to the street, who applied their clubs to them as they passed, seemingly with all the violence practicable under the

"Jacob Biersdorf, who was a manufacturer of furniture ploying some 200 men, had been invited to the meeting and came, but as he was about to enter the place where it was held, an inoffensive old man, doing nothing unlawful, was stricken to the ground at his feet by a policeman's club, "These general facts were established by an overwhelming ass of testimony and, for the purpose of the questions in the case, it is needless to go further into the detail.

"The chief political right of the citizen in our government, based upon the popular will as regulated by law, is the right of suffrage, but to that right two others are auxiliary and of almost equal importance:

"1. The right of free speech and of a free press.

"2. The right of the people to assemble in a peaceable manner to consult for the common good.

"These are among the fundamental principles of government and guaranteed by our constitution. Section 17, Article II., of the bill of rights, declares: "The people have a right to assemble in a peaceable manner to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives and apply for redress of grievances.

"Jurists do not regard these declarations of the bill of rights as creating or conferring the rights, but as guarantees against their deprivation or infringement by any of the powers or agencies of the government. The rights themselves are regarded as the natural inalienable rights belonging to every individual, or as political, and based upon or arising from principles inherent in the very nature of a system of free government.

"The right of the people to assemble in a peaceable man-to consult for the common good being a constitutional right, it can be exercised and enjoyed within the scope and spirit of that provision of the constitution, independently of every other power of the state government,

"Judge Cooley, in his excellent work on "Torts," speaking

(p. 296) of remedies for the invasion of political rights, says:

"When a meeting for any lawful purpose is actually called and held one who goes there with the purpose to disturb and break it up and commits disorder to that end is a tresspasser upon the rights of those who, for the time, have the control of the place of meeting. If several unite in the dis-order it may be a criminal riot."

So much for Judge McAllister. Now it is shown that no attention was paid to the judge's decision; that peaceable meetings were invaded and broken up and inoffensive people were clubbed; that in 1885 there a strike at the McCormick Reaper factory on account of a reduction of wages and some Pinkerton men, while on their way there, were hooted at by some people on the street, when they fired into the crowd and fatally wounded several people who had taken no part in any disturbance; that four of the Pinkerton men were indicted for this murder by the grand jury, but that the prosecuting officers apparently took no in-terest in the case and allowed it to be continued a number of times, until the witnesses were worn out and in the end the murderers went free; that after this there was a strike on the West Division Street Railway and that some of the police, under the leadership of Captain John Bonfield, indulged in a brutality never equaled before; that even small merchants standing on their own doorsteps, and having no interest in the strike were clubbed, then hustled into patrol wagons and thrown into prison on no charge, and not even booked; that a petition, signed by about 1,000 of the leading citizens living on and near West Madison street, was sent to the mayor and city council, praying for the dismissal of Bonfield from the force, but that on account of his political influence he was retained. Let me say here that the charge of brutality does not apply to all of the policemen of Chicago. There are many able, honest and conscientious officers who do their duty quietly, thoroughly and humanely.

INSTANCES OF POLICE BRUTALITY AND CRIME. As a specimen of the many papers filed in this connection, I will give the following, the first being from the officers of a corporation that is one of the largest employers in Chi-

Office People's Gas Light & Coke Co., Chicago, Nov. 21, 1885. TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE, CHICAGO TRADES AND LABOR ASSEMBLY, SIR:-In response to the request of your committee for information as to the treatment received by certain employes of this company at the hands of Captain Bonfield and by his orders during the strike of the Western Division Railway Company's employes in July last,

On that day of the strike in which there was apparently an indiscriminate arresting of persons who happened to be up on Madison street, whether connected with the disturbance of peace, or engaged in legitimate business, a number of employes of this company were at work upon said street near Hoyne avenue, opening a trench for the laying of gas pipe

The tool box of the employes was at the southeast corner of Hoyne and Madison streets. As the men assembled for labor shortly before 7 a. m. they took their shovels and tools from the tool box, arranged themselves along the trench preparatory to going to work when the hour of seven should arrive. About this time and a little before the men began to work a crowd of men not employes of the company, came surging down the street from the west, and seizing such shovels and other tools of the men as lay upon the ground and about the box, threw more or less of the loose dirt, which had before been taken from the trench, upon the track of the railway company. About this time Captain Bonfield and his forces appeared upon the scene and began apparently an indiscriminate arrest of persons. Among others arrested were the following employes of this company: Edward Kane, Mike W. Kirwin, Dan Diamond, James Hussey, Dennis Murvay, Patrick Brown and Pat Francy. No one of these persons had any connection with the strike, or were guilty of obstructing the cars of the railway company, or of any disturbance upon the street. Mr. Kirwin had just arrived at the tool box and had not yet taken his shovel preparatory to going to work, when he was arrested while standing by the box and without resistance, was put upon a street car as a prisoner. When upon the car he called to a friend among the workmen, saying, "take care of my shovel." Thereupon Bonfield struck him a violent blow with a club upon his head, inflicting a serious wound, laying open his scalp, and saying as he did so, "I will shovel you," or words to that effect. Another of the said employes, Edward Kane, was also arrested by the tool box, two of the police seizing him, one by each arm, and as he was being put upon the car, a third man, said by Kane and others to be Bonfield, struck him with a club upon the head, severely cutting his head. Both of these men, with blood streaming from the cuts upon their heads, respectively, as also all of the others above named, were hustled off to the police station and locked up. The men were not "booked" as they were locked up, and their friends had great difficulty in finding them, so that bail might be offered and they released. After they were found communication with them was denied for some time by Bonfield's order, as was said, and for several hours they were kept in confinement in the lock-up upon Desplaines street as criminals, when their friends were desirous of getting them out. Subsequently they were all brought up for trial before Justice White. Upon the hearing the city was represented by its attorney, Bonfield himself being present, and from the testimony it appeared that all these men had been arrested under the circumstances. aforesaid and without the least cause, and that Kane and Kirwin had been cruelly assaulted and beaten without the least justification therefor, and, of course, they were all dis-

By C. K. G. Billings, V. P. CHICAGO, NOV. 19, 1885. ROBERT ELLIS, 974 WEST MADIson Street:-I kept a market at 974 West Madison street. I was in my place of business waiting on customers and stepped to the door to get a measure of vegetables. The first thing I knew, as I stood on the step in front of my store, I received a blow over the shoulders with a club and was seized and thrown off the sidewalk into a ditch being dug there. I had my back to the person who struck me, but on regaining my feet I saw that it was Bonfield that had assaulted me. Two or three officers then came up. I told them not to hit me again. They said go and get in the car, and I told them 1 couldn't leave my place of business as I was all alone there. They asked Bonfield and he said: "Take him right along." They then shoved me into the car and took me down the street to a patrol wagon, in which I was taken to the Lake street station. I was locked up there from this time, about eight o'clock in the morning till eight o'clock in the evening and then taken to the Desplaines street station. I was held there a short time and then gave bail for my appearance, and got back to my place of business about nine o'clock that night. Subsequently when I appeared in court I was discharged. It was about eight o'clock in the morning, July 3, 1885, when I was taken from my place of business.

ROBERT ELLIS. CHICAGO, Nov. 19, 1885.—I was standing in my door about seven o'clock in the morning of July 3, 1885. I saw a man standing on the edge of the sidewalk. He wasn't doing anything at all. Bonfield came up to him and without a word being said by either, Bonfield hit him over the head with his club and knocked him down. He also hit him twice after he had fallen. I was standing about six feet from them when the assault occurred. I don't know the man that was clubbed -never saw him before nor since.

W. Whip. MAN,
1004 West Mac. ng Street.
CHICAGO, Nov. 20, 1885.—One the morning of July 3,

1885, about seven o'clock, as I was standing on the southeast corner of Madison street and Western avenue I saw Bonfield walk up to a man on the opposite corner, who was apparently looking on at what was going on in the street. Bonfield hit him over the head with his club and knocked him down. Some men who were near him helped him over to the drug store on the corner where I was standing. His face was covered with blood from the wound on his head made by Bonfield's club, and he appeared to be badly hurt. A few moments later, as I was standing in the same place, almost touching elbows with another man, Bonfield came up facing us and said to us, "stand back," at the same time striking the other man over the head with his club. I stepped back and turned around to look for the other man; saw him a few feet away with the blood running down over his face apparently badly hust from the effects of the blow or blows he had received from Bonfield. There was no riot or disorderly conduct there at this time, except what Bonfield made himself by clubbing innocent people who were taking no part in the strike. If they had been there for the purpose of rioting they would surely have resisted Bonfield's brutality.

I affirm that the above statement is a true and correct statement of facts.

JESSE CLOUD.

998 Monroe Street. CHICAGO, Nov. 19, 1885 .- On the morning of July 3, 1885, I was driving up Madison street just coming from Johnson's bakery on Fifth avenue. When I got to the corner of Market and Madison streets I met the cars coming over the bridge. On looking out of my wagon I saw Bonfield by the side of a car. He snatched me from my wagon and struck me on the head, cutting it open, and put me in a car, leaving my wagon unprotected, loaded with bakery goods, all of which were stolen except a few loaves of bread. I was then taken to the Desplaines street station and locked up for about ten hours. I was then bound over for riot in $500 bail and released. During the time I was there I received no attention of any kind, though my head was seriously cut. Julius Goldzier, my lawyer, went to Bonfield with me before the case was called in court and told him I had done nothing, and Bonfield said, "scratch his name off," and I was released. I swear to the truth of the above.

The following is from Captain Schaak, a very prominent

DEPARTMENT OF POLICE, CITY OF CHICAGO. CHICAGO,

ILL., MAY 4, 1893. G. E. DETWILER, EDITOR RIGHTS OF LABOR. DEAR SIR:—In reply to your communication of April 13, I will say that in July, 1885, in the street car strike on the west side, I held the office of lieutenant on the force. I was detailed with a company of officers early in the morning in the vicinity of the car barns, I believe on Western avenue and a little north of Madison street. My orders were to see that the new men on the cars were not molested when coming

One man came out and passed my lines about fifty feet. I saw one of the men, either driver or conductor, leave the car at a standstill. I ran up near to the car, when I saw on the southeast corner of the street Bonfield strike a man on the head with his club. He hit the man twice and I saw the man fall to the ground.

Afterwards I was put on a train of cars, protecting the rear. Bonfield had charge of the front. I saw many people getting clubbed in the front of the train, but I held my men in the rear and gave orders not to strike any one except they were struck first. Not any of my officers hurt a person on that day or at any time.

Many people were arrested, all appearing. From what I saw in the afternoon and the next day no officer could state what they were arrested for. The officers professed ignorance of having any evidence, but "someone told them to take him in," meaning to lock him up. On that afternoon, about four o'clock, I met Bonfield and he addressed me in the following words, in great anger: "If some of you goody-goody fellows had used your clubs more freely in the forenoon you would not need to use lead this afternoon." I told him that I did not see any use for clubbing people and I would club no person to please anyone, meaning Bonfield, and that if lead had to be used, I thought my officers could give lead and take it also. I will say that affair was brutal and un-

> MICHAEL J. SCHAACK, 227 North State Street.

Again it is shown that various attempts were made to bring to justice the men who wore the uniform of the law while violating it, but all to no avail; that the laboring people found the prisons always open to receive them, but the courts of justice were practically closed to them; that the prosecuting officers vied with each other in hunting them down, but were deaf to their appeals; that in the spring of 1886 there were more labor disturbances in the city and particularly at the McCormick factory; that under the leadership of Captain Bonfield, the brutalities of the previous year were even exceeded. Some affidavits and other evidence is offered on this point which I cannot give for want of space. It appears that this was the year of the eight-hour agitation and efforts were made to secure an eight-hour day about May 1, and that a number of laboring men standing, not on the street but on a vacant lot, were quietly discussing the situation in regard to the movement when suddenly a large body of police under orders from Bonfield charged on them and began to club them; that some of the men, angered at the unprovoked assault, at first resisted, but were soon dispersed; that some of the police fired on the men while they were running and wounded a large number who were already 100 feet or more away and were running as fast as they could; that at least four of the number so shot down died; that this was wanton and unprovoked murder, but there was not even so much as an investigation.

Now while some men may tamely submit to being clubbed and seeing their brothers shot down there are some who will resent it and will nurture a spirit of hatred and seek revenge for themselves, and the occurrences that preceded the Haymarket tragedy indicate that the bomb was thrown by some one who, instead of acting on the advice of anybody, was seeking simply personal revenge for having been clubbed, and that Captain Bonfield is the man who is really responsible for the death of the police officers. It is also shown that the character of the Haymarket meeting sustains this view; that the evidence proves there were only 800 to 1,000 people present and that it was a peaceable and orderly meeting: that the mayor of the city was present and saw nothing out of the way and that he remained until the crowd began to disperse, the meeting being practically over, and the crowd engaged in dispersing when he left; that had the police remained away for twenty minutes more there would have been nobody left there, but as soon as Bonfield learned that the mayor had left he could not resist the temptation to have some more people clubbed and went up with a detachment of police to disperse the meeting, and then on the appearance of the police the bomb was thrown by some unknown person and several innocent and faithful officers, who were simply obeying an uncalled for order of their superior, were killed; all of these facts tend to show the improbability of the theory of the prosecution that the bomb was thrown as the result of a conspiracy on the part of the defendants to commit murder: if the theory of the prosecution were correct there would have been many bombs thrown, and the fact that only one was thrown shows that it was an act of personal revenge.

It is further shown here that much of the evidence given at the trial was a pure fabrication; that some of the prominent police officials in their zeal not only terrorized ignorant men by throwing them into prison and threatening them with torture if they refused to swear to anything desired, but they offered money and employment to those who would consent to do this. Further, that they deliberately planned to have fictitious conspiracies formed in order that they might get the glory of discovering them. In addition to the evidence in the record of some witnesses who swore that they had been paid small sums of money, etc., several documents are here referred to.

First, an interview with Captain Ebersold published in the Chicago Daily News May 10, 1889. Ebersold was chief of the police of Chicago at the time of the Haymarket troubles and for a long time before and thereafter, so that he was in a position to know what was going on, and his utterances upon this point are therefore important. Among other things

"It was my policy to quiet matters down as soon as possible after the 4th of May. The general unsettled state of things was an injury to Chicago.

"On the other hand, Captain Schaak wanted to keep things stirring. He wanted bombs to be found here, there, all around, everywhere. I though people would lie down and sleep better if they were not afraid that their homes would be blown to pieces any minute. But this man, Schaak, this little boy who must have glory or his heart would be broken, wanted none of that policy. Now, here is something the public does not know. After we got the anarchist societies broken up Schaack wanted to send out men to again organize new societies right away. You see what this would do. He wanted to keep the thing boiling, keep himself prominent be-fore the public. Well, I sat down on that, Ididn't like it.

"After I heard all that I began to think there was perhaps not so much to all this anarchist business as they claimed and I believe I was right. Schaack thinks he knew all about those anarchists. Why, I knew more at that time than he knows to-day about them. I was following them closely. As soon as Schaack began to get some notoriety, however, he was

This is a most important statement, when a chief of police who has been watching the anarchists closely says that he was convinced that there was not so much in all that anarchist business as was claimed, and that a police captain wanted to send out men to have other conspiracies formed in order to get the credit of discovering them and keep the public excited. It throws a flood of light on the whole situation and destroys the force of much of the testimony introduced at the trial.

For if there had been any such extensive conspiracy as the prosecution claims the police would soon have discovered it. No chief of police could discover a determination on the part of an individual, or even of a number of separate individuals, to have personal revenge for having been maltreated, nor could any chief discover a determination by any such individual to kill the next policeman who might assault him. Consequently, the fact that the police did not discover any conspiracy before the Haymarket affair shows almost exclusively that no such extensive combination could have existed.

As further bearing on the question of creating evidence reference is made to the following affidavits:

COLORADO BUSINESS MAN DESCRIBES THE ANARCHISTIC CONDITIONS REIGNING THERE—THE STATE A NEST OF CONSPIRATORS, OVER-RUN WITH EX-CONVICTS, MURDERERS AND PINKERTONS, AND ROT-TEN WITH CORRUPTION AND ILLEGALITY, DUE TO THE MINE OWNERS' ASSOCIATION AND THE ALLIED CORPORATIONS-THESE DOMINATE THE GOVERNMENT; AND EMPLOY ALL THEIR RE-SOURCES TO ROB SMALL MINE OWNERS, FLEECE INVESTORS AND CRUSH LABOR-'NO MORE DISHONEST AND CORRUPT COMBINA-TION EVER EXISTED."

THE SIDE OF THE WESTERN MINERS

A Remarkable Letter from a Colorado Business Man on the Anarchistic Conditions There.

To the Editor of The Republican:-

For the past three years the newspapers have been filled with stories of the alleged conspiracies of the Western Federation of Miners, and the object of this letter is to present the miners' side, and to show to the public the falsity of the newspaper charges. These stories have been brought to a fitting climax by the arrest and imprisonment of Charles Moyer, president of the federation, Secretary W. D. Haywood, and one Pettibone, charged with having conspired to assassinate ex-Governor Frank Steunenberg of Idaho, and also with having caused the death of some other thirty persons. Almost every crime ted by parties unknown in Colorado during the past few years has been charged against these men.

The alleged basis for the charges is a 'confession" said to have been obtained from an unknown quantity—a man named Orchard. This man is a detective, and it is openly asserted by prominent men in Colorado that his consion is in slang parlance a "fake." The friends of the accused are more than anxious to have this self-confessed niter placed on the witness stand, where they feel confident his statements concerning other persons will be refuted

The methods in effecting the arrest (or shall I say kidnapping) of Moyer and Haywood in Denver, the secret granting of the Idaho requisitions by or McDonald of Colorado, himself a millionaire mine owner and member of the Mine Owners' Association. spiriting away of the two men to on a special train furnished to the Pinkertons free of charge by the Union Pacific Railroad Company, are now matters of history. The Pinkerwere aided in this so-called afrest by Adjt-Gen. Buckley Wells, of Colo-rado, and one "Bob" Meldrum, notorious onvict. Wells, who is a native of n and a Harvard graduate, was a militia officer under Sherman Bell during the reign of James H. Peabody of Coloand it was this man, Buckley Wells, who, together with his hired soldiers, perpetrated many acts of cruelty and oppression on the helpless families of the Colorado miners during the re-ent strike. One of his feats of valor e name of Floaten in Telluride. Wells, who did not like Floaten because ne openly sympathized with the strikers, ook a mob composed of as many hardn and Walter Kenly, both exicts and murderers, and going to ne of Floaten, dragged the latter from his bed, brutally abused his invalid and at the points of Colorado owned bayonets, marched Floaten ted through the snow to jail, where he was imprisoned without any rges being preferred against him. But such incidents of cowardly oppreswere too numerous in poor old rado at that time to cause wonder. Wherever the military was stationed stality was rampant. I find it difficult to restrain my pen in writing this letter, and beg the indulgence of my readers should I lose myself in the mazes of what seems to me to be a righteous indignation. Referring to the theme of conspiracy, will say that Colorado is a nest of con-is, and the recent arrest of Mover and Haywood is the result of a conspiracy on the part of the Mine Owners' on, using the governor of the State and the Pinkertons as tools. This on was organized for several purposes, among others to starve out and run out of the country small mine owners and poor men owning valuable prospects, in order to capture their holdfor themselves: to manipulate the ng stock markets and incidentally to fleece as many eastern and foreign derfeet" as possible; and last, but not least, to break up the labor organizations of the West. ed all the big coal companies of and Iron Company, the Victor Fuel workers. Buy a copy and pass it around.

Springfield, Mass., March 27 .- "The | Company, dozens of smaller coal concerns, and the American Smelting and Refining Company, better known to its victims as the "smelter trust." No more dishonest and corrupt combination ever existed. Seven-eighths of the grafting and corruption in Colorado politics can be laid to the machinations of this socalled law and order society. It controls whole countries, judges, sheriffs, petty law officers and dozens of newspapers. Chief among the latter is the Denver Republican. I could furnish, if given the space, such tales of duplicity and crime from ballot-box stuffing up to murder, arson and dynamiting, as would shock the feelings of the most callous. If any person reading this letter doubts my statements and requires details, I will gladly furnish them on demand. I have been a resident of Colorado for thirty years, and I know whereof I speak

It has always been the custom of this association to characterize the Western Federation of Miners as a set of intriguing law breakers. This merely to paraphrase the time-worn scheme of thief crying "Stop thief!" Therefore, it caused no surprise in the minds of many persons when Moyer and Haywood were kidnapped. It is the belief of the majority of the citizens of Colorado that the various acts of dynamiting now charged against the federation were incited by the Mine Owners' Association and carried out by paid detectives in its is that during the past three years numerous professional sluggers, murderers, and ex-convicts have been in the employ of this combination, and murd after murder, outrage after outrage, have been committed by these practical exponents of law and order-all without let or hindrance on the part of the sworn officers of the State. It must seem incredible to people living in lawabiding communities that such a condition could exist.

Therefore, I ask you not to take seriously the awful charges brought against Moyer and Haywood and Pettibone. I ask you to consider the source of the charges. Remember that there is nothing new in these accusations. Within the past two years, over 100 members of the Miners' Union have been arrested and jailed by the mine owners, charged with murder and dynamiting. Of this number but one man was brought to trial. He was acquitted. The other prisoners were turned loose without

Togthis day no man in Colorado is safe from personal violence who is persona non grata with the Mine Owners' Association. Especially is this true of Cripple Creek, Walsenberg and Tellu-ride. In these towns all of the peace officers are agents of the association. Of this I have personal knowledge, and I myself could not visit the above-named towns without grave danger to my life I appeal to that element in our country ed characters as he could master, in-that loves justice—the earnest, think-seding as a matter of course "Bob" ing people—to study this matter over Western Federation personally, and would stake my last dollar on their innocence. It is possible that Steunen-berg may have been blown up by some miner. It may be true, but if it is true it was the cowardly revenge of some individual made insane by the cruelties of this same organization, the Mine Owners' Association, and the acts of Steunenberg during the strike in Idaho. That more such crimes have not been itted is the wonder of the entire State. Brutality begets brutality. Murder begets murder. Force wrongfully applied is dangerous. Reprisals always

As for the alleged planting of bombs in Denver, to be dug up later by Pinker ton detectives, I can only say that it is men who planted the bombs dug them Who wants to dig up a bomb planted by another man? One serious side to this conspiracy of capital is the bad effect it has on Colorado. The State is largely ruled by a band of wealthy outlaws masquerading in the garb of law and order. Some day, I trust, the good people of this country will tire of the rule-or-ruin policy of organized wealth. My address is Pueblo, Colo., room 45, Grand Opera House block, where I have been in business continuously for fourteen years.

TERRIFIED AT TRUTH

Reactionists in Cincinnati Local, Socialist Party, Fly from Field of Dis-

(Special Correspondence.)

Cincinnati, O., March 23.-It's all off for the present in Cincinnati. Poor unity has been slapped in the face and forced into a back seat by Socialist party politicians, who, unable to hold their own against the speakers of the S. L. P. in the joint discussions arranged between the two parties, have beaten a dishonorable retreat. Our good swords of argument were too much for them. We were showing up the idiocy of "immediate demands" by a revolutionary working class movement in fine style. They actually writhed and fumed. Finally, with the agonizing cry: "You come here to take our members!" their organizer rushed from the room, declaring the meetings must cease. How well he worked up an opposition was shown at the next meeting of the City Central Committee of the Socialist party, which by a vote of sixteen to five concluded to stop the discussions. Behold our official notification thereof:

(Copy.) Cincinnati, O. March 17, 1906. Max Eisenberg, Cincinnati, O., Dear Comrade :-

Please see to it that this letter reaches he next meeting of the local Section S. L. P. I do not know the address of the secretary.

At the last meeting of the C. C. C. Local Cincinnati, a motion was carried to discontinue the discussion meeting between the members of said local and the members of Section Cincinnati, S. L.

After the above motion had been adopted, the following motion was adopted:

"That a committee of three be elected to make arrangements for, and conduct a public debate between, the Socialist employ. One thing no person can deny Labor Party and the Socialist party upon the following resolution:

"Resolved, That political action is the most effective weapon of the working

"The Socialist party taking the af irmative and each party to be repre sented by three speakers."

As secretary of the committee elected for the above purpose, I ask you to kindly bring the matter to the attention of the Local Section and inform me of the action taken.

With best wishes I remain, Fraternally yours, 1109 Dayton Street.

To this communication the following answer was sent by order of the General Committee, S. L. P .: Mr. Edward Gardner,

1109 Dayton Street, Cincinnati, O. Dear Comrade:-

To your letter notifying us that the City Central Committee of Local Cininnati, Socialist party, has voted to withdraw from the joint discussions, arranged between us, and challenging us to another special debate on a subject selected by the C. C. C., S. P., we beg leave to reply. We are ready and willing to continue the discussions already agreed upon.

If you can arbitrarily withdraw from these at your own caprice, we have no guarantee that you would fulfill the conditions of another debate if arranged.

When you meet the obligation already entered into by you with us, and by us cepted in good faith, we will be glad to consider other discussions on other subjects of mutual interest.

By order of the General Committee ction Cincinnati, S. L. P.

Per Katie Eisenberg, Secretary. Here is certainly a pretty pass. The City Central Committee of the Socialist party after having solemnly arranged a series of six debates between the members of their party and ours, without consulting their membership, to say nothing of our wishes in the matter, abruptly breaks off the discussions and proposes another subject! Evidently we were touching a sore spot, and very evidently there is quite a bunch of autocrats on the City Central Committee of the Socialist party. They are eager to conceal the state of their party throughout the country from their membership. Several young men at the last meeting spoke out and saids "I have learned something to-night!" This is what scared the "leaders." This brought forth the cry: "You come here to take our

People who are keeping up with the tour of National Organizer August Gillhaus, we, of Section San Antonio, submit the following:

The night of Gillhaus' arrival we held a meeting at "S. P." headquarters, the subject of the evening being "Craft" vs. "Industrial Unionism." Owing to unfavorable weather, coupled with the fact that here the working class is scattered over a great area and once getting "out home" can scarcely be dragged out again, it was an excellent discourse to a small but appreciative audience.

Some "S. P."-ites learned something of unionism; others did not AND NEVER WILL. One individual "S. P."-ite maintained that the middle class would have to emancipate the working class. Of course, Gillhaus showed him that there would soon be practically no middle class" in existence.

Gillhaus also addressed the local of brewers, bottlers, and one of the two carpenters' locals here. Naturally enough, "Industrial vs. Pure and Simple Unionism" was the subject, and that it was well received is evident from the collection which was taken up by Louis Martin of the I. W. W. (and also of the Brewers' Union). Martin is a hustler and got from the Brewers and Bottlers $29.25 for the Moyer-Haywood Defense

There was held on Sunday, March 18, on the plaza a joint protest meeting by the I. W. W., S. L. P., and "S. P." The speakers were Gillhaus and Clark, State organizer of the "S. P.," who has lately come in contact with and is an advocate of the I, W. W. Clark stated in effect that "No real Socialist was anything but a supporter of the I. W. W.; all others claiming to be Socialists were flying false colors," Stanley Clark is in the wrong political camp, and, I believe. is in a fair way to realize the fact.

At this open air meeting $13.50 was gotten together for the defense of our persecuted comrades, and the following resolution was adopted by the 300 workers present:

Whereas, The craven, criminal capitalist class, particularly the Mine Owners' Association of the west, together with their political manakins and strumpet press-reprobates all-have combined in a dastardly endeavor to 'railroad" innocent men-members of our class-officers of a working class organization-whose only crime consists in being loyal to working class interests -to the gallows; and

Whereas, True to their anarchistic, social and Governmental concepts, these hostile forces hope to, and believe, that by murdering our brothers they will destroy progressive working class organization, and be in the future untrammeled in exploiting and coolieizing our class; and

Whereas, As class conscious workers, we view this latest outrage as an inrecurring, incessant and irrepressible class conflict, which is an inevitable result of the separate and hostile economic and political interests of capitalist society. And we point to this outrage as evidence that the class struggle is a robust, palpitating FACT, and not phantasmagoria; nor yet an invention of Socialists; and

Whereas, In this conflict all workers -will they, nill they-must play a part -either as sheep or soldier. They must be either submissive victims, active or passive upholders of wage slavery, and suffer themselves and posterity to be exploited and degraded without protest, or they must take up the arms and don the armor of class conscious workers and battle ceaselessly for its overthrow;

Whereas, If our brothers' lives are to be saved and future attacks upon our comrades thwarted, funds must be colected and organization of the working class upon proper lines must be promoted: therefore, be it

Resolved. That each and every one of us as class conscious wage workers constitute ourselves a committee of one for the purpose of organizing and enlightening the working class as to the issue before them :-- to the end that we may in future be in a position to say to these refined cannibals "THUS FAR AND NO FURTHER!"-for labor, organized and enlightened, will not tolerate in this twentieth century the crimes that in the past you have perpetrated;

Newport News, Va., March 30 .- The following resolutions were adopted by Local Union No. 30, Department of Machinists and Metal Workers of the Industrial Workers of the World, at their last regular meeting. The same have the indorsement of the section of the Socialist Labor Party of this city:

Whereas, The arrest and imprisonment of the officers of the Western Federation of Miners by the uncrowned kings of the Standard Oil type, make evident that a plot is on foot to murder these innocent men. The capitalist class are determined to have some more sacrifices from the working class and have a repetition of the year of 1887

Fellow workers, we herewith place on record the fact that we are alive to the latest move of the criminal capitalist class, as evidenced by the arrest of these brothers.

Fellow workers, let us remember the Paris Commune. The capitalist press that gloated with fiendish glee and spewed venom on the slaughtered proletariat of Paris in 1871, finds its fitting counterpart in the capitalist press of America to-day, which is ready to poison the public mind and turn loose the dogs of war on the working class.

The time for mere words have passed. It is now up to us to marshal our forces and get together for the conflict ahead; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Industrial Workers of the World of Newport News, Va., in meeting assembled, emphatically protest against the infamous action of the Governors of Colorado and Idaho, in railroading the officers of the Western Federation of Miners to jail, without a hearing, knowing that their express desire is to foully murder these innocent men, because they dared to maintain the rights of the workers; and, be it further

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to support the Western Federation of Miners both financially and by force of arms, if necessary, in their fight against the oppression of the Russianized tyranny of the capitalist class of the Rocky Mountain regions.

CHAPTER XX.

The evidence introduced by the defense was intended to show that members of the miners' union had no part in the plot to derail a train: that it was concocted and executed by detectives employed by the Mine Owners' Association; that the object of the association was to induce President Roosevelt to send Federal troops to the district, and that Detective Beckman had endeavored to persuade members of the union to join in the plot. The defense examined a large number of witnesses, some of whom testified that Beckman had endeavored to persuade them to commit acts of violence to win the strike. Others testified to prove alibis for Thomas and Parker. The defendants Thomas and Parker were acquitted. The only other trainwrecking case was one against McKinney. His bail had been reduced to $2.-000, and an attempt was made to get him out of jail on bond, S. A. Phipps and Edward Bell (who became sheriff after Sheriff H. M. Robertson was deposed, the following June) signing the bond, but Judge Lewis ordered the sheriff not to approve the bond, expressing the opinion that McKinney was guilty, as shown by his own and other testimony, and that he ought to be in the penitentiary. At the same time Judge Lewis increased the bond to $5,000. Several weeks afterward the district attorney, Henry Trowbridge, nolled the case against McKinney. On his release a complaint was filled against him, charging him with perjury in the trainwrecking case. He was released on $300 sociation was against this removal.

bond furnished by S. D. Crump. attorney for the Mine Owners' Association, and W. M. Bainbridge, superintendent of the El Paso Mine, Charles H. McCormick, superintendent of the Vindicator mine, and Melvin Beck, a shift boss, while on the cage descending the shaft of the mine on the morning of November 21, 1903, were almost, instantly killed by an explosion at the 600-foot level, where no work was being done. The executive committee of the Mine Owners' Association issued a statement charging the crime against the Western Federation of Miners, and offering a reward of $5,000 for evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of the perpetrator. The executive committee of the district union of the Western Federation of Miners issued a statement attributing the explosion to an accident. On November 22 the military authorities arrested about 15 men charged with being principals or accessories in the crime. The coroner's jury, composed of 6 men, some of them union men and some non-union men, returned the following verdict, signed by all: "From examination made at the mine and the evidence introduced, this jury is unable to determine the exact cause of said explosion." E. Lyman White, State Commissioner of Mines, in an official report, said that the death of the two men "was caused by deliberate intent on the part of some one unknown." Members of the Mine Owners' Associa-

persons arrested on the charge of causing the explosion were released. At the time of the explosion the mine was under guard and only non-union men were employed. No union man was allowed to enter the mine by the shaft. The 600-foot level might have been reached through some of the other openings to the mine. These openings, which were unused, were searched, but no evidence was found that anybody had entered the mine through them. At the place of the explosion the only clews found were a shattered pistol and several pieces of copper wire. Sheriff H. M. Robertson, Deputy District Attorney J. C. Cole, and employees of the mining company who were working at the mine when the explosion took place made a thorough examination of the premises and were convinced that the person or persons who took the explosives to the 600-foot level did so through the working shaft.

The theory of the Western Federaiton of Miners was that the owners of the mine wanted an explosion to affect public sentiment, and that McCormick and Beck planned for an explosion without loss of life, but that through some accident they themselves were killed. A pamphlet issued by the Federation answering charges brought against members of the Federation says:

When the explosion occurred at the Vindicator mine the property was guarded by the State militia, and it was not possible for any union men to have entered the mine. It is evident that Me-Cormick and Beck planned to bring off an explosion, as it was currently reported that the State militia was about to be ordered home and the Mine Owners' As-infernal machine, made some mistake, which resulted in their death. If the Vindicator cases had come to trial and were not nolle pressed by the district atterney, who is completely controlled by the Mine Owners' Association, indisputable evidence would have been produced to prove that Beck attempted to dynamite a cabin in Lake City that was occupied by five men, against one of whom he had a personal grudge, and also that the same Beck dynamited a mine in order to prevent a successful competitor from obtaining a lease.

In the train-wrecking cases the court records will show that McKinney was self-confessed criminal, that he was a hired detective of the Mine Owners' Association, and that he was employed for the sole purpose of attempting to wreck a train, and then place the blame on the Western Federation of Miners. By his own confession it was shown that he was promised $1,000 from the Mine Owners Association and transportation for himself and wife to any part of the world. It was further promised that in case he was convicted of the crime of train wrecking he was to receive an immediate pardon from Governor Peabody. District Attorney Trowbridge, in his statement to the jury, said that there was no possibility of McKinney being saved from the penitentiary, yet, regardless of the statement of the district atterney, regardless of the confession of McKinney convicting himself as the criminal, members of the Mine Owners' Asof Miners, but no evidence implicating sociation became his bondsmen to secure

CHAPTER XX.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found under the above caption a literal transcript of Chapter XX, Senate Document No. 122, 58th Congress, 3rd Session. The document is the official report on the Labor Disturbances in the State of Colorado from 1880 to 1904, inclusive. Every line of that "Chapter XX" should be carefully read, and the facts graven in the memory. They are a torch-light by which to observe recent events connected with the Colorado-Idaho affair-the assiduity of the Mine Owners' Association's Governors Gooding and McDonald in declaring Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone guilty; the value of the Orchard "confession"; the deep damnation of the language held by the reptile capitalist press of the land in shouting in chorus malediction upon the heads of the imprisoned men, and pronouncing them convicted murderers"; the lawless extradition proceedings; -in short the criminal character of the capitalist combine, back of the whole performance, and the overbearing impudence of the Pinkerton-Thiel detective contrivers of Chapter XX is a review of officially ded facts. It tells of the arrests in 1904 of three leading members of the Western Federation of Miners upon charges of train wrecking; it tells of the men's triumphant acquittal; it tells of the hirelings, detectives and others, of the Mine Owners' Ass'a., upon whose affidavits the men were arrested, breaking down wholly at the trial, admitting t they had concocted the plot themselves for the purpose of implicating the Union men, and that the crime was committed wholly by themselves; finally it tells how THE PERJURED AND SELF-CONFESSED CRIMINALS WERE RE-LEASED ON BOND FURNISHED BY S. D. CRUMP, ATTORNEY FOR THE MINE OWNERS' ASSOCIIATION, AND W. M. BAINBRIDGE, THE SUPERIN-TENDENT OF THE EL PASO MINE.

Comment is superfluous. Unerring was the instinct of the Working Class of the land when it scented black felony this recent Colorado-Idaho outrage. and, realizing that honor and justice are unknown articles to the Capitalist Class, whose hands are dripping with the blood of the Working Class, decided to do its own thinking and to take the matter in its own hands by emphatically raising voice of protest, turning the light upon the felon class, expose it red-handed and thus give a chance to RIGHTwhile getting ready wholly to dethrone WRONG.

THE LAW OF THE FUNNEL.

Judge O'Sullivan, the case being squarely put before him, gave it as his judicially deliberate opinion that the ac-tion of the insurance officials, in appropaign donations, was larceny. It came r all the categories that go to constitute the crime. Certain unavoidable

The $75,000 and the $48,000 given to Cornelius N. Bliss and subsequently to George Cortelyou was stolen goods. The receiving, knowingly, of stolen goods, penal offence, along with the original thief himself. Did Cornelius N. Bliss and George Cortelyou know that the moneys which they were receiving was ance officials had gone around among the roters and personally distributed moneys which they larcenied from the company, the voters would been guilty. They did know, they could not know, that the moneys distributed among them were stolen goods. They were justified in the presumption that the distributors of the moneys had gone down into their own pockets, and, moved by that patriotic abnegation that causes the capitalist to sacrifice himself upon the altars of country, had dug deep into their wen treasuries, their own hard savings; to save the country by electing the Republican party. As far as these voters ed they are free from guilt. Was that the case with Messrs. Bliss that the moneys were stolen goods. In- jumped out and said to the first man he deed, they themselves suggested, aye, arged the commission of the larceny by applying to the insurance comanies' officials for the companies' funds. The conclusion can not be escaped, from the premises laid down by Judge O'Sullivan, that Messrs. Bliss and Cortelyou were, knowingly, receivers of stolen goods. Mr. Cortelyou, the receiver of stolen goods in New York, is now in Washington, D. C., in Roosevelt's cabinet. Mr. Cortelyou is, accordingly, a fugitive from the justice of this state. The crime of receiving stolen goods is an extraditable offence. Has Gov. Higgins of New York issued requisition papers?

The question can only evoke laughter. Of course, the Governor of New York who has just throttled the threatened investigation of the hanking department. lest his cronies be exposed as criminals. will be the last man to issue regusition papers for the fugitive from justice Cortelyou. And if he did issue requisition papers, is anyone afflicted with such primitive simplicity as to imagine that Roosevelt would honor such papers? that he would refuse Cortelyou a hearing? that he would order a special train to convey the fugitive back to New York? that he would call out a regiment of his precious Rough Riders to man the train and keep servers of writs of habeas corpus from snatching the culprit out of the train? Of course not. Cortelyou would be given a hearing, and some legal fiction, such as that of "infinitesimal recess", would be resorted to in order to keep the fugitive receiver of stolen goods from being delivered "to the outraged majesty of the Law of the State of New York". In short, Cortelyou, the actual criminal and fugitive from justice, would receive all the consideration that was denied to the obviously innocent, and obviously non-fugitives from justice Moyer, Haywood and Petti-

There is in the Spanish language an expression-"Ley de embudo", the "law of the funnel"-that might as well be inducted into our own vernacular. The term illustrates the principle of capitalist administration of Law-broad, as one end of the funnel, for the Capitalist Class; narrow, as the other end of the funnel, for the Working Class.

ÓN PILGRIMAGE IN RUSSIA.

W. R. Van Lieu, until recently of Montana, is now in Dranzoul, in the Transcaucasian district of Russia, Mr. Van Lieu did not go to the Transcaucasus either for the sake of a trip across the Ocean, nor for the sake of a change of scenery, not yet for amusement. The gentleman went to Dranzoul on the same principle that pilgrims travel to a shrine from which to gather inspiration. Mr. Van Lieu was a department superintendent at the Washoe smelters. In his capacity of superintendent Mr. Van Lieu had occasion to come in contact with that wicked and impertinent rabble, called workingmen, that will not reconcile itself to the lot of being plundered of four-fifths of its product and, on top of that, being treated as a dog. Obedient to its vicious and un-American instinct of "kicking", the branch of that rabble, with which Mr. Van Lieu had to deal, not only "kicked" but had the temerity of organizing, so as to impart greater vigor to its "kicks". Obviously something was wrong; obviously also something had to be done or the Van-Lieu social structure would come crashing down over the ears of the Van Lieu "Pillars of Society". Alert of mind, quick to form a plan and as quick to put it into execution, Mr. W. R. Van Lieu concluded that Russia was the fountain in manly breast, invigorate his teeming mind and refresh his patriotic spirit, and thither he decided to make a pilgrimage. Thus the gentleman landed in Dranzon of the Transcaucasus. That he is making good use of his time and opportunities the Anaconda, Mont., "Standard' hastens to inform his numerous admirers and fellow members of the Mine Owners' Association.

Writing from Dranzoul, Mr. Van Lieu grows enthusiastic over General Alikhanoff's ways of handling impertment workingmen. He can not wait till he comes home to tell the tale and unload what he learned. He must unload in advance. He says:

"It does one's heart good to know of the way Gen. Alikhanoff is suppressing the strikes here. Gen. Alikhanoff is the man, who, a few years ago, suppresse the uprising in Central Asia, and when he got through, like the boy and the apple, 'there wasn't any core left'.

"He started out a few weeks ago hearing that a branch line of the railroad running from Tiflis to Kars was going out on strike; he went to the end of the line and ordered the chief of the station to have an engine put on his train.

"'I can't. We're going on strike.' "'Ah, is that so?'

"Turning to his petty officer, he said Take him out and string him up.' A few minutes after he was dangling an engine came steaming in to pick up his train. quarter of the railroad line's staff was gathered up he hitched an engine to the three cars and they have not been heard of since. Needless to say, no strike occurred.

"At Kutais, three hours' distance from here, when Alikhanoff arrived 160 of the ringleaders were tried by courtmartial and shot "

Thus the pilgrim Van Lieu proceeds column after column, and he closes with the jubilant whoop:

"Strike law exists all over Russia today and under it any man who incites men to strike can be taken out without any formality to be strung up to a

IS GOLD AT THE BOTTOM?

Speaking before the Political Economy Club of the University of Chicago, on the 21st of March, George E. Roberts, superintendent of the United States mint, said:

"Within the next 20 years the world's gold supply will be more than doubled. The discovery of new gold fields in the Transvaal, Colorado and other places within the last decade, the advancement in the mechanical and metallurgical treatment of low-grade ores, and the more scientific methods of mining have placed the world in a position paralleled only by the periods following the discovery, of America."

For some little time past, statements -casual and deliberate, official and unofficial-have been filtering through the press that pointed to a near-at-hand phenomenal increase of the gold out-put. The discovery of new gold fields figured, on the whole, less conspicuously in the causes of the Processe than the improved methods. What with the one and the other, careful scanners of the horizon apprehended evil rather than good in the anticipated gold deluge, Prices, it was justly feared, would be so affected, that gold might cease to be the desirable standard; political commotion would be the result; not unlikely a movement would be set on foot to demonetize gold in favor of silver, and a presidential campaign might be looked forward to in which the language, of a McKinley in 1896 would be held by the Bryans, and the language of a Bryan would be held by the McKinleys of that year. While this forecast, sound though it be in economics and its political reflexes, was from the start remote, certain events have occurred and are occurring now, that justify the belief that the recent discoveries of gold fields in Colorado, to-gether with the vastly improved methods of treating lower-grade ore, is of such importance as immediately to reflect itself in social manifestations. The question is suggested, Are the desperately high-handed proceedings of the Colorado-Idaho Mine Owners' Association, in the endeavor to crash through all barriers of resistance on the part of their employes, an immediate result of the now increased possibilities in gold production? Is gold at the bottom of the desperado conduct of Idaho's and Colorado's officialdom against Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone and St. John? It is an observation amply substantiated by history that facilities of production have a tendency, not to alleviate the burden of the toiler, but to act as a rod of scorpions upon his back This is especially the case when the facilities of production, or the remuneration therefor, are, from any cause, materially improved. It is a point that has been re peated again and again by the historians of the country that slavery in America received its impetus from the invention of the cotton gin. Before then, slavery in this country was but an incident. Afterwards it become a unique institution. Slavery among the Remans was cruel enough, but its cruelty was of the nature of the cruelty bred by excessive luxury. Slavery in America was an economic factor, the horrors of which transcend all previous experiences. The breeding of slaves, the deliberately rend ing of the family ties of the toiler, all for the sake of the cash that was in it, -that was a result of the vastly improved facilities for the exploitation of cotton that the cotton gin ushered in. The rod of iron with which the slave was formerly run, now became a rod of scorpious. A similar experience was observed in Cuba. The days of the real agonies of the slave broke upon him on the island with the discovery of the vast sugar cane fields. May not be the conduct of the gold mine owners of the West towards the toiler in their mines be intimately connected with the discoveries that render his toil more fruitful?

No more than the slave in Cuba be fore the Age of the Sugar Plantation, nor the slave in the United States before the Age of the Cotton Gin, was the life of the Colorado gold miner a life of dignified repose before 1894. Remarkable, however, is the circumstance that exactly within the last decade—the exact period during which the Superintendent of the mint states the discoveries of new gold fields were made in Colorado, and improved methods had been adopted -the war, because war it is, was started by the mine owners against the Western Federation of Miners. It is with 1894 that the first outrages were initiated by the mine owners against the union and these outrages, waxing in violence in the measure that the intrepid miner of fered successful resistance, have during these last three years been rapidly developing until they reached the present acute crisis-conspiracy with the aid of Pinkerton-Thiel skipjacks to murder the officers of the Union.

History repeats itself only where con ditions are exactly alike. The quartering of men who resisted the royal prerogatives of the British Crown repeated itself until the day came when conditions had changed so materially that not the resister of the royal prerogative, but the royal prerogative itself lost its head upon the scaffold. More than one revolt against British dominion was smothered in these colonies until the day came when the changed conditions smothered, not the revolt, but the power that was revolted against, and the independent United States was born Many an attempt to strike the shackles from the slave resulted in the tar-andfeathering of the inspired apostle of freedom, the riding him upon rails, ave, the killing of him, yet the day came when the tar-and-featherers, together with the whole Bourbon-Copperhead pack, was made to bite the dust. And so again now. History has been repeating itself in the matter of added oppression to Labor in the measure that Labor's toil promised quicker and ampler abundance to the exploiter, but the monotony of that prattle is about to change The earnest of the change lies in the determined front with which the Western Federation of Miners, with Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone, St. John at its head, has bid defiance to the exploiting class-a defiance so successful that the Mine Owners' Associa tion has become outre, has lost its head, and has begun to run amuck.

Whether, or not gold is at the bottom of the Idaho-Colorado performance, history is, in this matter, about to adapt itself to the changed conditions, and utter the speech that these conditions dic-

HAS BELL CHANGED HIS JOB? The Indianapolis, Ind., "News" come out with a lurid editorial against the Western Federation of Miners. It is the wildest, the most reckless of any that has yet run into this office. The paper declares that "many of the crimes com mitted by the Western Federation of Miners have been avowed by leaders of the organization and avowed with pride." The rest of the article is of the stamp of that sentence. Its tenor suggests the question. Has the redoubtable "Gen." Sherman Bell been engaged by the "News" as Editor? The article forcibly reminds one of the delirium tremens rhapsodies of the "Gen." at the time that he was running the State of Colo-

On June 11, 1904, five days after the Independence, Colo., explosion, the "Gen." announced to an enraptured gath ering of members of the Mine Owners Association, and the capitalist press of the land echoed the announcement far and wide:

"I have indisputable evidence in my ossession which will lead to the con viction of a number of union men for the murder of the non-union miners who were killed in the Independence depot explosion. We have betwen thirty-five and forty of them in the bull pen who will swing for this crime. We are only awaiting to capture two or three more men before we will tell what our evi-

Needless to say that not a single conviction resulted, "notwithstanding the act," as the "Miners' Magazine" justly states, "the official machinery of the State was in the hands of the Mine Owners' Association and the corporations of Colorado." Moreover, as "Chapter XX" proved, the boasters over crime are the Mine Owners' Association members.

The "Gen." was in one of his delirium tremens fits-that worst sort of delirium tremens that comes from drinking in of imaginary fumes of blood. The friends of the "Gen."-even such a reptile has his friends-declare he is not responsible. That must be the case with the Editor of the Indianapolis "News." A person must be irresponsibly drunk-whether with whiskey or the imaginary fumes of blood-to utter such monstrous calum

A Brace of Specim ns. Even "Neater."

The Daily People of last March 1, Weekly of March 10, had occasion to exhibit a "Neat Specimen' of Volkszeitung Corporation density on the subject of Trades Unionism, by convicting the man out of his own mouth as incapable of understanding the facts against which he bumps his own nose, consequently utterly unfit for the role of leadership which he presumes to play in the American Labor Movement. The papers of the corporation-"Volkszeitung" and "Worker"-again furnish opportunity to preach the word of sense on the burning question of Trades Unionism by nailing their ears to the pillory of fact, of a fact again quoted by themselves, no less a fact than the words of Marx himself. and which, in their incorrigible density, they quote and seek to palm off upon the unsuspecting readers as arguments against the Industrial Workers of the World and the Socialists who support that organization.

As is well known, the Trades Union attitude of the S. L. P. and the posture of the I. W. W. is this:-The economic organization of the working class is the groundwork for the political party of Labor, the latter being the reflex of the former; according as the economic organization is sound, the working class will be united economically, and that economic soundness and unity will be reflected in the rise of a united party of Socialism. This basic principle leads to certain unavoidable conclusions; the conclusions, together with the principles from which they flow, determine the posture of the I. W. W. and the Trades Union attitude of the Socialist Labor Party. These may be summed up in the following tenets:

First. The economic organization is essential to the emancipation of the working class;

Second. The political movement of Labor is indispensable in the struggle for emancipation:

Third. The available political move ment of Socialism must be the direct off-shoot from the class-consciously economically organized working class:

Fourth. The political movement, that is available in the struggle for Labor's emancipation, is in duty bound to recognize its parent and source: "Neutrality' can not be found in its vocabulary: where that word is found, it is evidence of the spuriousness of the alleged political movement; and, lastly

Fifth. There is an obvious connection between the political and the economic movement of Labor-no less and no stronger a connection than there is between the scouts of an army and the army itself: indispensable as its scouts are to an army, so indispensable is its political movement to the integrally, industrially organized working class; as unessential as its scouts are the army's final act battle, so unessential is the political movement for that final act of emancipation which consists in the "taking and holding" of the productive powers of the land. It is "without affiliation" with its scouts that an army delivers battle: "without affiliation" with its political arm the working class, embattled in its industrially constructed economic organization, moves into possession and ousts the capitalist class. It is unnecessary to pursue, through all its devious doublings, windings,

twistings and irrelevancies, the theory of the pure and simple political Socialists, which the A. F. of Hellized Volkszeitung Corporation seeks to impose upon the Socialist party. Suffice it to point out the obvious fact that, as a matter of course, the Corporation is | Was Marx, perchance, advocating poopposed to the posture of the I. W. W. litical scabbery? Was the Unionism and consequently to the Trades Union attitude of the S. L. P. Was the 17-a conversation that a certain Unionism that Marx contemplated, as a Hamann, the treasurer of a Union, reports to have had with Marx in Germany, in the year 1869. We shall make no point of the fact that the two Corporation papers mutilate the Hamann report; nor shall we make any particular point of the fact that the English poodle of the Corporation, "The Worker," improves upon the mutilation by toning down and even falsifying the language of Marx. We shall let that pass, and, in order all the more completely to expose the attempted swindle upon the public take the mutilation as it stands The fragment is opened with a ques tion that Hamann reports he put to

"Is it a prerequisite for the fitness of the Trades Union that it be dependent upon a political organization?"

Marx's answer follows

"The Trades Union should never be con-nected with, nor made dependent upon a political party, if the former is to fulfill its task. The moment that is done, the death-blow is dealt to it. The Trades Union is the school for Socialism. In the Trades Union the workingman is trained into a Socialist, because there the struggle with capital is daily carried on under their very eyes. All political parties, whatever their complexion may be, and without exception, warm up the working class only for a season, transitorily. The Trades Union, on the the contrary, captures the mass of the workingmen permanently. ONLY THE TRADES UNION IS CAPABLE OF SETTING ON POOT 4 TRUE POLITICAL PARTY OF LABOR, AND THUS RAISE A BULWARK AGAINST THE POWER OF CAPITAL. The bulk of the workingmen have reached the point where they realize that their material condition must be improved, regardless of what party they may belong to. Now, then, the moment the material condition of the workingman is improved, he can devote himself more to the education of his children; his wife and little ones need not wander into the factory's be himself, can all the more improved. little ones need not wander into the fac-tory; he himself can all the more improve his own mind and see to his physical well-being;—he will become a Socialist without suspecting it."

Is there any comfort to be drawn from this answer, by the pure and simple political Socialist? The term "political party" recurs therein several times—one time as a thing that can "warm up the working class only for a season, transitorily, another time as the "only true political party of Labor,' and in this latter instance it is spoken of as the product "only [of] the Trades Union," which is expressly stated as being alone "capable of setting on foot" such a "true political party of Labor," the function of which party, moreover, is characterized as a "bulwark against the power of capital," by no means as the weapon that can settle the question. /It would be to impute to Marx an obvious contradiction, a contradiction that his express words deny, to construe the term "political party" as referring in one place to the identical concept that it refers to at the start of his answer. Marx was no lunk-head. Never did he contradict himself. He had two distinct "political parties" in mind-the reformers' party and the Labor party. When at the start of his answer he says that it would be a death-blow for the Union to be at all connected with a "political party" he can not have meant a minute later that it would be equally a death-blow for the Union to be at all connected with that "true political party of Labor," which he himself says the Union alone is "capable of setting on foot," or be the economic representative of. Indeed, the answer given by Marx to Hamann, together with other and similiar passages in Marx's works will be noticed to be the corner-stone upon which the Preamble of the I. W. W. is reared, and upon which is planted that passage in Daniel De Leon's address on "The Preamble of the Industrial Workers of the World" in which, speaking of the political clauses in the Preamble, he says: "In 'this sentence of the Preamble is condensed what may be called the code of Marxian 'tactics,' as distinguished from the code of Marxian 'economics'; the code of 'action,' as distinguished from the code of 'theory,'" Marx's position on this head is, on the political subject, the line close along which the I. W. W. hewed its course. That position-"Only the Trades Union is capable of setting on foot a true political party of Labor and thus raise a bulwark against the power of capital"-demonstrates conclusively the correctness of each and all of the five I. W. W. and S. L. P. tenets enumerated above, which culminate with that which denies that the political movement can "take and hold," deliver the battle, so to speak, and that places the political as the dependent upon and the off-shoot of the economic movement, and not as the all important part of the movement, as the pure and

Was the Unionism, whose posture Marx spoke of as affording opportunity for acquaint ance with "the class struggle with capi tal, by being daily carried on under the very eyes" of the membership, the A. Marx was the last man to be skulls of both pure and simple poli, the taken in with the deception of judging a thing by its label-of considering everything a "Union" which it suits grafters to label by that name. The list of things enumerated by Marx as accomplishable by the Union is an inventory that particularizes the anti-Union ism of A. F. of Hellism, and strips it of the mask of Unionism.

And yet such an utterance by Marxa veritable hailstorm of cracks over the pillory of fact.

WORD FROM HAYWOOD. Caldwell, Idaho, March 18, 1906. Daniel De Leon:

Dear Comrade-Your letter of the 7th instant and circular mailed New York, March 10, are received. Not a copy of the Weekly or Daily People has reached us yet. However, the sheriff informed us this morning a large bundle of papers now in the Boise Post Office would be delivered to-morrow. I am especially anxious to get The People to keep acquainted with progress of the I. W. W. The People affords up-to-date information on this all important subject. We are likewise arkious to read the earnest support that we know will come through the same medium.

We realize how you and all our friends and sympathizers feel. We will try and prove worthy of your comradeship in the battle for Industrial Freedom.

I am fraternally yours, Wm. D. Haywood.

SWELLING THE DEFENSE. To the Daily and Weekly People:

Inclosed please find P. O. order for $70, contribution to defense fund of Charles A. Moyer, William D. Haywood and other officers of the Western Federation of Miners, whom the mine owners of Colorado and Idaho, on perjured testimony, would railroad to the gallows. Fraternally yours,

THOMAS J. POWERS. Olneyville, R. I., March 28.

GOOD FOR ST. JOHN! To the Daily and Weekly People:-The following incident is about Vincent St. John, now much in the public eye in connection with the Idaho-Colorado situation, and of whom mine owners' detectives said, according to the Denver "Rocky Mountain News" of February "St. John has given the mine owners of the district more trouble in the past year than any twenty men up there. LEFT UNDISTURBED HE WOULD HAVE THE ENTIRE DIS-TRICT ORGANIZED IN ANOTHER YEAR. As it is, there are hundreds of miners added to the union membership through his efforts." It was told to me recently by a miner, and is indicative of the manner of man and sort of spirit that these conflicts develop in the miners of the inter-mountain region. Some three years or so ago, in/a cafe in Telluride, a judge of the district court walked up to St. John and said: "We have met frequently, but we have never been introduced. Allow me to introduce myself, for there is something about you,

St. John promptly and curtly replied: Tell me what it is that you like, you blankety-blank, and I'll cut it out."

St. John, that I admire."

I am told that St. John is not a talkologist, but is active, nervous, reticent, ever brags of the past nor threatens a mise for the future. A true revoonist looks upon the praise of the my just as St. John in the foregoing

The full minutes puts it in this wise: "The meeting then adjourned to meet Sunday, February 18, 2 p. m., at Liberty Hall, Spring and Shippen streets, West Hoboken.

"The Conference adjourned with the mutual recognition on both sides that the press of the movement is its greatest weapon, and that whatever the difficulties arising from Party ownership of the press, they are trifling compared to what such difficulties become when the material interests of individual ownership sway them, or when designing or ambititous men control the private press. The Conference recognized that party ownership and control of the press of the movement are essential to the party safety.

THE "MORAL" GYRATIONS OF COM-

To the Daily and Weekly People-That "open letter" to Anthony Comstock in the Weekly People of March 17th was the best thing of its kind I have seen printed for many a day. Twelve years ago I took the Truth Seeker of New York and its columns were replete with reports of this moral gymnast and his efforts were so ridiculed and belittled by the liberals of those days, that the poor fellow was on the verge of "throwing up the sponge" and sinking out of sight in tween keeping these on a run from one town to another, and answering the rebuffs and jests of a laughing public, he was indeed kept very busy.

It is safe to predict that this last 'game" will prove as elusive as the first, but experience can never improve the

As the editor has answered him s handsomely and shown up his folly so completely, this moral champion will now "retaliate' by holding up the S. L. P. to the gaze of the church, as "enemies to morality and civilization."

This old game always "works," and many good people will be deceived for a time; but, as you can't fool all the people all the time, this chastisement, in more than it cost. How slick and suave when they need help to carry out their fads of impossibilism; but their attitude changes quickly, when asked to investigate any measure for the betterment of humanity from a practical standpoint.

Their answer is invariably the same.

I wonder if Anthony Comstock would distinction, is exhaustively explicit on also incompetent to give any opinion.

circulate among his dupes, the By-Laws slave gets is, not the VALUE of his laand platforms of the I. W. W. and Socialist parties, in exchange for the same laws and regulations of his own order, and be willing to trust to the judgment of each reader as to which organization he would join, to accomplish in the quickest and most effective way, the "suppression of gamblers"—big and little?

You bet he'd never have time to answer the suggestion. His grandmother would be dying at that moment, or, he'd get a telegram from Rome to confer with the Pope, or—as a last resort—he might collapse from heart failure; -anything rather than allow his hypnotized followers to come in contact wit hsuch merciless bombs as De Leon's Minneapolis speech, and Debs' accompanying argument on "Pure and simple Unionism." That pamphlet alone would loosen the scales from the most biggotted republican and put him on a basis of reason and common sense. It will be a sad day for the leaders of bogus reform associations when their numbers resolve to compare sides, and study their interests as a class. That day is slowly dawning, and in the organization known as the Industrial Workers of the World, I see the reflection and outlines of the future Co-Operative Commonwealth.

Hattie F. Hadley. Lynden, Wash., March 24.

HONORED BY EXCOMMUNICATION. To the Daily and Weekly People-I was expelled for being a member of I. W. W., by Local 552, International Association of Machinists, with Pope O'Connell at the helm. I consider it an honor. The order was issued from Washington, D. C., by Pope Jas. O'Con-S. Bassett. Wayeross, Ga., March 24.

GETTING ONTO THEM. To The Daily and Weekly People:

The following resolutions were adopted by Local Globe, S. P.:

Recognizing the fact that no reforms under the capitalistic rule will ever benefit the working class, that nothing but the complete overthrow of the capitalistic system, and the establishing of the Co-operative Commonwealth will ever emancipate the workers from wage slavery, and it is material for the revolution we want, and not the reform vote; therefore, in our opinion National Referendum A is a move on the part of the reform element within the Socialistic Party, to take the party from the real working class movement and make of it a reform party. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Local Globe, vote down the said referendum and denounce the so-called leaders and the Socialistic press for the compromising tactics they are using. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each local of the S. P. of Arizona for their action on the same, and a copy be sent to the Socialistic press for publication. Fraternally LOCAL GLOBE submitted,

AS TO THE "SOCIALIST POSTERS ISSUED BY THE INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE".

To the Daily and Weekly People:would be very much obliged if you will let me know through the Letter Box if the two posters, Socialist Poster No. by the International Institute of Social Science, are reliable to use in general agitation and conversation. I send the Posters by seperate cover. W. W. New York, March 24.

The two posters are full of serious errors. The errors in Poster No. 1 are of too involved a nature for cursory handling. The errors in Poster No. 2 are more obvious. For instance:

1st, The wages received by the workingmen (census 1900) are made to appear in the poster as part of the "Total VALUE of labor power used in production". The including of "wages" in the term "VALUE of labor power" is false economics. The error is all the more serious seeing that, of the amount ($5,-815,000,000) denominated "Total value of labor power used in production", more then two-thirds (4,129,000,000) are admittedly wages. Even if the remaining less than one-third (1,626,000,000) given as the "value of labor" in the product of farmers, farm tenants, artisans, shopkeepers, etc., be correctly estimated and be correctly called "VALUE of labor", the gross of the total ($5,815,000,000) no wise belongs under the category of "value" of labor power, they are the "price" of labor power in the labor market. The mistaking or jumbling the "value" of labor power for or together with the "price" of labor power is a nest from which a swarm of errors of reasoning flow daily. The error can not be too carefully guarded against. The error recurs throughout that poster. Marx, the question. realizing the serious importance of the consider a proposition from our side to the fact that what, in practice, the wage bor power, but the PRICE of his labor power. American capitalism is the thing in practice. 2nd, The "share of productive labor in its product" (census 1900) is given in the poster as 23.74 per cent. This is another serious economic error. Statistical tables, intended to portray the amount to which labor is exploited, limp fatally if they stop at the figures for wages received. They must be accompanied by the retail price that labor has to pay with those same wages for the goods that it consumes. The wages paid to labor in the factory to produce a yard of calico will not purchase a yard of the same stuff at retail. Veritable mare's nests do those tumble into who overlook this fact. It is an error that leads directly to the populist mistake of looking at money regardless of its purchasing power. When the purchasing power is considered of the 23.74 per cent. of the share that productive labor receives as wages in the shop, that purchasing power will be found to be between 17-18 per cent. of labor's product-and THAT IS THE REAL "SHARE OF LABOR IN ITS PRODUCT".

3rd, The poster distinguishes between 'a primary market, where the product, consisting chiefly in raw materials, is sold at the places of production", and "a wholesale market, where the product, consisting partly in materials and partly in finished articles, is sold in large blocks". The distinction is whimsical and misleading. There is no such distinction in fact. Bales of calico (manufacture) are sold "at the places of production" as well as bales of cotton (raw material); and bales of cotton (raw material) are sold "in large blocks" as well as bales of calico (manufacture.) The fact is that, outside of the retail shops, both raw material and manufacture are sold in a wholsale market. THE WORLD'S MARKET, AT THE WORLD'S MARKET PRICES. The distinction attempted in the poster is unscientific; it beclouds the international feature of "values" and "prices" at this advanced stage of capitalism-a feature, the overlooking of which, likewise leads into economic and utopian mare's nests untold.

These few instances will give a clue to the more involved errors latent in poster No. 1. For these reasons we can not recommend the posters as reliable .-ED. THE PEOPLE.1

THE TIMES THAT CALL FOR TRUTH.

In the "Western Clarion" issue, I think, of March 3, there appears an article from the pen of Mr. Weston Wrigley, a member of the Socialist party of Canada, Toronto branch, dealing with the activity of the local branch during the winter months. In the course of his remarks Wrigley takes occasion to tell how the I. W. W. endeavored to make a bear garden out of the Mailly meeting, but that at the Debs meeting they were upon their good behavior. Also that it is extremely amusing to see the memters of the I. W. W., who were formerly in the S. L. P. here, repudiate their former posture and follow De Leon in his anarchistic belittling of the ballot.

made in his letter upon that phase of

In the first assertion, the facts are that the I. W. W. members at the Mailly in its employ; and meeting asked legitimate questions and acted as gentlemen; the only thing bearish was that the questions were pointed and distressing to the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Mailly. In the second assertion the facts are that autocracy prevailed and no questions were allowed. The third assertion is false and based upon prejudice or malice, or ignorance all inexcusable in a professing REVO-LUTIONARY Socialist. If Wrigley has not made himself acquainted with the principles of the I. W. W. and its attiand, be it further tude on the coming together on the economic and political field, then he simply is a human graphophone into whose ear and a copy be sent to Comrade Hoeken's some one has poured the mis-statements

Then upon De Leon's attitude he is

His assertion shows ignorance and is again fulfilling his function of a graphophone. Any one who cares to inquire into the position of the S. L. P., as voiced by De Leon, knows that that party has not "anarchistically belittled the ballot," but on the contrary has recognized the ballot in the past and today recognizes the ballot: but realizes its powers and limitations, in contradistinction to those gentlemen who have not learned, or will not learn, from the mass of facts lying around them that the ballot and the political field have their necessary function and that the economic has its necessary function, each incomplete without the other.

These men, whose whole horizon is obstructed by the name De Leon are anarchists, not Socialists. They consciously or unconsciously, it matters not, seek to destroy an organization at what they are pleased to consider its head. The man who allows himself to take up the cry of "De Leon," or "S. L. P.," without investigating the why and the wherefore of the matter, simply plays into the hands of those whose aim it is to make an issue out of non-essentials, to the end that the unwary may be lead into a blind alley, while the dupers laugh and profit by virtue of their chicanery. De Leon is not the I. W. W. Trautmann is not the I. W. W. Sherman is not the I. W. W. Haywood is not the I. W. W., but to broaden what Haywood said: "There are plenty of De Leons, have convicted out of hand men of Trautmanns, Shermans, Haywoods, Movers. Petitbones and St. Johns born. and in embryo, in the I. W. W. The political and economic movement of the revolutionary working class cannot be disrupted and destroyed by either the capitalist anarchist, or the "Socialist" anarchist, for the reason that to wipe it one man or a dozen men but the whole rank and file of those revolutionary organizations of the wage slaves, the economic and political.

The times are times for truths, not misrepresentations of a parrot-like naand calumny against the I. W. W. on the part of the capitalist press and their able servitors, the so-called Socialist press, will simply cause the ranks of the I. W. W. to close up and the revolutionary spirit to grow stronger. So keep it up if you think those tactics will avail against a rapidly awakening working class.

James M. Reid, President Local 198. Toronto, Can., March 23.

GEORGE E. HOEKEN.

To the Daily and Weekly People:-Comrade George E. Hoeken, a member of Section Minneapolis, was killed on March 17, while riding on an open flat car on one of the Twin City Rapid Transit Company's lines, in whose employ he was. An example of the small value in which capitalists hold the lives of the wage slaves whom they exploit is evidenced by the fact that the men employed by the above named company are compelled to ride back and forth to places where construction work is being done in open flat cars, the sides of which come within six inches of center poles which support the overhead trolley wires. Comrade Hoeken, sitting on the floor of the flat car with his back to the sides, the swaying of the car brought his head in contact with one of these poles; and he received a concussion from which he died within an hour.

Despite the fact that at the time of his death Comrade Hoeken had on his person his card of membership in the Socialist Labor Party and the addresses of several comrades, the hireling capitalist officials, no doubt wishing to seize the occasion to show their contempt for a militant member of the working class, designated Comrade Hoeken as an unknown man and took no steps whatever to communicate the fact of his death to any one of his acquaintances.

At an extra meeting of Section Minneapolis, called to take some action on the death of Comrade Hoeken, the following resolutions were adopted: Whereas, Comrade George E. Hoeken has been removed from our midst by being killed while in the employ of the local street railway company and through its characteristic negligence in safeguarding the lives of the wage slaves Whereas, Comrade Hoeken had no illusions or delusions as to the true merchandise character of himself and all other members of his class, and was always active in propagating the doctrine of working class interests amongst his fellow wage workers; therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the members of Section Minneapolis, deeply deplore in the loss of Comrade Hoeken a wideawake and aggressive comrade and a militant member of the wage slave class;

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this meeting relatives and a copy be sent to the party press for publication. Peter Reil, Organizer.

Boise, Idaho, March 26.-Attorney John F. Nugent, one of the counsel for the officers of the Western Federation of Miners, under indictment charged with the murder of Governor Steunenberg, was asked by a reporter this morning for a statement concerning the story circulated that an attempt might be made to release Mover Haywood and Pettibone from the Ada county jail, in which they are now being held to await trial. Mr. Nugent said: "Since Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone were removed from the penitentiary both they and ourselves have been elected; the conference then adjourned treated with the utmost kindness, courtesy and consideration by the officers of Canvon and Ada counties

"We believe that the story now being circulated throughout the country, to the forcibly release our clients, from custody,

What were those events and what those discoveries? Last November a midshipman at Annapolis. Branch by name, was killed by a fellow student named Meriweather. About a month later another midshipman, Kimbrough, came near dying. The two cases were not exactly parallel. The former could not be said to be a case of hazing, proper. Branch had made fun of the orthography of Meriweather's grandmother, a letter from whom he had just received, and also passed strictures upon her color. A "challenge" ensued with Branch's death as the result. In the Kimbrough case the lad had been made to stand upon his head till he lost consciousness; he was then revived by throwing water upon his face and again made to stand upon his head until he dropped almost dead. While the latter case proceeded directly from hazing and the former did not, yet were the two not wholly disconnected. Both sprung from a common trunk-THE TRAINING TO KILL. There were 281 other cases uncovered. They did not reach the seriousness of either the Branch-Meriweather nor the Kimbrough incident. In all, with but few excepcruelty and-the frequent companion of cruelty-obscurity. Representative Stanley of Kentucky, expressed astonishment at the difficulty to make the "boys" behave. The bill was passed in the pious hope that it would make them behave. Idle hope. There is not a military or naval academy in the world where periodically such outrages as the Branch-Meriweather and Kimbrough affair do not break out. If it is true-and who will deny the fact?-that man is very materially affected by his occupation, it must follow that a training of several years with killing as its objective point must promote cruelty, coarseness, roughness and all the qualities that kindle unamiable sentiments. The debate on the bill brought out amply that discipline is not the feature of the Annapolis training. The feature of that training may be gathered from the circumstance that in increasing number West Point and Annapolis graduates are appointed superintendents of factories and other establishments where large numbers of workingmen are employed. These superintendents are not appointed to keep discipline. Without a knowledge of the subject matter, the enforcement of order is impossible These superintendents don't know the first thing about these factories. Their subalterns see to the "order." What the appointees of naval and military training are expected to do is to browbeat the employes, and, in cases of strikes, outrage them. For that their West Point and Annapolis training, of which "hazing," inevitable hazing, is a feature.
